Guards Battle to Save Boats.

Lake Michigan's swollen and storm lashed waters quieted somewhat yesterday following a savage twenty-four hour assault upon the Chicago shore line, which smashed already damaged walls and breakwaters, closed the outer drives to traffic, flooded basements, and wrought havoc in the boat harbors, giving coast guardsmen a sleepless night.

Already two feet above city datum, the highest May level since 1918, the lake rose Saturday nearly another foot under the impetus of a 30 mile wind.

(City datum is 579.94 feet above sea level. It was established by a city ordinance 75 years ago on the basis of the normal lake level of that period.)

Waves ten to twenty feet high surged in along the lake shore from Wilmette to South Chicago, reaching their highest about midnight, when the wind velocity increased to 50 miles. It was not until 8 a. m. that the gale modified and the breakers began to subside. The damage is expected to run into thousands of dollars.

One of Worst Nights in Years.

"One of the worst nights we have had for years," was the statement of Capt. John A. Anderson of the central coast guard station.

How the coast guards spent the night was graphically related in Capt. Anderson's official report, which follows in part:

"At 3 o'clock Sunday morning lookout reported ship adrift and tumbling in waves half mile off the lake shore at foot of Roosevelt road. Wind between fifty-five and sixty miles an hour. Seas billowing waves from twenty to twenty-two feet high. Observation confirmed suspicion that boat was scow and derrick of United States army engineers, earlier reported to have parted lines at the south pier, with only the caretaker on board.

Lifeboat Crashes Against Scow.

"With eight men put out in lifeboat Storm Warrior. Got contact with derelict at 3:30 a. m. Got towline aboard derelict. Force of wind and waves made towing impossible. Scow and lifeboat bounded over high sea with no control possible. Lifeboat crashed at midstarboard against bow of scow. Stove in lifeboat. Gap two feet square. Had to plug with jackets—even underwear—of crew.

"Signaled for aid. Dunham Towing company's tug Sinclair came out. Took us all in tow. Returned to station without further mishap.

"Earlier in night we had towed in three ships which had dragged their moorings from the pier of the Chicago Yacht club. Failed to save a sailboat which had gone to pieces off the foot of Roosevelt road."

Save Three Men in Motor Boat.

The unidentified boat which was destroyed later was found to have been the Canda, a thirty foot yacht owned by the Eagle club. It was torn loose from its anchor at the Columbia Yacht club off Monroe street with no one on board and drifted to the foot of Roosevelt road, where it was pounded to pieces on the rocks and sank, with only its mast remaining above the water. Capt. Anderson said he did not think it was worth salvaging.

Another adventure of Capt. Anderson's men, not recorded in his report, was the rescue of three men whose motor boat stalled a half mile off Jackson park. The boat, owned by J. W. [illegible], 6139 Kimball avenue, was towed to the Jackson Park Yacht club.

At the Evanston coast guard station the night was almost as exciting, with Capt. Otto Fricke and his men laboring three early morning hours to prevent the wholesale destruction of boats in the Wilmette harbor. At 2 a. m. Capt. Fricke's crew began a desperate struggle to keep the tossing vessels at anchor and did not succeed in fastening them all until nearly 5 a. m. At dawn they returned to their station and continued piling sand bags and rock ballast to stem the waves which have threatened to wash away its foundation.

Throughout Saturday night whitecaps swept over the lake shore drives, flooding them with water and sand, and making them impassable for automobiles. Between Grant park and [illegible] street the outer drive was barricaded for six hours. Lincoln park police, in charge of Lieut. Charles Wil[illegible] closed the north drive between North and Belmont avenues at 9 p. m., keeping it clear until noon yesterday. In Evanston fifty feet of driveway a-

U. S. INSPECTOR KILLED TESTING NOVICE FLYER

Maj. Noyes Victim of Kankakee Crash.

Maj. Josef Noyes, department of commerce aviation inspector for Illinois and, in that capacity, examiner of pilots seeking commercial licenses, was killed last evening when a two seater plane piloted by the last of five novices he was testing crashed on the takeoff at the Kankakee municipal airport, two miles south of Kankakee, Ill.

The pilot, Frank Graves, 27 years old of Lowell, Ind., who had been flying a year, escaped with injuries. At St. Mary's hospital, Kankakee, it was said last night that he had a good chance to recover.

Novice at Controls.

Investigators said Graves owed his life to the fact that he was in the rear seat at the controls when the plane hovered an instant at the take-off, slipped into a nose dive, and plunged 65 feet, burying the engine a foot deep in the ground while a tangle of wire, steel, and fabric piled above with the major's body in the wreckage.

It had been a gala day at the airport. The fringes of the field were crowded with aviation enthusiasts, eager to see the fledgling pilots perform on the ground which Kankakee had formally taken over as a municipal airport two weeks ago.

Five applicants for commercial licenses for themselves and their planes were on hand, ready for the major's examination. He had gone over to Kankakee from his Peoria headquarters about noon with his wife. Mrs. Noyes spent an hour or two at the field and then drove in to the Kankakee hotel, thus escaping the sight of her husband's death.

Thrills for Spectators.

There were abundant thrills for the spectators as the young pilots swooped, soared, and banked, all at a safe altitude, to test their own skill and the worthiness of their ships for Maj. Noyes' satisfaction.

Maj. Noyes was a wartime instructor and a pilot of fifteen years' experience.

As the major took off with Graves the ship seemed to rise with ease. Experts were unable last night to say whether the crash should be blamed on the pilot or a structural weakness of the ship. In either event, witnesses said, the ship was climbing at about 75 miles an hour at a reasonably steep angle when the fatal pause and plunge to earth occurred.

Chicago Official Notified.

Mute proof that the officer realized the hazards of his post was found when hospital attendants opened his tunic and found in an inside pocket a card requesting notification of the Municipal airport in Chicago in case of accident to the bearer.

Coroner Octave Cartier, heeding the request, notified Chicago, and last night E. A. Cutrell, government inspector of the Municipal airport, was at the scene, prepared to open an investigation this morning.

Maj. Noyes was 37 years old. His home was in Dallas, Tex., where in wartime he was commander of the 366th aero squadron.

At one time he was president of the Dallas Flying club. He was born in Paris, Tex. He was recently married to Miss Lelia Hahnn of Oklahoma City. He is also survived by an infant son, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Noyes of Paris, Tex., and his sister, Mrs. M. D. Haefele of Dallas.

TWO DIE IN PARASOL SHIP

Muskegon, Mich., May 19.—[Special.]—Flying at an altitude of 2,000 feet at noon today, a wing on the parasol type monoplane built by E. W. Beebe of Muskegon crumbled and George King, 28, pilot, and Morris R. Mellinger, 25, mechanic, crashed to their death near Mona lake, three miles from here.

Those who were watching the plane said that King made a nose dive and that the wing crumbled as he tried to level out. The plane came down end over end to the earth, burying itself 200 feet from a farm house.

Air Corporal Killed.

Galveston, Tex., May 19.—(AP)—Corporal Archibald Bryent of the 19th squadron, third attack group, United States air corps, was killed and Lieut. Edward Hertzberg was slightly injured when their plane crashed here today.

Four Hurt in Plane Crash.

The seriously hurt were Dorothy Gusnell, 25, of Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. Lucianne de La Paulle of New York.

U. S. Ready to Modify Rhine Debt Terms

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—The United States, it was admitted privately by high officials tonight, is ready to modify the Paris agreement of 1925 under which the United States receives certain annual payments from Germany in satisfaction of army of occupation costs and awards handed down by the mixed claims commission.

According to information available tonight, the United States is now prepared to extend the time within which the final army of occupation costs will be paid without reducing the total amounts due this country. Whether the mixed claims annuities for satisfaction of American private claims would be reduced or extended was not made known, but indications were these were to remain untouched.

The United States is now supposed to receive about $11,000,000 annually on account of army of occupation costs. The total bill for financing the American army on the Rhine, which is still unpaid, amounts to 206 million dollars.

Conference Is Called.

The reparations question was discussed at length late this afternoon at a mysterious conference called at the White House by President Hoover. In attendance were Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, and leaders of both houses of congress. Immediately following the meeting, which lasted one and one-half hours, Secretaries Stimson and Mellon conferred at length at the treasury department.

It is reported that a note indicating this country's willingness to extend the time for payment of army costs will be sent at once to the United States embassy at Paris for transmission to the American experts on the international committee now attempting to settle the amount Germany will have to pay in reparations annuities. A note asking the United States to modify its claims in order to aid in reaching a settlement at Paris was read, it was said, at the White House conference.

Late tonight Secretary Stimson admitted officially that the conference was on reparations.

Stimson Explains Meeting.

"The meeting at the White House this afternoon was called by the President," Col. Stimson said, "for the purpose of acquainting the leaders of the two houses of congress and the appropriate committees with the progress of the experts' committee on reparations which has been meeting at Paris. That committee is now apparently approaching the end of its labors and it is probable that a report may now be made which may require action by the executive. This meeting was for the purpose of ascertaining the views of congress on matters which may be the subject of such report in order that whatever action the President is required to take he may have the benefit of their views."

Following the Stimson announcement a number of the officials at the conference privately confirmed the earlier reports that the United States is prepared to reduce the army costs payments and spread the total sum over a longer period.

CATS TO TINKLE TO SAVE BIRDS IN RIVERSIDE

Citizens of the village of Riverside are not particularly fond of mice. Nevertheless, according to Miss Catherine Mitchell of the nature committee of Riverside's Woman's club, cats should be belled so that there will no longer be feline sneaking and pilfering in the streets and yards. Miss Mitchell's activity is in behalf of bluejays and robins and rose-throated thrush that hide away their nests in the green shade of the town. For their sakes, Miss Mitchel says, cats should tinkle.

The accomplishment of this is to come about, she said last night, through the plea to the village trustees to enforce an old ordinance which provides that cats must be licensed and belled or impounded. Failure to enforce the old law, she declared, has resulted in many tragedies in arbors and tree branches.

Awakes in Hospital; Kicks Doctor, Breaks His Nose

A drunken Negro coming out of his stupor at the county hospital, where he was being examined for possible injuries, yesterday kicked out in a panic as he saw a physician bending over him, and broke the nose of Dr. Clarence L. Lloyd, an interne. The Negro, Fred Wilson, 24 years old, 3157 Prairie avenue, was found lying in a street on the south side. Wilson was locked up at the Warren avenue station.

Bandits Seize $4,000 After Threat to Kill

Max and Harry Ascher, directors of a corporation operating fifteen movie theaters in the Chicago area and Wisconsin, were kidnaped last night by four bandits, held captive for two hours and threatened with death. They were forced to give up the combination of the safe at the Diversey theater, Clark street and Diversey avenue, which the bandits subsequently robbed of $4,000.

The threats of death were made when one bandit, after struggling an hour with the safe, decided that he had been duped on the combination. When he threatened to kill Harry Ascher another robber interceded for the latter's life and the first returned to the theater, made a second attempt on the safe, opened it and obtained the loot. All four escaped.

Seized as They Leave Theater.

It was 11:10 p. m., a few minutes before the close of the last performance, when the Ascher brothers left the theater to drive to their home at the Cambridge club, 53d street and Hyde Park boulevard. As they settled in the front seat of their sedan a man with two pistols stepped into the rear seat and prodded each brother in the back with a gun muzzle.

"Don't get excited and don't look around," the gunman commanded. "Just ease away from the curb, take it slowly up Clark street to Oakdale, and turn there to the left."

Harry Ascher, at the wheel, obeyed and drove west in Oakdale avenue to the middle of the block. There, at a second order, he stopped the car while a confederate of the man with the pistols joined the latter in the rear seat.

Get Combination of Safe.

Meanwhile another machine had fallen in behind the Ascher car and followed it west to Halsted street and north in Halsted to an alley, where Ascher was ordered to turn in. He obeyed and the robbers ordered lights out.

"Now the combination—give it to me quick," ordered the man with the automatics, who seemed to be spokesman for the band. Harry Ascher began to read off the numbers.

"Wait a minute. Turn on those lights again," the spokesman said, peering at a card to read his scrawled figures in the dark. Ascher snapped on the sedan lights and the bandit took down the figures again.

Pals Go Back to Theater.

The scribbler handed the card of numerals to a confederate, who left the sedan, jumped into the trailing car, and returned to the theater. From that time until 12:30 o'clock the Aschers sat in the car with their guard, who became affable after his confederates left. He frequently demanded the time.

"Your pals probably are having trouble with that safe," Harry Ascher remarked as the minutes wore on. "The building has settled a little and thrown the safe off balance. I frequently have trouble opening it myself."

"If you gave them a phoney combination they'll be back," the armed man replied. And one bandit did come back—at 12:55 a. m.

Robber Threatens to Kill.

"You gave me the wrong combination," stormed the returning robber. "I'll blow your brains out."

The guard remonstrated as the wrathful gunman aimed his pistol at Harry Ascher's head. Max Ascher interposed and produced a card bearing the printed numerals of the combination. The robber's wrath cooled as he compared the printed card with his own.

He jumped out of the sedan, drove back to the theater and went to work on the safe. Two confederates had remained there guarding the ushers, Paul Cascio, 2868 Osgood street, and George Tracey, 2769 Osgood street, who had been thrust into a tiny anteroom off the treasurer's office with Harry Sparks, the colored porter.

Open Safe; Seize Money.

Fifteen minutes' work on the second try sufficed to open the safe. The robbers seized the canvas bags containing Saturday and Sunday receipts, concealed them beneath their coats as they moved to the car, and returned to the Halsted street alley.

At 1:10 a. m. the Aschers and their guard heard a horn honk three times. The guard jumped out of the sedan, pocketed his two automatics, and rejoined his confederates. The Aschers saw them speeding north in Halsted street and attempted to follow in their own car, but lost the trail after three blocks. Then they notified Sheffield police and returned to the theater to count their losses.

PANIC AT BALL GAME KILLS 2 IN NEW YORK

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—Two persons were killed and 62 were injured in a wild, panic-like dash for the bleacher stairs at the Yankee stadium this afternoon when a deluge of rain came on.

Of the two dead one was a 17 year old Hunter college undergraduate who had taken her small brother to the game; the other was an aged teamster.

They were Miss Eleanor Price and Joseph Carter.

Many of the injured were young boys, for at each game they congregate at the right field bleacher, where the accident took place. For some years the section has been called "Ruthville," because it is there that "Babe" Ruth usually knocks his home runs. And his followers sit as near the right field as is possible.

Ruth Knocks Home Run.

"Ruthville" this afternoon was filled. The stadium held about 50,000 persons, the bleachers over 9,000, and more than half of the latter sat in the desirable location. They wore straw hats and summer clothes, for at the beginning of the first game—it was a double header between the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox—the sun was out.

The crowd enjoyed the first part of the game, especially so the occupants of "Ruthville." For in the third inning their idol plumped a ball into their midst, and a second later Gehrig followed with one into the left field bleachers. But at the end of the fourth inning it began to grow a little dark.

Rain Sets In.

By the time the Yankees went to bat at the start of the fifth a soft drizzle was coming down. Some of the persons in the bleachers left, but not those from "Ruthville." They always stay until the end. At a conference just before the Red Sox went to bat the umpires decided to continue the game. And the bleacher fans, of course, remained.

A few of the less hardy souls, however, decided to care for their good clothes. They left their seats and congregated at the mouth of the southernmost exit from "Ruthville." They could get out quickly from that point, they thought.

This exit, into which they partly went, leads down fourteen steps, a vertical drop of about eight feet or so, to a dirt passageway which runs back from the field for thirty feet, where it joins a transverse passage way to the exit. The passage is lined at its sides with a partition of ordinary chicken wire supported by two by four timbers.

Crowd Dashes for Exits.

The Yankees took up their fifth turn at bat. Just as Gehrig started from the dugout to the plate the sky suddenly opened up and a solid sheet of water, so dense as to obscure from sight objects only a few score feet away, roared down. With an instinctive and complete singleness of purpose every person in the bleachers rose from his seat and made for the exit.

In a solid mass this crowd converged from both sides at the head of the exit stairs.

The little knot, which a few moments before could not make up its mind whether to go or stay, started down the stairs at the first sign of the sheet of water. At first they moved slowly, then more quickly as the pressure from behind increased. Those in front tried to push back a little, but it was no use. There were too many thousands forcing their way from behind.

Then—it happened quickly—a sudden jostle from the mob upset the balance of those at the foot of the stairs. They fell, and the pressure behind piled others on top. In an instant the area at the foot of the stairs, an area about ten feet in width, was a screaming mass of people. The thin chicken wire at the sides of the passageway gave way, and the struggling persons on the top of the pile were rolled off into the dirt under either side of the bleachers.

Crushed Under Massed Bodies.

The scene was one rivaled only by a medieval painting of horror. Men, women and children—a preponderance of children—were jammed together in a pile so tightly they could not breathe, let alone work their way out without assistance. The weight of those on the top bore down on those beneath, crushing them before anything could be done.

Miss Price and Carter were among those at the very bottom of the mass. The girl's 14 year old brother, George, was beside his sister, but by good fortune was not seriously injured. All of those who were injured were taken to the various hospitals near by.

Already drenched clothing was torn and ripped by the frantic efforts of the crowd to fight its way from the mass at the foot of the stairs; and hats, coats—torn from the owners' backs—and even shoes lay scattered among the unconscious figures. The police later gathered up several bushels of varied wearing apparel from the spot.

Ignorant of Tragedy.

Patrolmen who had been stationed near the passage rushed around to the top of the stairs and drove the crowd back. In this way they relieved the pressure on the injured at the foot of the stairs and succeeded in clearing the stairway in a few minutes. Other officers put in calls for the police emergency squads, ambulances from all nearby hospitals, and police reserves.

Although the persons nearby knew that something was wrong, those sitting in the grandstand and even those jamming the way from the center and left field bleachers remained unaware that anything had taken place. An hour later little groups sitting placidly in their seats waiting for the skies to clear were ignorant of the catastrophe.

Perhaps the accident would have been much worse had it not been for the darkening skies which preceded the downpour. For as soon as the drizzle started, with the darkness a hint of a bad storm, extra patrolmen were sent to the stadium to care for the outpouring crowds. These had arrived before the downpour, which precipitated the accident, and they immediately turned to administering first air. In addition to the augmented force of city police, the special stadium officers were on duty at or near the scene.

Rushes to Help of Injured.

Probationary Patrolman Elias Gottlieb, attached to the Police academy, was a spectator to the game from one of "Ruthville's" seats. As soon as the accident happened he rushed down to the injured and carried several persons to a pile of bags stored under the grandstand a short distance away. The bags formed temporary hospital cots until the ambulance surgeons could arrive.

Babe Ruth was one of the first to summon aid for the injured. He hurried from the Yankee dugout to the field and called on physicians in the stands to volunteer their services.

As soon as he could be notified of the happening, Police Commissioner Grover Whalen hurried to the scene and started a police investigation. But after he had interviewed a number of stadium employés and others who had seen the dash, he described it as "one of those unfortunate occurrences against which no provision could have been made." It is "impossible to control the crowd mind," he added.

Miss Wagner was picked as winner in a contest which attracted hundreds of girls.

Bandits Tie Up Two with Adhesive Tape, Rob Store

Melchoir Scheisser, assistant manager, and Clarence Shanks, colored porter of the Economical drug store at 6359 Cottage Grove avenue, were robbed yesterday of $235 by two men who then bound them with adhesive tape taken from the shelves, and fled. Scheisser and Shanks chewed at their bonds for twenty minutes before they succeeded in freeing themselves.

POLICE NAME 8 THEY ACCUSE OF KIDNAP-MURDER

Blumenthal Finds Garage Where He Was Held.

After a day of feverish activity, Deputy Police Commissioner John P. Stege last night revealed the "complete story" of the kidnaping for ransom of Philip Blumenthal, wealthy ex-bootlegger, which last Wednesday led to the killing of Detective Raymond Martin. Then Stege started on the trail of eight men whom he declared to be responsible for the kidnaping and killing.

The eight sought, as named by Stege, are: Ernest Rossi, alias Ross, who has served time as a police killer and is rated the brains of the gang; Dago Lawrence Mangano, well known police character; Martin O'Leary, bootlegger and gambling house guard; Ray Kline, said to be a Kansas City gangster, and four others known only as "Crawley," "Granada," "Jack" and "Dave."

Two Women in Custody.

In custody are two women and a man, Mrs. Lucille Mangano, wife of Dago Lawrence; Mrs. Pasquale Paldo, wife of Pasquale Paldo, a Checker cab driver, and Paldo. Mrs. Mangano was formerly the wife of Paul Labriola, who several years ago was assassinated during a political fued in the old 19th ward, now the 20th ward.

The three were seized on Saturday night in a raid on a bungalow at 1501 South Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn, made by Deputy Stege and Lieuts. George L. Barker, William Cusack, and Phil Carroll. The house is said to be owned by Mangano's mother and is the home of Mrs. Matilda Rossi, mother of the Rossi sought.

Last night, resentful of the police guard thrown about the place, Mrs. Rossi, who is 63 years old, burst into a rage and, seizing a bottle containing poison, drank its contents. She was hurried to a hospital, where she was said to be in a serious condition.

Gets Story of Crime.

Deputy Stege said he had been able to piece together the complete story of the kidnaping and procure at least partial identification for every member of the kidnapers' band through further questioning yesterday of Blumenthal and his two friends, Joe (Doc) Rothstein and Henry Finklestein. Finklestein recently was allied with the north side booze gang of Bugs Moran, it is said.

Paldo also contributed valuable information implicating Rossi, Mangano, and the others, the deputy commissioner said. "I've got the goods on all eight of these fellows," Stege said. "If we can pick them up our case is cleared."

All highways last night into Kansas City were being watched in hope of capturing Rossi and Kline, who are believed to have fled in that direction in one of the three cars used by the kidnapers. A summer cottage at Lac du Flambeau, Vilas county, Wisconsin, also was under surveillance in hope of taking Mangano and the remaining members of the gang.

Identifies His Prison.

What Stege regarded as clinching evidence against those he named was the positive identification yesterday by Blumenthal of a small garage in the rear of the Ridgeland avenue bungalow. Here, he declared, he was held prisoner while his captors arranged for the payment of the $15,000 ransom which was produced by Rosenthal's brother, Moses. It was a demand for $10,000 additional ransom, following the release of Blumenthal, which led to the killing of Detective Martin.

Martin, arranging a rendezvous with the kidnapers at Van Buren street and Laramie avenue, appeared disguised as Moses Blumenthal, was recognized, and fired upon. Volleys of shots were poured after the fleeing automobile of the killers by Lieut. Barker and his squad, concealed nearby, but the killers escaped.

2 YEARS AGO TODAY LINDBERGH WAS ON HIS GREAT ADVENTURE

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has an anniversary tomorrow. It was just about dawn two years ago that he set out, a comparatively unknown youth, on a great adventure which took him across the Atlantic ocean to Le Bourget, 3,610 miles of unerring navigation and flight in thirty-three and a half hours.

The weather upon that occasion was rather similar to that which prevailed today. A heavy rain had soaked Roosevelt field and there were many among the watchers who thought "Slim Lindy" would never lift the Spirit of St. Louis into the air. But he did.

The weather isn't the only coincidence in this second anniversary of "Slim's" flight to Europe. Tonight he is at North Haven, Me., with his fiancée, Ann Morrow, on the eve of another great adventure. And there is a difference, too.

There were no secret service men to protect "Slim" as there are to protect the "colonel."

TRIAL OF ELLERS UP TODAY; DENIES STATE WILL QUIT

Rumors that the state will nolle prosse the conspiracy charges against Morris Eller, city collector, and his son, Judge Emanuel Eller, when the case is called for trial this morning before Judge Francis Wilson, were denied last night by Special Assistant State's Attorney Frank J. Loesch.

"We will file an affidavit asking for another continuance," said Mr. Loesch. "The affidavit will state that witnesses are absent and that the state needs more time to prepare its case. The court has the right to give us a continuance under such circumstances."

Attorney Thomas D. Nash, defense counsel, said he would demand a discharge for his clients. This demand will be based on the fact that the Ellers have asked to be brought to trial on four occasions. The lawyer declared that if no prosecution is in evidence today, the dismissal of the pair will be mandatory.

Woman Carrying Riches in Belt Killed by Auto

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—A woman, believed to have been Mrs. Frances Garwood Quin of Middle City, Pa., was killed by an automobile just after leaving Holy Name church. She wore a money belt containing jewels worth $20,000, two bonds worth $10,000, and $1,000 in cash.

THIRD BOY HIT BY DRUNKEN AUTOIST DIES OF INJURIES

Woman Killed, One Hurt When Struck by Car.

Fourteen year old Le Roy Rousseau, 1413 East 55th street, one of four schoolboys run down Friday night at 55th street and Kimbark avenue by a drunken driver in a stolen automobile, died yesterday. Two of his playmates were instantly killed.

Le Roy, dragged fifty feet by the car, died at the Albert Billings Memorial hospital. He was a student at the parochial school of St. Thomas the Apostle, 57th street and Kimbark avenue. Robert Hemmel, 12 years old, and James Boyd, 13 years old, both living at 5519 Kenwood avenue and attending the Ray public school adjoining St. Thomas', were the lads killed instantly.

The fourth boy, Harold O'Grady, 13 years old, 5503 Kenwood avenue, was seriously hurt but is expected to recover.

Driver and Two Others Held.

After running the boys down, the driver, William Sweeney, a New Hampshire shoemaker now living at 444 South State street, drove on a mile farther until the machine crashed into two parked cars at 68th street and Dorchester avenue. There he was seized by the Hyde Park police with his cousin, Frank O'Dee, 8522 Rhodes avenue.

Following an inquest Saturday, Sweeney was booked for manslaughter. O'Dee and John Nelson, 4565 Lake Park avenue, were booked as accessory to manslaughter. The cousins identified Nelson as the sidewalk bootlegger who sold them a pint of gin before they stole the car.

"Terrible," Driver Declares.

The three prisoners awoke yesterday in their cells in the Hyde Park police station to learn of the death of the third victim from Sergt. Daniel Ahern.

"This is terrible, terrible," groaned Sweeney. "Why did we ever buy that booze? It made us crazy."

"I suppose they'll try to hang us now," remarked O'Dee with an effort at bravado.

"My God, with three of them dead I'll never get out of it," said Nelson, the alleged bootlegger.

Woman Killed, One Injured.

Mrs. Lena Giese, 63 years old, 4618 North Karlov avenue, was killed, and Mrs. Emma Stevens, 50 years old, 1246 Webster avenue, was seriously injured last night when they were struck by an automobile at Keeler and Elston avenues. Mrs. Stevens is at the Montrose hospital, suffering from a skull fracture.

Roy Jacks, 1700 Forest avenue, Des Plaines, driver of the car which struck the two women, was being held at the Albany Park police station, pending the inquest today.

One other death yesterday raised the county traffic toll this year to 283. The victim was:

Mrs. Augusta Nordquist, 65 years old, 1829 Bernice avenue, died in the Ravenswood hospital of injuries suffered a week ago in front of 1903 Lincoln avenue. The driver, Gordon Bennett, 5207 Wayne avenue, originally booked for assault and released on bail, was rearrested on a manslaughter charge.

John Doughty, 6211 Ingleside avenue, president of the Woodlawn laundry, his wife, Lavina, and his father, M. L. Doughty, 80 years old, were in the Hillsboro, Ill., hospital last night suffering from injuries received when their automobile overturned on route 16 near Irving, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Doughty was pinned under the car, suffering severe cuts and bruises. Mr. Doughty is suffering from chest injuries and his father from an injured back.

LOSES $13,550 OF FURNITURE IN A PINT RAID

Dry Official Says It's All According to Law.

Prohibition agents did not overstep their authority on Saturday when they moved furniture and fixtures estimated to be worth $13,550 out of the House of Niles, a roadhouse and restaurant at Milwaukee avenue and Waukegan road in Niles. They were acting under the old revenue laws and they had a right to do it, George Hurlburt, assistant administrator of prohibition, said yesterday.

Martin Feht, proprietor of the roadhouse, disagreed with the assistant administrator. He had checked up his property and placed the total of that taken at the $13,550 figure, but the fact his place had been cleaned out was not his only grievance.

Says Drys Wrecked Place.

"What they couldn't cart away," he said, "they destroyed. They demolished everything they didn't take away. They acted like bad boys, delighted at a chance to commit malicious mischief."

The ruin in which Mr. Feht was standing seemed to bear out his statements. He was asked how much liquor the agents found.

"Just two half pints," he said. "They found them down in the basement—at least they said they did. I didn't know they were there."

As he spoke Mr. Feht finished compiling the list of his property, which, he said, had been taken away by the dry agents.

Lists His Property Loss.

It included the following, worth, according to what he said was a conservative estimate, the prices set down as follows:

1 new baby grand piano	$1,400
1 electric player piano	1,200
1 radio and phonograph	1,100
5 leather settees	1,000
5 barrels of dishes	200
[illegible] chairs	1,175
[illegible] tables	560
2 cash registers	1,000
Old fashioned mahogany bar fixtures	5,000
Plumbing torn out	750
Cigars and cigarets taken	120
Ginger ale and soda water	45

Besides these items, Mr. Feht estimated the agents tore out $250 worth of electrical fixtures. He put the property damage, such as breaking mirrors and smashing holes in walls, floors and windows, at $600.

To the observer the latter estimate appeared reasonable.

"What can I do about it?" Feht asked. "I know you can't sue the United States government. I can't understand why they want to ruin a man and destroy his property. Isn't it enough that they arrest him and that he faces indictment and possible conviction and heavy punishment? How can they justify this kind of thing?"

"What are you going to do?" he was asked.

"I don't know," he replied. "I guess I'll see a lawyer. I don't know."

Hurlburt Cites Revenue Laws.

Assistant Administrator Hurlburt, who ordered the raid, was told that Feht had complained that the agents had overstepped their legal authority.

"O, no," he said. "You just tell Mr. Feht to read sections 3450 to 3453 of the internal revenue laws. It is provided that anything which is used to conceal untaxpaid goods of any kind may be seized by the government. In this case the whisky would be the untaxpaid goods and everything there was used to conceal it."

"Do you know how much whisky was found?" he was asked.

"No," he replied, "but that doesn't make any difference. If they found an ounce it would be just the same as if they found a barrel."

$37.50 A MONTH MARRIAGE ENDS IN SUICIDE PACT

Soldier Kills Bride and Self.

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—Friday night brought a flood tide in the lives of Private Charles Cantu, 27, attached to the military police of the First division, and Jean Farrell, a comely serving maid in the home of a noncommissioned officer on Bedloe's island. They were married Friday after a month of joyous courtship, and life stretched away indefinitely.

But that tide ebbed rapidly, and early this morning Private Cantu and his wife, finding a soldier's salary of $37.50 a month insufficient to live on and unable to bear being separated, took a different road to happiness.

Wife Takes Blame.

Two notes were left behind to tell that the couple had arrived together at their decision. The first was from the girl, and addressed to her husband's commander.

"Realizing the grave importance of the step we're about to take, I, Jean Cantu, will take the liberty of writing to you. In regard to steps we are about to take, I want it understood that my husband is in no way responsible for this act. I have forced him into it and if by any chance he should live I want no charges of any kind preferred against him."

The second note was addressed to Dr. John F. Vought, pastor of the Grace Baptist church in Brooklyn, which both attended. He had introduced the couple at a church function a month ago. It read:

"We were coming over to see you this afternoon, but have decided to go on a long journey, and have no time to call. We want you always to remember that we have always thought the world of you and mother. Please pray for us.

"'Til death do us part."

They had not given up their romance on the spur of the moment. Cantu had been on duty in New York's bright light district until midnight Saturday. When he was relieved his wife joined him at the Battery and they then boarded the ferryboat General Meigs which runs to Bedloe's island.

Other Passengers Asleep.

The small boat had made its last run and would be tied up until 8 o'clock Sunday morning. Besides the couple, only a half dozen men were aboard, and five of them dozed the night away.

Only Sailor V. N. Unto remained awake. He heard Cantu and his bride of two days talking about the future which had so suddenly become dark and forbidding. They discussed their circumstances at length.

Cantu had reënlisted in January. He had the greater part of four years to serve in the army. There was only $37.50 each month. How could they stay together?

Two loud reports, and life and romance were over for Private Charles Cantu and his bride, Jean.

NEGRO SPENDS LAST 5 CENTS FOR RICH MAN IN JAIL; REWARD $20

Norfolk, Va., May 19.—[Special.]—William Bakewell, Pittsburgh millionaire, president of the Duquesne steel foundry, appreciates kindness whether from a white or a black man. He rewarded Charlie Williams, Negro, with $20 because Charlie spent his last nickel for the millionaire.

Mr. Bakewell was arrested for violating the dry law. Whisky and champagne were found in the automobile in which he was returning from Florida. Bakewell was put in jail. He had no cash. But he did have travelers' checks which he could not cash.

Charlie works at the jail. Bakewell wanted some coffee. He didn't have a nickel. He said to Charlie:

"Will you get me a cup of black coffee?"

"Sho I will, boss," said Charlie.

"I haven't any money," said Bakewell, "but I will pay you when I get out of here."

"That's all right, boss. I'se got just one nickel, but I'll get the coffee," Charlie replied.

SIMPSON WARNS OF 11TH HOUR WAR ON TRANSIT BILLS

Appeals to Senators for Agreed Program.

James Simpson, chairman of the citizens' transit settlement committee, in a statement yesterday, urged members of the state senate to ignore hasty eleventh hour attacks on Chicago's program of enabling transit legislation and asked that the car bills be speeded on their way to Gov. Emmerson's desk with the least possible delay.

A hearing on the agreed bills, which were adopted in the lower house by overwhelming majorities, is scheduled to take place Tuesday afternoon before Senator Richard R. Meentz's public utilities committee at Springfield.

Makes Appeal to Senators.

"In view of the contemplated adjournment of the legislature on June 7 or 8, I hope and believe the members of the senate will see their way to reasonably swift action on the transit bills," said Mr. Simpson. "Certainly it would be a discouraging blow were the program to be defeated, on the verge of success, because of last minute delays. It would mean delay of a settlement for probably two years if not longer.

"All the arguments against the bills, I believe, have been adequately explained by representatives of the city council and the citizens' committee, who have appeared before joint meetings of the house and senate committees. Every criticism has been fully and fairly discussed, and those arising from an eleventh hour effort to harm the bills should receive little attention.

"No effort whatever has been made to jam these bills through the general assembly. They have been presented and advanced on their merits with every opportunity for both sides to be heard."

Enable City Council to Act.

The six agreed bills, as passed by the house, pave the way for an ordinance, to be passed by the council and submitted to a referendum, providing for consolidation of the surface, elevated, and bus lines, a terminable permit, home rule through a local regulatory commission, and the construction of city owned subways.

City Managers Agree to Make Chicago Their Headquarters

Chicago is soon to become the headquarters and research center for the International City Managers' association, an organization composed of the managers of 43 cities in Canada, New Zealand, and the United States which have adopted the council-manager system.

The University of Chicago yesterday announced that it has concluded an affiliation with the association as another step in its plan to make its resources and trained personnel available to the country for the solution of political and social problems. A week ago the university established a national police research center and further extensions of this nature will be made in the future, it was said.

Headquarters of the City Managers' association, now at the University of Kansas at Lawrence, will be moved to the Midway June 1. The office will be located in the university building at 923 East 60th street.

Prof. Leonard White, head of the public administration department of the university and a nationally known authority on the city manager system, was largely responsible for bringing the association to Chicago. Its affiliation with the university, he said, represents the first time that any such body of public officials has sought close relationship with a school or college.

"The step was taken to give the managers, who are the administrative heads of cities like Cleveland, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Fort Worth, and Rochester, the benefit of the University of Chicago's widespread activities in governmental and social research," he said.

Prof. White added that the centralization of city manager activities here may speed the adoption of the newer governmental system in Chicago. A bill to permit Chicago to vote on the question was killed in the state senate recently.

Dr. Clarence E. Ridley, former city manager of Bluefields, W. Va., is executive secretary of the association. He has been appointed an associate professor of political science at the university and will divide his time between his two posts.

One of the important reasons why the association chose to locate in Chicago, it was said, is the fact that three of the country's leading experts on the city manager system live here. These are Prof. White, Prof. Charles E. Merriam, head of the University of Chicago political science department, and Prof. A. R. Hatton of Northwestern university.

FARMERS HOWL WHEN INDUSTRIES GET TARIFF HELP

Insist They Be Given High Protection.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—Manufacturers in the central states appear to have fared somewhat better at the hands of congressional tariff framers than agriculture.

Comparatively few protests against failure to boost rates on industrial products high enough have reached members of congress from Illinois and adjacent states. Dissatisfaction reported from this area regarding duties other than on agricultural commodities has chiefly been from those objecting to advances in rates.

As to agricultural duties, there has been continuous howl of protest from spokesmen for the farm groups against failure to provide the sky high protection which they had been led to expect.

Higher Duties in Hawley Bill.

A checkup of the action on requests of manufacturers from central states who appeared before the house ways and means committee indicates that with a few exceptions the desired higher duties were incorporated in the Hawley bill as reported to the house.

A notable exception was the case of the tanners. August H. Vogel of Milwaukee, appearing for the Calf Tanners' association, asked for a duty of 20 per cent on leather, now on the free list, contending that the tanning industry is on the verge of bankruptcy because of excessive importations. The ways and means committee left leather on the free list, as it did hides and shoes. So much strength is the movement for protection for hides, leather and shoes developing that it now seems likely that duties will be voted on all three on the floor of the house.

Butyl Alcohol Makers Win.

Increased protection was provided by the ways and means committee for two chemical manufacturers in the vicinity of Chicago, the Victor Chemical works and the Abbott Laboratories. The former asked for an increase in the duty on oxalic acid from four to six cents a pound and was granted it, while the latter was given a higher rate on barbital.

The Commercial Solvents corporation, with plants at Peoria, Ill., and Terre Haute, Ind., which make butyl alcohol from corn, obtained a duty of seven cents a pound on butyl acetate, which was the exact increase asked. The Associated Corn Products Manufacturers, with headquarters at Chicago, made a number of requests in conjunction with farm organizations and shared the disappointment of agriculture over failure to remove such competitive starches as tapioca and sago from the free list.

Chicago Plants Aided.

In the metal schedule increases in duties were provided on sprocket chains at the request of Charles Piez of Chicago, who spoke for his own company, the Link Belt company, and also for other manufacturers, including the Webster Manufacturing company of Chicago and the Chain Belt company of Milwaukee. The Wire Cloth Manufacturers' association, represented by John D. Watson of Appleton, Wis., obtained an increase in duty, as did wire netting manufacturers, including companies with plants at Chicago, Peoria, Joliet, and De Kalb, Ill., and Muncie, Ind.

The watch and clock manufacturers were given increased duties. Two of the leading companies benefited were the Elgin Watch company at Elgin, Ill., and the Illinois Watch company at Springfield, Ill.

The action of the ways and means committee in taking cement, brick, lumber, and other building materials from the free list and imposing duties upon them has given satisfaction to manufacturers in the central states and has met with disapproval in this area from those who purchase these materials.

Cement and brick manufacturers in the Chicago district joined in the movement for duties on these commodities, fearing future competition from imports which thus far have affected chiefly regions along the seaboard.

The Edward Hines Lumber company of Chicago and Wisconsin lumber interests were responsible for placing duties on maple and birch lumber. Charles A. Goodman of Marinette, Wis., representing the Maple Flooring Manufacturers' association, asked for a 25 cent duty on hardwood flooring. The committee granted a 15 per cent duty on maple and birch lumber and flooring.

Big Increase on Furniture.

An increase from 33 1-3 to 40 per cent in the duty on furniture was granted at the quest of Robert W. Irwin of Grand Rapids, Mich.

John W. Blodgett of Grand Rapids, Mich., asked for a duty on soft wood lumber, but the committee thought it would have to leave some lumber on the free list and turned him down.

A statement which was presented to the ways and means committee by Representative Henry A. Cooper [Rep., Wis.], on behalf of four manufacturers of wood slat porch shades in Janesville and Waukesha, Wis., asked that old duties of 35 per cent, if unstained, and 45 per cent stained, be continued.

The committee provided a single increased rate of 50 per cent, apparently at the instance of other manufacturers affected by the same paragraph which applies to porch and window blinds, baskets, bags, chair seats, curtains, shades, or screens. Several Chicago manufacturers of musical instrument strings joined in a request which was favorably acted upon for higher duties.

Block Raise on Vegetable Oils.

Importing and consuming groups in the central states were only partially successful in their appeals against high duties to the ways and means committee. Soap and paint manufacturers in Chicago and elsewhere succeeded in preventing as large increases in duties on vegetable oils as were asked by agricultural organizations.

Retail and wholesale lumber dealers in Illinois and other central states joined in petitions to the ways and means committee against the duties on building materials. The farm groups also are up in arms over these rates.

Chicago department stores joined in combating efforts of eastern manufacturers of sueded cotton gloves to obtain higher duties. The ways and means committee decided that the domestic industry could not compete with Germany and put unbraided gloves of this character on the free list.

Clothing manufacturers in Chicago were overridden when the committee increased the duty on raw wool.

An official of the University of Chicago asked the ways and means committee to allow carillons to be admitted free of duty, others from churches and institutions contemplating importation of expensive foreign made bells joining in the request. Heretofore a duty of 40 per cent has been assessed, the carillons being classed as musical instruments.

The ways and means committee refused to put carillons on the free list, but compromised by making the duty 20 per cent. Domestic bell manufacturers insisted that they could manufacture carillons, although admitting that none has yet been made here with as many bells as are in the Edward Bok carillon in Florida or such as the University of Chicago desires to import.

Capper Speaks for Farmer.

The agricultural view of the tariff bill was given by Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.] in a statement today.

"The tariff revision measure proposed by the house ways and means committee does not adequately meet the requirements of a tariff bill designed to assist in placing agriculture on a basis of economic equality with other industries," said Senator Capper. "The measure does increase the tariff rates on a large number of agricultural products and to that extent the measure is commendable.

"It does not materially benefit agriculture to get some tariff increases on farm products and then offset these by hiking the tariff rates on things the farmer has to buy."

The Republican members of the ways and means committee will meet tomorrow in executive session to pass on the scores of requests for increases in duties above the rates of the Hawley bill. Debate on the bill will continue in the house, with passage possible but unlikely this week.

Conferees of the senate and house on the farm relief bill will hold their first meeting tomorrow.

CAPONE SEALED IN PRISON GLOOM; PREDICT RELEASE

'Inside Story' Told of His Prearranged Arrest.

BY TOM PETTEY.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19.—[Special.]—Holmesburg prison was a gloomy place today as a cold rain beat down on the fifteen foot high stone wall that surrounds the jail yard, but to Al Capone, safe and snug in his cell, it was a haven of refuge not to be scoffed at for its forbidding exterior.

If Capone had visitors they came in the back way, for your corerspondent called at noon and was told no one could get in Holmesburg jail on a Sunday, even though he committed murder.

Therefore the day probably was spent in seclusion by the Florida "gentleman," who ruled Chicago gangland for years without feeling the need of carrying a gun, and then strangely wore one into this peaceful city.

"Capone isn't eating much yet," said an attendant. "Fellows like him never do when they first come here. He seems to be taking prison life all right. He is allowed two visitors every month, and you may be able to get a pass to see him if he wants to see you."

Al's Cell Not a Choice One.

Holmesburg prison is guarded from the rear by the Delaware river and a smelly creek trickled through its south side. More than 1,700 prisoners are housed in its compartively small confines. Capone's cell is on the side facing the creek and is not considered one of the "choice" rooms. The prison is badly overcrowded and the guards there have the reputation of being "man beaters."

About six weks ago the inmates rebelled against conditions and tried to set fire to their bedding during a food riot.

Despite the prison's reputation of being the toughest "stir" in the United States and a place where "you are lucky if you come out with nothing worse than rheumatism," Capone's sojourn there may not be so unpleasant.

"Scarface Al] will never do his stretch," I was told today in the city hall. "They'll spring him as soon as he gets ready to come out. You know the judge can change his sentence any time he wants to. Besides, Capone's got a lot of smart lawyers who havn't chirped yet. They ain't going to ride him at Holmesburg, you can bet on that."

The "Inside Story."

In another part of the city hall—and it was not the dectectives' headquarters—I was told what was purported to be the "inside story of Capone's flight from Atlantic City to a Philadelphia jail. It is the accepted version here and links the Max "Boo Boo" Hoff crowd up with Capone and his gang. This is the way it runs:

The Atlantic City peace conference broke up in a row when "Scarface" refused to "retire" or to come through with a large share of his fortune. He was told by rival gang leaders that if he showed up in New York he would "get his head blown off" and that the minute he appeared in Chicago he would be "on the spot." Capone went to his hotel and telephoned a Philadelphia friend: "Have 'Shooey' Malone tipped off that I'll be in Phildelphia tonight wearing a pistol," was the message. "Tell him I'll stand for a pinch."

Capone and Malone, the detective who arrested him, both admitted they met in Miami last winter at the Sharkey-Stribling fight.

RAISE CAPONE FUND

Chicago followers of Al Capone were reported last night to be raising a fund to effect the release of their chieftain from his Pennsylvania prison. At the same time Capone henchmen said that Frank Nitti, known as "the business manager of the Capone organization," had left for Philadelphia.

Nitti, although he has remained in the background in Chicago gang doings, has long been known as one of the best "brains" in the Capone band of hoodlums.

Brother Also Active.

Ralph Capone, elder brother of Al, has assumed charge of Chicago activities in behalf of his brother and was in conference with attorneys yesterday, it was reported. It is known that Ralph was in French Lick, Ind., when news of his brother's plight reached him and that he started at once for Chicago. Ralph lives in Cicero.

One report was that Mike Carrozzo, Chicago labor leader, also had interested himself in behalf of Capone, who is his friend. This report was not given too much credence. Carrozzo is known in labor circles as "a lone wolf"; that is, he is not closely affiliated with other powerful leaders. And also Philadelphia is generally known as a strong "open shop" town, so that labor does not cut the political figure there it does in strongly unionized cities.

Recall Capone's Statement.

"I still have a lot of friends in Chicago," he is said to have told a Philadelphia official after his sentence. "Within the next few months there will come a proper adjustment of things and conditions."

The gang chief's reference to an "adjustment of things and conditions" was believed by the Chicago authorities to be related to Capone's Atlantic City conference to effect peace among the Chicago gangsters just before his arrest in Philadelphia.

E. F. McDONALD JR., BAKER BROWNELL TO SAIL TODAY FOR ARCTIC

Boston, Mass., May 19.—[Special.]—State, city, and county dignitaries joined with leading educationalists and others this evening in paying tribute and farewell to Eugene F. McDonald Jr. of Chicago, president of the Zenith Radio corporation, who with four scientists, Alvin Laforge of Chicago university, Baker Brownell of Northwestern university, Dr. George Fox of Two Oaks, Mich., and Dr. George West of Milwaukee, will sail for the arctic region aboard McDonald's yacht in the early hours tomorrow morning. The yacht has a crew of 27. The purpose of the cruise to the north is to explore the interior of Baffinland, Newfoundland, and Labrador and to assist MacMillan late in June to map the coast of Labrador.

Seize Soviet Steamer Carrying Propaganda Fund

LONDON, May 20.—[Monday]—(AP)—The Mail today prints a Basra dispatch saying police guards have been put aboard the Russian steamer Kommunist, which arrived in the Persian gulf with silver rupees worth about $225,000, which were not consigned to any person. It was believed that the money was intended to subsidize trouble in the oil fields which have occurred recently.

GROTIUS MEDAL GOES TO KELLOGG FOR PEACE WORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, May 19.—The Society of the League of Nations has decided to present Grotius medals to Frank B. Kellogg and Sir Eric Drummond.

The Grotius medal was instituted in 1925, to be issued on May 18 of each year thereafter to ten persons for work done to promote peace. The medal is so called after Hugo Grotius, Dutch scholar who wrote over 300 years ago a book entitled "De Jure Belli et Pacis," which was the foundation of what is now known as international law.

The Grotius medal is struck both in gold and in bronze. Ambassador Charles G. Dawes is a holder of the bronze medal.

STATE TAXATION GROSSLY UNFAIR, FIGURES PROVE

Cities Pay for Schools for Farm Children.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Springfield, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—Gross inequalities exist in state taxes and their disbursement wherever one takes up the figures—whether they concern the revenue fund or general tax, the tax for the state university, the tax for the school fund distributed among the common schools, the soldiers' bonus tax, or the inheritance tax. In fact, the only form of uniformity found in state taxation is in the lack of uniformity.

County figures published yesterday in THE TRIBUNE showed that the cities are building the country roads but the discrepancies among these totals for the various counties are no more ridiculous than the wide range disclosed when one sits down and calculates which of the state's taxpayers are bearing the real load for its activities in other fields.

Other Counties Suffer.

Cook county, as has been known for many years, foots more of the bills than its share; but even an amateurish analysis proves that the other populous counties of the state fail to receive back what they put into the state coffers. They look on helplessly while the excess of their taxation is spent down in the sticks.

To dispose of the Cook county question first of all—except for references here and there when specific forms of taxation are considered—the records show that in 1927 that metropolitan county gave up $12,314,917 out of a total of $25,679,655 collected under the state tax rate, a blanket that covered "general state purposes, the common school fund, the waterway bonds, the bonus bonds, the state university, and relief for the blind."

Other Cities May Wake Up.

But in addition to all these "regular" purposes the records disclose that the big county of the state is compelled to chip in something more than 40 per cent of the road fund—the combined motor vehicle license fund and the state's share or two-thirds, of the gasoline tax as it is forecast now. Furthermore, it is almost the sole bearer of the burden of a special tax like the inheritance tax.

With its slogan of "equal taxation—equal representation," Cook county has had little success up to this time but sleeping legislators from other large counties of the state are expected to wake up now to the fact that their constituents have a grievance similar to that of the Chicagoans in that they are paying more than their share of the state's bills. A different attitude on the question of legislative reapportionment is seen as a result.

Cook Pays 48 Per Cent.

Too many figures are likely to be confusing to the average reader, as well as the writer, but there are certain totals and ratios that stand out.

Cook county, as said before, contributed in 1927 $12,314,917 and all the other 101 counties in the state gave up only $13,364,738 to the general state tax fund, which goes chiefly to the maintenance of the state house. In other words those 101 counties paid only $1,049,821 more than the big county paid. Cook paid 48 per cent of the total.

To go on with the analysis, Cook, Lake, Will, Kane, and Du Page counties paid into this fund more than all the rest of the state, their total being $13,571,764. Twelve other downstate counties, St. Clair, Peoria, Winnebago, Sangamon, La Salle, McLean, Kane, Vermilion, Will Madison, Lake, and Champaign paid in another $4,462,741, leaving the rest of the state mighty little to pay. In this category St. Clair, including the city of East St. Louis, gave up $432,869; Peoria paid in $421,480, Winnebago, $416,895; and in contrast Hardin gave up $12,297, with the other counties ranging in between.

Take the revenue fund alone: Cook county paid over $5,020,697 and all the other 101 counties came across with only $5,448,701. There was no downstate county that paid over $200,000, and only 14 of them paid in more than $100,000.

Now, in the order in which they are arranged under the state tax rate of 30 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, comes what is known as the distributive school fund. At each of the last two sessions of the general assembly there has been an effort to work out a budgeting scheme that would help particularly the needy public schools of the state. In the absence of an authoritative agreement on the subject, the general opinion is that by allotting that fund on a per capita basis the state has sought to help the impoverished counties, and then by aiding a budgeting provision based on the quality of the teachers employed to help the wealthier counties.

Country Schools Get Money.

But, regardless of this controversy, it is a fact that according to the available records in the state auditor's office there are 47 counties that contribute to the education of the sticks counties. In other words there are 55 counties that raise less under this tax than the amount apportioned to them.

Of course, Cook county helps out the sticks. It contributed, according to the 1927 figures, something like $364,975 to the needy downstate counties, or more than one-half of what they received to help out their school system. There are a number of counties that receive in state aid materially more than they contribute to the fund. For example, White county pays in only $12,807 to this fund; but it receives $29,991 additional from the state. But the point sticks out that Chicago may have to close its own schools even while paying to maintain the downstate schools.

Chicago Finances University.

Go further with the comparative study of what the counties do for the state and we find that Cook paid into the state university fund last year $1,263,068 and that downstate paid over only $1,367,742. No county except Cook paid in over $50,000 for this purpose, only four downstate counties gave up more than $40,000 each, and 22 paid in less than $5,000 each. And yet Chicago, with the University of Chicago, Northwestern university, and other colleges, probably sent a considerably less proportion of students than the rest of the state.

Then take the waterway bonds. For the retirement of this $20,000,000 issue Cook county delivered $442,073 out of a total of $921,833. It may be argued that the city, at the terminal of the ship channel, should pay about half the entire cost, but what about other cities along the route?

Fulton county, with Havana on the river, paid in only $5,900; La Salle county, with Ottawa as its shipping center, paid in $13,687, and Peoria county, which expects to reap a money harvest from the waterway, paid in only $15,130, or approximately the same amount as St. Clair county, whose county seat of East St. Louis already has waterway facilities. And Kane county, for example, which is not even on the water route, pays the state $13,000 for this.

The inheritance tax is admittedly a special burden for the wealthier communities, but who knows how inequitably it works out? During the year that ended on June 30, 1928, Cook county paid in inheritance taxes $6,410,617. The rest of the state—101 counties in all—paid $2,845,914, and of that balance $1,128,963 came from Lake county, which includes a number of the suburbs of Chicago.

Going a bit further with this contrast—not comparison—one finds that Cook county and its neighbors—Lake, Winnebago, and Kane—pay a total of $6,290,195 in inheritance taxes and that the remaining ninety-eight counties are assessed for this purpose only $966,336.

That this tax is a burden particularly designed for the wealthy is shown by a survey of its history in recent years. Cook county pays about 78 per cent of this charge. Its neighboring counties bear most of the rest of the burden.

According to the figures for the year ending June 30, 1928, there are many counties that escape scot free from this tax. Among those which escaped any payments whatsoever in 1927 and 1928 were the counties of Clay, Gallatin, Hamilton, Hardin, Johnson, Massaic, and Wayne.

The net result of this study of state taxation is to bring downstate cities into harmony with Chicago's demand for equality of representation.

RAIL UNION SEES ALL ROADS UNITED; SEEKS NEW MEMBERS

A membership drive was launched yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Brotherhood of Rail and Steamship Clerks at the Morrison hotel following assertions of leaders in the union that consolidation of all the railroads of the United States is inevitable in the comparatively near future.

"A large number of our men will be released from service when this consolidation is finally consummated," it was declared by George M. Harrison of Cincinnati, president of the brotherhood. "It behooves us to strengthen our organization so that we will be in better position to seek favorable terms when the time comes. Now we have three shifts of 8 hours each, seven days a week. We should have three shifts of 6 hours each and get off one day of the week."

It is hoped by the drive to add 25,000 members to the present roll of 127,000, Harrison declared.

LAWMAKERS TRY TO INSULT HIM, CARBARY SAYS

Assails Wet Legislators in De King Quiz.

Four of the seven members of the Springfield house committee investigating the De King dry killing were characterized by State's Attorney George Carbary of Kane county last night as "dripping wet, prejudiced, and therefore incapable of making an impartial investigation" of the killing of Mrs. Lillian De King and the clubbing of Joseph De King in their home near Aurora.

The state's attorney was denounced in turn the four members he referred to as trying to create prejudice against them in the public mind. They asserted that Carbary was evasive in his testimony before the committee on Friday and added that his whole attitude during the legislative quiz has been one of hostility rather than one of coöperation toward the committee.

Calls Attitude Insulting.

"Kane county people can not expect a fair and impartial verdict at the hands of the state legislative committee in the De King case," said Carbary in his statement. "The questions and attitude of Representatives Michael Igoe and Henry Sonnenchein tended more toward insulting me than toward making an honest investigation of the case before the committee.

"Representatives Le Roy Green and Roy Juul are so prejudiced and dripping wet in their attitudes that if in their hearts, they wanted to be fair they could not possibly assume a fair attitude. So, at the outset of the investigation, we have four of the seven members of the investigating committee unduly prejudiced."

Green Strikes Back.

In reply to Mr. Carbary's attack on the members of the committee Representative Green said:

"If the committee has begun their investigation in a manner that appears, to the state's attorney as prejudicial it is because he knows we have facts which led us to believe that he, in collusion with others, had suppressed material evidence. When the evidence is all taken it will speak for itself."

"I am not surprised at Mr. Carbary's statement," Representative Igoe declared. "The state's attorney has tried to conceal rather than disclose facts relative to the De King slaying, and he is now in a position where he must seek means to protect himself and the dry political machine which he represents. It is up to him to whitewash the acts of himself and his colleagues, and his statement is an effort to do this."

Promises to Reveal Facts.

"I have no prejudice against anybody, nor am I interested in attempts to fasten blame on any individual," Representative Juul said. "And notwithstanding Carbary's hostile attitude, the committee will get the facts and report them to the legislature."

Representative Sonnenchein, in replying to Carbary, called for a new and special grand jury investigation of the De King case.

"Our investigation has already shown that the De King case was deplorably handled," Sonnenchein said. "It would not be a surprise to me if the committee asked a review by Attorney General Carlstrom with a view to obtaining a special grand jury inquiry in the case.

"Before the committee Mr. Carbary was evasive. He declined to answer the simplest questions with the directness one would expect from a man in his profession."

Twelve of the 25 witnesses summoned by the committee remain to be questioned when it meets in Aurora Friday.

DRY SLAYINGS ARE DEFENDED BY METHODISTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Defense of prohibition killings was attempted by the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals today in its weekly clipsheet.

Simultaneously Clinton N. Howard, prohibition lecturer, who for several weeks has been staging a one man drive to dry up the District of Columbia, asserted that the local police department should rescind its order forbidding officers to shoot at rum cars using smoke screens.

"Would the killing of the rum runner, Fleming, by Officer Rouse of the District of Columbia police have evoked similar criticism if the rum runner had been a bank robber?" asked the Methodist board. "Yet the criminal was engaged in the commission of a felony quite as serious in its intent and consequences as the robbing of a bank.

"Bank robbers must be apprehended. The safety of the community demands it. Rum runners must also be apprehended. They are the most dangerous, the most cruel, cold hearted criminals with whom officers of the law have to deal. If they will be apprehended peacefully, so much the better.

"If, on the contrary, they attack officers by the use of guns or smoke screens, or, refusing to stop, proceed through the streets at a rate of speed which is a serious menace to the lives of peaceable citizens—still they must be apprehended."

Mr. Howard in criticizing the rule forbidding local police to shoot at rum runners, asserted that D. M. Jackley, the prohibition agent who was killed last week when his automobile went into the ditch in chasing a bootleg car, would not have lost his life if he had been permitted to use his gun.

FARMS FASCISTS SEIZED YIELD BUMPER CROPS

Duce Turns Profits Over to Owners.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, May 19.—The drastic Fascist methods inaugurated last fall for the sequestration of farms that were badly cultivated or not cultivated at all, and then turning them over to agricultural syndicates to manage, has given successful results, it was announced today. Hundreds of acres were taken over in northern Italy and in Sicily, notably from Prince Pignatalli and his sister.

In northern Italy the prefect of Rovigno last October took over the management of a 150 acre farm from its proprietor and confided it to the management of the president of the provincial federation of agriculture. This official hired six families to sow and cultivate the crops, which they did with such efficiency that the 150 acres will produce a crop whose pre-estimated value is put at 140,000 lire (about $7,280), it is announced.

Owner Will Receive Proceeds.

On the basis of these results the prefect has decided to sell the farm to a capable agricultural proprietor and turn over the proceeds to the original owners, so establishing the principle in Italy that farm proprietors in Italy have no right to own land unless they make it productive. In the present case the owners will also get the proceeds of the cultivation of their land minus the labor and administration costs.

Similar results have been obtained in Sicily and in the province of Marches, it is said. The Fascists are urging that this revolutionary novelty in agricultural land administration and land owning must be more widely adopted next year, and it probably, in view of Premier Benito Mussolini's "battle of grain" and his efforts to increase production.

Will Fight Indolence.

"The liberty to own land and not to cultivate it is intolerable to the Fascist principle," says the Naples paper Mattino, which continues: "Fascism fights indolence and parasitism in whatever form it is found, and it refuses to confuse this with liberty, which in its old sense may cover a multitude of excesses. Refusing to cultivate land on the part of proprietors is exactly the same as sabotage on the part of workingmen."

It must be said, however, that the partial reason some proprietors refused to cultivate their land was because the Fascist authorities wish to dictate to them the proportion of their lands which must be sown in wheat and other essential crops.

LAKE ON SAVAGE RAMPAGE CAUSES HAVOC ON SHORE

Closes Drives, Perils Boats in Harbors.

mile south of the coast guard station was washed out and a traffic signal light in Sheridan road at Calvary cemetery was knocked down and tossed up into the drive by the waves.

Fear was expressed by both park and city authorities that many of the bathing beaches are so badly impaired that the opening of the season will have to be postponed.

Basements Are Flooded.

Homes and apartment buildings along the South Shore drive in the neighborhood of 67th street sustained the most damage from flooded basements. Between Jackson park and 74th street, according to the reports, waves surged against the walls, tossing spray to third story windows.

ERIE ON RAMPAGE

Sandusky, O., May 19.—[Special.]—Lake Erie went on a rampage again today and by tonight had added materially to the damage caused on seven previous occasions this spring. Miles of roadway with hundreds of acres of shoreland are under water. Many summer cottages are inaccessible.

In the most of these water stands over the floor to a depth of from almost a foot to several feet. At Rye Beach, seven miles east of Sandusky, where concrete retaining walls were battered by storms a few weeks ago, more land was carried out into the lake by waves that swept the shore. Foundations of several summer homes were undermined.

Docks Are Menaced.

Harry C. Crossley, supervisor of fishing in the Ohio waters of Lake Erie, with a force of men started for the head of Sandusky bay early today to procure live fish for shipment, but were forced to turn back. Roads to their destination, they said, were under water. At Crystal Rock, White's Landing, Dew Drop and other Sandusky bay shore summering places, lowlands were inundated and their cottages rising out of the water. At Put-in-Bay, Kelly's Middle Bass, North Bass, and the smaller Lake Erie islands in United States waters, dock property which was reconstructed following the severe storms of a few weeks ago was seriously menaced again. Some of the smaller docks had been torn to pieces and carried away.

At Pelee island in Canadian Lake Erie, the water was over the dikes again, and crops that had been resown after flood waters had washed them out, had apparently been ruined. Pelee islanders see little hope for a tobacco crop this year. Point Pelee farmers have abandoned their onion fields which have become areas of soft marshland.

GIRLS LOSE JOBS AS BRITISH FIGHT PETTICOAT RULE

Many Offices Oust All "Lady Clerks."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19.—Women are gaining strength in English politics and losing in English business. While figures for the coming general election indicate that men will be heavily outvoted by the women, there is a general tendency to oust women from the positions in business offices which they had taken away from men.

Dorland's, Ltd., an Anglo-American advertising agency, has lately replaced its women copywriters, artists and clerks by men. The Anglo-American Oil company has dismissed its entire staff of three hundred women, and the Royal Mail line has done likewise.

The sudden rebellion against "petticoat government" may perhaps be attributed to the attention it is at present receiving in the press, in view of the election of May 30. An influx of women voters, heretofore ineligible, now enter the ranks of electors under the new equal franchise act. Their overwhelming numbers leave the men in an electoral minority. In 500 constituencies out of 615 already canvassed, the women have a lead of more than 1,200,000 registered voters.

One particular constituency, Brighton, will have a "petticoat government" with a vengeance. The new voters' lists of that district reveal that the women of the new electorate outnumber the men by 21,015.

All parties have made special efforts to attract the vote of these newly enfranchised young women.

Are business men starting on a policy of retaliation with these wholesale dismissals of their women employés? London, which has been in the past "a man's city," is to remain one, office managers say.

In this way the English office is to be rid of the "petticoat government," sex appeal and petty intrigues. The general feeling is that women are not loyal to their jobs and desert as soon as they can marry.

Their invasion of the office dates from the war. Before that time their numbers were negligible.

"Lady typists" "lady clerks," as they are described in the "situations vacant" columns of the London daily newspapers, may soon have to earn their $12.50 in other occupations than the commercial office.

ROAD FUND FOR COUNTY WILL BE FOUND—CERMAK

Expects Permission to Sell Tax Warrants.

Aroused by reports that the county's road campaign is to be halted for the summer because contractors cannot collect payment for their work, Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board, yesterday announced that he and all board members would bend every effort this week to obtain funds so that road construction may go forward at once.

At Springfield this week the county board members will fight for authority to sell tax anticipation warrants so that the county may have money to pay the contractors. The board president declared he was confident that this authority would be granted.

Promises Contractors Pay.

"I am sure that our road work will not be tied up this year," said Mr. Cermak. "Most of the contractors have assured me that they are not going to quit working, and I can promise them in return that they will be paid. I have received no information that any contractor has already withdrawn his men, but if any one has done so he will never do another piece of work for the county."

Meanwhile, Hayden Bell, attorney for the board, explained why money had been taken from the highway fund to care for emergency expenses. Mr. Bell was questioned as to the legality of this transfer of money.

"The money was taken from the highway funds on order of the county board," he said. "The treasurer paid out the money for absolutely necessary expenses such as salaries, light, and heat. The highest duty of the board is to keep the county functioning as a municipality. Public calamity would ensue if this were not done.

Fixed by Test Case.

"Such payments have long been the custom. When Patrick J. Carr was treasurer he wanted the legality of the act assured, so he refused to pay out the money and mandamus proceedings were started against him. Judge Harry Lewis issued a mandamus forcing the treasurer to pay out money under similar circumstances. The legality of such proceedings has never been determined in the Supreme court, but their necessity is obvious. There has never been an abuse of the privilege."

Mr. Cermak pointed out that the predicament in which the county finds itself is based upon the fact that no tax money has been available this May as has usually been the case. It has been the custom to replace deficiencies in special funds by tax money. Since the reassessment has not been completed, there can be no tax bills and consequently no tax money for several months.

Bridge Work at Standstill.

Work on bridges over important highways in the county has practically been at a standstill, it was admitted by the county officials. Some of the smaller contractors on road work have been receiving certificates showing the work done for the county, it was explained, and they have been able to obtain loans at banks on these certificates.

But the money will be available for all roadway construction within a few days, President Cermak insisted. So confident is the board that this authority will be granted that the tax anticipation notes already have been printed, he said.

SETTLEMENT OF ARICA ROW LIFTS TENSION IN CHILE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, May 19.—Twenty-four hours after the announcement was officially made regarding settlement of the Tacna-Arica problem it is interesting to observe the feeling of calm satisfaction in all spheres, particularly governmental and commercial where the fifty year old problem was a source of continual anxiety.

All papers agree that the settlement is an expression of deep justice and equity which assures future peace because it covers all points, not leaving anything to chance.

The Diario Ilustrado published an editorial in which the whole situation was reviewed. It said the convenience of the present arrangement is enhanced in view of the changed conditions of appreciation towards these kind of problems. It also published, in conjunction with other papers laudatory opinions of numerous prominent men.

A cable was received from William Miller Collier, former American ambassador to Santiago, who sent his congratulations and wishes for the future prosperity of the republic, recalling the development work of past years toward the goal which is now reached.

The Ilustrado will publish tomorrow a long article dealing with the present American ambassador, William Smith Culbertson, referring to his past activities and expressing approval of his excellent diplomacy, which helped in the settlement.

Although noisy, public rejoicing has been lacking, all circles feel relieved that the Tacna-Arica question has been brought to a satisfactory close, and the papers express satisfaction in extra large editions which are rapidly sold out.

JUNIOR ORDER MEETING.

Taylorville, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—At a meeting of the junior order of the United American Mechanics held here Saturday it was voted to hold the state meeting in Taylorville Sept. 28.

no dandruff

protect children

Children usually come home from school with a case of dandruff that may lead to baldness. They get it from contact with others; promiscuous use of combs, brushes and wash basins. For dandruff, being a germ condition, is highly infectious.

Examine scalps often, and at the first sign of dandruff, douse on Listerine full strength, which is powerful against germs.

Keep it up systematically for several days. To your delight, you will often find that your loose dandruff has disappeared and that little scalps are clean, sweet and healthy.

While soothing and healing, full strength Listerine is so active, it kills even the Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) germs—200,000,000 of them in 15 seconds. This statement we can prove to the entire satisfaction of the medical profession. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo.

JUST A WORD of caution. Occasionally you may be offered a product "Just as good" and "Just as safe" as LISTERINE. We hope you won't be fooled. There's nothing like LISTERINE.

KING'S RECOVERY BRINGS CHARITY GIFT OF MILLION

English Hospital Gets a Thank Offering.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19.—Fifty-five million dollars have been given to English charities whose sources of income are officially known during the last twelve months, and many thousands of dollars must also have been donated to charities not listed in official publications. The amount of money now invested on behalf of hospitals and other charities is about three hundred and fifty million dollars.

In addition there have been increasing responses to certain annual collections, while enormous bequests and gifts have been received by universities for the endowment of chairs and other purposes. A type of charity not expressible in figures has been exemplified several times lately when holders of large estates have turned grounds over to the public authority for conversion into parks.

Say Thanks with Million.

Two bequests of a half million dollars each are not counted in these figures, since they were made only a few days ago. Destined to King Edward's hospital, they are offered as a thank offering for the recovery of the king.

The largest gift of the year was five million dollars given to several charities by Mrs. Emma Grace Caird; the smallest was a farthing [half a cent], given to a hospital fund by a schoolgirl.

Nearly eight and a half million dollars were subscribed to the fund for the relief of miners. Bernhard Baron donated two millions and a half, Mrs. Lucy Greene, Sir Alfred L. Jones and Walter M. Simpson contributed a million and three-quarters, a million and four-fifths, and one million respectively. Twenty donors made gifts ranging from $100,000 to $750,000, among whom was Lord Beaverbrook with a gift of $125,000.

Lord Inchcape gave the treasury two million five hundred thousand dollars for the reduction of the national debt. Lord Rothermere has made any number of donations, including one of $250,000 to save the Foundling hospital, while he is also suspected of being the anonymous donor of the first half-million dollar gift for King Edward's hospital. Lord Melchett subscribed half a million for Jewish agricultural colonization.

Tax Is Responsible.

Donations to charity by the large number of tremendously wealthy men whom England boasts is encouraged by the present tax legislation which during a rich man's lifetime imposes the supertax bracket of the income tax, which takes half of his income, and on his death takes about the same amount of what is left.

Large fortunes have recently been completely wiped out by the death of the heir to the fortune soon after his succession to it. But since donations to charity may be deducted from the income tax returns, wealthy men estimate that their gifts are half covered by the reduction in the tax, while large donations to charities before death cut down the percentage that can be taken out of the residue of an estate for death duties, since the percentage mounts with the value of the estate.

CHINESE CHIEFS MASS TROOPS FOR NEW CIVIL WAR

Feng Tears Up Railway; Shortens Lines.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 19.—While the situation between Gen. Chiang Kai-shek and the so-called Christian general, Feng Yu-hsiang, is still at the stage of official manifestos in which each side appeals to popular support, reports from Hankow and from Peking indicate Gen. Feng is making active preparations for resistance. He is shortening his line of defense and tearing up the railroad tracks and bridges.

Gen. Feng's press service here says he is withdrawing his troops into central Honan for the purpose of defending his position, although there are some that believe he intends eventually to withdraw into Shensi and Kansu, possibly reëstablishing his connections with soviet Russia across Mongolia.

Gen. Chiang today ordered Gen. Yen Hsi-shan to mobilize the forces in Shansi province and the Peking district for the purpose of a rapid advance southward along the Peking-Hankow railroad.

A government spokesman estimated that Gen. Feng has 100,000 troops in the sector around Loyang in central Honan province and 120,000 in the vicinity of Changte Ho in northern Honan.

Gen. Chiang denies the charges that it is his personal ambition to dominate the country and repeats his recently announced intention to resign the presidency following the state funeral of the late Chinese leader, Sun Yat-sen, on June 1. He says the government is based on Sun's principles and the salvation of the country depends on peace and unification. He urges Gen. Feng immediately to dispel all the rumors that come to Nanking.

Gen. Chiang also reviews the recent clash with the Kwangsi clique and he suggests that a similar fate awaits Gen. Feng in the event of military resistance.

AL CAPONE AND THE FEDERAL LAW.

Al Capone is in jail in Philadelphia for a year. He was sentenced for carrying a concealed weapon. Curious, skeptical, or shrewd persons may figure out the story for themselves. He was on his way to Chicago, was picked up with a gun companion by a detective he knew, held over night, pleaded guilty the next day, and has been put away for a year.

This is the first time Capone has been convicted of any offense and punished. So far as is known Philadelphia was out of his territory. He was found on the city streets with a gun in his pocket, but he was not wanted in connection with other lawlessness in Pennsylvania. It is not charged that he was in any of the city's own gangs of bootleggers, gunmen, and corruptionists.

He is the most notorious gangster in the country. He has become rich by violation of the federal law. If there is any truth in the story Lemuel Schofield, Philadelphia director of public safety, says Capone told him in jail the hoodlum had been in Atlantic City with Bugs Moran and other Chicago gangsters arranging a business deal to stop killing each other and peddle liquor peacefully in Chicago. Mr. Schofield's story would thus contain voluntary confirmation of what every one knows—that Capone and his rivals have been responsible for the Volstead murders and massacres in this city.

He is in jail not because he was a successful and persistent violator of the Volstead act or because he was convicted of murder but because he violated a Pennsylvania state law, the equivalent of which in Illinois he has always violated.

By common repute and common police knowledge he has been the head of a murderous gang living by defiance of federal law. The federal officers in Chicago knew him as such. The federal government has sent little bootleggers and distillers to jail. It has prohibited or stopped the sale of ginger ale and ice by restaurants and hotels. It has warned clubs to see that the members cleared out whatever contraband bottles they might have hidden in their lockers. It has padlocked restaurants for selling cracked ice and charged water or ginger ale along with a service of tall glasses and lemon peel. But it never has given the chief gangster of the city enough disturbance to cause him really to notice it. He has known how to avoid federal trouble. He has had apparent confidence in his immunity. He has traveled from Chicago to Florida and from Florida while liquor was being wholesaled here under his direction, a trade in which machine guns furnished the only sales resistance.

If Mr. Schofield is to be believed Capone was returning to Chicago with a new confidence in his trade prospects, having agreed on a division of territory with the other gangsters who had been killing his friends and employés. There were to be brighter days after the St. Valentine's day massacre and the murder of Anselmi, Scalisi, and Guinta.

Capone is in jail. It is not because of his years of violation of federal law, not because of the wealth he has made and distributed in such lawlessness, not because of his gang leadership and the murders committed, but because he had a pistol in his pocket when he came out of a Philadelphia moving picture theater.

In Chicago he would have been in more danger from federal law if he had been a waiter with a bottle of ginger ale in one hand and a glass of cracked ice in the other.

FIRST RATE DAMFOOLISHNESS.

Work on Julius Rosenwald's south side housing experiment has been stopped by a plumbers' strike. Mr. Rosenwald is putting some $2,500,000 into a building in the expectation of being able to offer moderate rentals and excellent conditions of living, having the needs of the colored population of the south side in mind. The plumbers are striking because they and the builders do not agree as to refrigerator drains.

The builders are installing mechanical refrigerators without drains. The theory is that mechanical refrigeration does not need them. The city building code does not require them. The plumbers' union does. There is more plumbing work to be done with drains than without them. It takes more labor and more materials. It is consequently more expensive. The investment in the building is greater, the interest charges are larger, the return on the investment is smaller and the inducement to build is less.

Costs are such now that building is not attractive to money. One object in Mr. Rosenwald's project was to demonstrate that good housing could be made profitable. That would be of great social importance. His own building covers an entire city block. If he could prove not only its community value but its soundness as an investment this experiment, as Alfred K. Stern, director of the project, says, might encourage similar treatment of other Chicago areas in need of better housing.

The plumbers' union is in the position of insisting on an increase in costs for an incidental pay roll benefit. Its dictum discourages the investment on which it lives. This shortsightedness may be natural, but it easily can be first class damfoolishness.

GIVE US THE WEST SIDE SUPERHIGHWAY.

The bill to authorize the two level highway for the west side has passed the senate unanimously and will be disposed of in the house—by substitution—this week. It is to be hoped the house will give it as emphatic approval.

The need of the city for this modern thoroughfare is urgent and beyond question. Its advantages also to all visitors to the city are equally plain. As for example, 76 grade crossings will be done away with. As for the terms of the measure itself, they do not offer reason for fair objection, in our opinion. The public interests seem to us adequately safeguarded by the clause requiring a referendum to the west side voters, by the requirement of frontage consents and by the control over street vacations vested in the city council.

The project in form is not contrary to the Chicago plan commission's plans and the need for it is great.

A MEASURE FOR ALL THE PEOPLE.

The citizens' committee advisory to the Cook county forest preserve commission calls attention to the passage of the bill to permit the connection of our forest preserve tracts in Illinois, which now requires concurrence by the senate in the house amendment. Every one interested in the development of the forest preserve system of Illinois will hope there will be no delay in enactment. As the chairman of the advisory committee, Gen. Davis, truly says, it is impossible to conceive of a satisfactory system of forest preserves in Cook, Du Page, Kane, and Will counties, now scattered and disconnected, unless we hook them up and make them accessible. The senate bill authorizes the acquisition of necessary connecting tracts, and in Cook county it is proposed to make forest connections and provide hiking trails, bridle paths and occasionally a forest bordered driveway for the people. The commission already has well considered plans and the senate measure, bill 170, will make it possible to increase greatly the benefits of the forest system. All the people of the state may enjoy these benefits and future generations, as well as our own, will be grateful for them as a great resource of wholesome enjoyment.

Meanwhile senate bill 196, which has just been defeated, should be reintroduced and the legislature should give it a better advised consideration. It provided for the validation of previous purchases and prevented the loss and injustice to the taxpayers through the return to former owners of property previously taken with the enhancement of value produced by the forest preserve development.

The people ought to have this new resource of recreation and the legislature should see that it is assured to them.

HOW TO BE BORED.

Soon the dog race tracks in the neighborhood of Chicago will be open for the season. Sport editors will be importuned by the operators to feature accounts of the dog races and give them a respectable standing in the world of sport. By what standard these events have any claim to sport we fail to see. Just as exciting is the pastime of betting whether a particular house fly will light first upon the sugar crock or first upon the soup ladle.

Dog races are rackets, and any visitor expecting to get a thrill out of them or any satisfaction for his sporting impulse will be disillusioned and bored. The races are conducted exclusively for the betting features, but we have yet to learn of a duller way to spend money. The actual race has no more sporting interest or value than could be expected of it; the event is over in an instant; the dogs can't be distinguished during the run, and the intervals between races are interminable. Furthermore, the race that isn't fixed is the exception; all but those dogs selected by the management to win are mistreated to slow their pace.

For a thoroughly stupid evening we recommend the dog races.

CURTIS, AN "INCOMPETENT INDIAN."

[Columbus Dispatch.]

It is not a little shocking to learn that Vice President Curtis is listed in the records of the Indian bureau as an "incompetent Indian." It does not seem to jibe with his rapid rise in the confidence of his countrymen or his conspicuous service as presiding officer of the United States senate. However, it should be explained, the term "incompetent," while it might make splendid material for campaign wits, is merely a legal phrase.

Being an "incompetent Indian" makes it impossible for Mr. Curtis to lease, rent or sell, or otherwise dispose of his 160 acres of homestead land in Oklahoma without the approval of the government. The government assumes that an "incompetent Indian" is unable to transact private business.

One of the greatest advantages of being an "incompetent Indian" is that one always is assured of his land holdings, valued at some $15 to $25 an acre, with taxes negligible. This possibly may be the reason why Mr. Curtis has allowed his record to remain unchanged, being fully cognizant of the advantages of being both an Indian and an "incompetent." Also, it is barely possible that he does not wish to set an undesirable precedent for others of the Kaw tribe who might be tempted to follow the example of their most illustrious member.

At any rate, Mr. Curtis appears well content to be listed by his government as an "incompetent," the while he proceeds to demonstrate his competency as a high public official and as a business man in private life. Perhaps, with Indian reticence, he enjoys an ironical little joke, masking his amusement behind inscrutable features.

SMART MA.

A woman advertised for a man to work in her garden, and two men applied for the job. While she was interviewing them she noticed her mother was making signs to her to choose the smaller.

When the women were alone, the daughter said: "Why did you signal to me to choose the little man, mother? The other had a much better face."

"Face!" exclaimed the other. "When you pick a man to work in your garden you want to go by his trousers. If they're patched on his knees you want him; if they're patched on the seat, you don't."—The Open Road.

TEN MILLION DEAF IN U. S.

THERE are said to be ten million deafened people—of whom three million are school children—in the country. Most of them are greatly incapacitated because of their infirmity. The question is not one of hazard to life or even to health. Nevertheless, it is of importance because of its relation to the pursuit of happiness, to comfort, convenience and efficiency. The aggregate economic loss by reason of impaired earning power cannot be thought of with equanimity and satisfaction.

The ears have lagged far behind the eyes in the care that has been given them by the people themselves and in research at the hands of the laboratory. Most states have laws specifically directed toward preventing blindness of the newborn. Trachoma has received a great deal of attention from governmental agencies and from philanthropy, and blindness due to industry has come in for much attention. There is no doubt of the wisdom of all this and the hope is that no part of the interest in the eyes will be relaxed.

By comparison the ears are a stepchild, a Cinderella sitting at home. The trouble is not with the ear doctors. They give up to date care to those in their hands. Most people with aches and other ear disorders do not seek help. "Risings" in the head are still treated by drops in the ears, and discharges from ears are still left to get well as best they can. However, we cannot deny the fact that the science of the ears has lagged somewhat behind the art of caring for them.

The American Otological society proposes to remove this shortcoming by raising a fund to endow research work on the ears and the problems of deafness. The Carnegie corporation has given them a substantial sum on condition that they raise money to go with it. The sum they are after now is five hundred thousand dollars. Among the subjects they are studying for which their research needs money are: The relationship of inheritance to deafness; the ears, their anatomy, their function and their disorders, in lower animals and especially in higher monkeys; the structure, function and development of the inner ear in man.

DIET IS THE SOLUTION.

S. T. V. writes:

1. How much should an 18 year old boy, 5 feet 4 inches, weigh?
2. What is the cure for auto-intoxication?
3. Is drinking hot water with milk and sugar in it instead of tea or coffee good for a person?

REPLY.

1. One hundred and twenty-six pounds.
2. Auto-intoxication means about the same as constipation. Exercise more, eat less. Eat molasses, onions, bran breads and cereals, and drink sour milk. Drink water freely.
3. Yes. Some call it cambric tea. Others, hot water tea. It is an old friend.

MOON NOT ALL IN BOTTLES.

Mrs. G. J. M. writes: Why are insane people more violent when there is a full moon than at any other time?

REPLY.

They are not.

Getting the moon out of medicine has not been an easy job.

USE OF STYPTIC PENCIL.

L. J. K. writes: A barber accidentally nicks the face of a person being shaved. He applies a styptic. Then he rubs his finger over the cut. Incidentally, this barber advertises himself as sanitary and his shop as a sanitary shop. Does this process fit the name?

REPLY.

It does not. Slight cuts and abrasions are easily infected. A little oozing or bleeding helps to prevent infection. There is no use trying to prevent the use in common of the styptic stick, but we should insist that it be wiped clean after use and kept in a clean place. The wound will bleed or ooze less if the barber keeps his fingers out of it, and fingers are always dangerous.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

DEPENDS ON DATES.

Chicago, May 14.—[Friend of the People.]—A woman divorced her husband, who was an American citizen. This happened fourteen years back. This woman married again, but to an alien, three years later. This husband died two years ago.

Did this woman lose her citizenship when divorced from her first husband or does she still retain it today? J. R.

A married woman, before Sept. 22, 1922, assumed the citizenship status of her husband. By the act of Sept. 22, 1922, she was given an independent status.

Therefore, if the woman referred to was married to a citizen before Sept. 22, 1922, she did not lose her citizenship by reason of a divorce; neither did she lose it by marriage to an alien after Sept. 22, 1922; but if she married an alien before that date she took the citizenship status of her husband.

YOUR OWN FAULT.

Chicago, May 12.—[Friend of the People.]—Has there been a law passed to prohibit the collecting of garbage or are they saving it up for the World's Fair so as to make an impressive showing and smelling? It's about five weeks since garbage has been collected in this ward. C. H. H.

Report is made that there would be no difficulty with regard to garbage collections if occupants at this number would comply with notice served on them to separate garbage in accordance with the provisions of the ordinance governing same.

THE NEIGHBOR'S DUST.

Chicago, May 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What is the law about this? A company in our block which uses chemicals has a splash on its roof with no guard. When the wind blows the least bit this comes into our window and it leaves small white particles on the furniture after it dries. C. E. J.

Section 2207 of the Chicago municipal code provides: "No . . . substance that is . . . liable to be blown by the wind shall be . . . agitated or exposed . . . where particles therefrom . . . will pass into any such street . . . or into any occupied premises."

THE MANCHESTER SQUARE CASE.

SYNOPSIS.

If you haven't read the preceding chapters wait until the story is published in book form. That's why a story is run serially, anyhow; people miss chunks of it here and there, so they buy the book. Two dollars at all book stores. Remember, "The Manchester Square Case" will not be sold through book clubs. People that buy their books that way wouldn't understand it; lots of the words have two syllables.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

"Yes," continued the poor wretched man as he burst forth into another terrible fit of sobbing, "art galleries drove me to murder. It wasn't just looking at the pictures. It was the gabble of all those American tourists reading out of the guide books. I couldn't stand it, I tell you. And I kept thinkin' of that bird sitting in his room in Manchester Square grinning contemptuously down on us poor guys bein' dragged around Europe by the seat of our pants. So I sneaked out and went back and shot him."

"I'll have to take you in custody, my lad," said Constable Higgins professionally. "Put out your hands, please."

Constable Higgins started to fasten the handcuffs on the man's wrists. The man looked up at him and Constable Higgins started back.

"Gawd's trewth!" he exclaimed. "It's Porters Siding!"

"Well, yes," said the man, "that's what you called me when we met in Oxford. Although I kept telling you that wasn't my name, that's just the name of the little town back in Illinois where I come from. Take me away if you're a policeman. I don't care what becomes of me now."

"Oh, there you are at last!" exclaimed an excited female voice at the door. "You're a pretty husband, you are. You ought to be ashamed of yourself!"

A very indignant fat lady bore down on Porters Siding. "It's the Ball and Chain," he explained to Constable Higgins. "Well, go ahead, officer, do your duty, put the irons on me and take me out and hang me."

"What's all this nonsense?" demanded Mrs. Porters Siding. "You're a disgrace to the United States, that's what you are. You get right up and come with me. We're just going to Shakespeare's birthplace and then we're going to Anne Hathaway's cottage. You come right along."

"I'd sooner be hanged," muttered Porters Siding. "Come on, officer, do your duty."

"Well," said Mrs. Porters Siding, "you're talkin' like you was plumb crazy. What's happened, I'd like to know."

"Nothing, my dear," said Porters Siding, "except this man is a policeman and he's just arrested me for the murder of Sir Algernon Somerset in Manchester Square."

"Sir Algernon Fiddlesticks!" gasped the lady. "You wouldn't murder a bumble bee. Why, you won't even go fishing because you can't bear to put a fish worm on the hook."

"That's because I can't bear to see the horrible expression on the fish worm's face when the hook goes through him," explained Porters Siding. "I remember the first and last fish worm I impaled on a cruel fish hook. He squirmed around and looked at me with his eyes full of tears and with such an expression of sorrow in his face that I shall never forget it. Oh, the look that poor fish worm gave me just before he died! It will haunt me forever!"

Porters Siding again buried his face in his hands and broke into convulsive sobbing.

"Well, I must say," observed the puzzled Mrs. Porters Siding, "this is a pretty kettle of fish."

"Don't! don't! don't!" shrieked Porters Siding. "Don't say fish; it makes me remember the poor little fish worm that I killed. Don't mention fish again; I can't bear it, I tell you."

"What's this foolish nonsense about his having killed a man?" demanded Mrs. Porters Siding, turning to Constable Higgins.

"Don't ask him," wailed Porters Siding, "ask me. You drove me to it. You made me come to Yurrup to get culture. An' you dragged me around to museums and castles and art galleries 'til I couldn't stand it no more. I musta gone out o' my mind, for I sneaked away from you when you were doing the Wallace Collection, and I went back into Manchester Square and shot Sir Algernon Somerset right through the middle of his forehead. And now the British government is going to hang me."

"You make me sick," said Mrs. Porters Siding; "you get right up and come along with me to Shakespeare's birthplace." She grabbed her husband by the arm and started to drag him from the pub.

"One minute, please!" Constable Higgins reached out a restraining hand. "This man has confessed to a murder. He is my prisoner!"

Mrs. Porters Siding looked wildly around. Then she gave a piercing scream and fainted. It was really the only thing left to do under the circumstances.

PUIS ET A PRESENT.

Sing a song of contrasts,
Time can take a bow;
Clear the stage and call 'em back. . . .
Where's the old gang now?

Sixty men in my platoon—
Four are here in town
Settled in civilian stalls,
Life has tamed them down.

Eyes that watched high-riding Death,
Hands that bent him back
Watch and work in peace-time ways,
Guide a soft attack.

Sing a song of contrasts,
Time can take a bow;
Clear the stage and call 'em back. . . .
Where's the old gang now?

THE SOLICITOR.

MR. SCARFACE CAPONE is said to have sought seclusion in a jail as being about the only place in America that is really and thoroughly safe. Which prompts us to renew our campaign for Bigger and Better Jails. If our citizenry insists on going to jail instead of to health resorts and rest cures, let us make our jails gayer and brighter that they who seek safety and solace there will never want to leave.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 20, 1864.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.—The roads having again become passable, Gen. Grant ordered a reconnoissance in force on our left on May 17. Gen. Wright, who was charged with its execution, found the thickets so dense troops could not get through in any kind of order. Accordingly it was determined to feel the enemy's left on the morning of the 18th. Gen. Hancock's corps was rushed over and beyond the enemy's first line of works. Here they found a second time of intrenchments, protected by a formidable abattis. Gen. Barlow, in the advance, reported an assault would be extremely hazardous, and our forces accordingly were withdrawn.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Reports from Gen. Sherman's command, dated Kingston, Ga., May 19, announce that he had reached Kingston and encamped there. On the 19th he advanced on the rebels, who again retreated. When the dispatch was written Hooker's and Howard's guns were hammering away at Gen. Johnston and the two armies were in plain sight of each other two miles from Kingston. Davis' division of the 14th corps is in possession of Rome, Ga.

CHICAGO.—Yesterday the consecration of St. James' church took place in the presence of a large congregation. The procession of robed clergy was one of the most imposing ecclesiastical pageants ever seen in Chicago. Bishop Whitehouse of Illinois was assisted by Bishops Kemper of Wisconsin and McCoskey of Michigan, and over forty Episcopal clergy of the northwest. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Littlejohn of Brooklyn.

CHICAGO.—James Conroy and Miss Maggie Mockler were married in the bishop's place on May 15.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 20, 1899.

MANILA.—Two military and two civil Filipino commissioners, appointed by Aguinaldo to coöperate with three citizens of Manila in negotiating terms of peace, arrived here. They want an armistice pending the session of the Filipino congress. Maj. Gen. Otis refused to entertain the proposal.

LONDON.—The Johannesburg correspondent of the Morning Post says facts that have arisen since the arrest of the former British officers on charges of a conspiracy to promote a rising in the Transvaal leave no doubt that the alleged plot was "engineered by Boer officials to divert attention from the real demands of the Uitlanders."

CHICAGO.—Miss Gladys Wallis, the actress, and Samuel Insull, president of the Chicago Edison company and a member of numerous clubs, are to be married. Mr. Insull himself confirmed the news, saying the ceremony will take place soon. Miss Wallis is pleasantly known in Chicago. She is 24 years old and made her stage debut at 14 as Juliet.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Hetty R. Green arrived at the Great Northern hotel yesterday, and, after negotiating with Clerk Whipple for a $2 room and eating a light dinner, went out with her proverbial handbag to see some of her tenants and inspect some of her downtown properties.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 20, 1919.

LONDON.—The fate of Harry G. Hawker and Mackenzie Grieve, who were attempting a flight from Newfoundland to the British isles, is still in doubt. It is impossible to say whether the machine that fell into the ocean forty miles from the mouth of the Shannon river on the west coast of Ireland was Hawker's Sopwith.

PARIS. — Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, Herr Warburg, and other German delegates returned to Versailles at noon with all their baggage and the report is current that they brought instructions to sign the peace treaty as soon as possible, even if unable to obtain concessions asked by Germany.

NEW YORK.—The steamship Siboney nosed into New York harbor bringing more than 3,000 Illinois soldiers back home. On board is the 130th infantry in command of Col. John V. Clinnin, formerly a major in the old Illinois 1st. Most of the 123d machine gun battalion, another Illinois unit, is also on the ship.

QUACK OSTEOPATHS.

Springfield, Ill., May 15.—While THE TRIBUNE is doing some splendid work in aiding the cleaning up of some of the quack medical doctors and quack dentists, why not extend your good work to include eliminating some of the quack osteopathic physicians as classified in the Red book of the Chicago Telephone company?

Under that classification there are some 60 names of individuals who hold themselves to be osteopathic physicians who have never attended an accredited osteopathic college and who, under the name of osteopathy, do that which is not osteopathic and misrepresent the profession, as well as receive money under false pretenses. We have made several attempts to eliminate these individuals, but with no success. Mr. A. M. Shelton, formerly of the department of registration and education, either could not or was unwilling to give us the necessary aid.

If THE TRIBUNE can help us, it will be appreciated. O. C. FOREMAN, D. O.,
Osteopathic Examiner, Department of Registration.

THE MANTENO ASYLUM.

Chicago, May 16.—I note in Wednesday morning's Voice of the People a communication signed "A Clergyman," dated Manteno, Ill., suggesting that the location of the Manteno institution has been changed by the department of public welfare. I wish to advise that this is incorrect in so far as the ultimate result is concerned.

It is true that on the advice of the state architect the department decided to build the first group of the Manteno buildings on another part of the land than was originally proposed. This decision was made due to the existence of a grove of trees on the new location, and the further fact that suitable drainage has not been arranged for the part of the farm embodied in the original plan.

The ultimate Manteno institution will be just as accessible to the concrete road and to the Illinois Central railroad as the location of the farm will permit.

RODNEY H. BRANDON,
Director, Department of Public Welfare.

FROM A GERMAN VETERAN.

Chicago, May 14.—On May 14 an article about the appearance of German war veterans in the Memorial day parade appeared in your column. The writer makes a number of statements the correctness and propriety of which I wish to question.

I am a war veteran myself. The only difference is that I was on the German side, and for three and a half years in the worst war fronts. I have seen all the terrors of war.

I consider the correspondent's statements the kind that come from the mouth hero type rather than the soldiers who felt all the terror, bitterness and misery which this war brought throughout the world.

He shouldn't revive the old [illegible] of war hatreds. His writings show that he has no idea about causes and effects of the war. I think a real soldier honors his enemies, and especially the German soldiers, who stood for four years almost alone against the whole world and did their duty.

Preaching hate has nothing to do with patriotism. That is only cheap propaganda. I don't want to praise the Germans, but every educated person knows what these people have done already for the U. S.

He should not forget that many of our best citizens are Germans, and that not all American war veterans hold the same attitude against the German people. AUGUST SIMON.

FLOWERS FOR SCHOOLROOMS.

Chicago, May 16.—Your idea of distributing flowers to homes and hospitals is a very commendable one, but there is another place where they would be greatly enjoyed and that is in the schools.

There are hundreds of schools in the heart of the city where the children do not know a tulip from a pansy, and a bouquet in a room would be seen and enjoyed by as many as two hundred children in one day.

The surplus flowers from a society event are always sent to hospitals, where they are often thrown away immediately because they are too much care for the already overbusy nurses. Let's get the habit of trimming the schoolrooms with the surplus blossoms.

CATHERINE G. WILLIAMS.

PETITION FROM PUPILS.

Chicago, May 17.—Flowers of all sorts are always sent to the hospitals, sanitariums, etc., but none are ever sent to the public schools. There are some children in the public schools who never see flowers, and I think it would be greatly appreciated if some were sent to them.

Flowers, as every one knows, beautify rooms, giving joy to the working pupil. The modernistic idea of school is to have recreation and pleasure as well as work, so kindly think of this idea.

MEMO FOR PICTURE ED.

Oak Park, Ill., May 14.—In the picture section last Sunday you printed a picture of the new bridge across the Delaware river between Philadelphia and Camden. How can I obtain that picture? I want it [a large one] to hang up in my class room.

I would also like a large picture of the Tribune building for the same purpose. I hope that you will give me one.

FIND FATHER AND HIS 2 CHILDREN BEATEN TO DEATH

Slayers Take 100 Pound Safe from Home.

Waseca, Minn., May 19.—(AP)—Their heads crushed by hammer blows, Julius Schuck, 54, and his 9 year old son, Ernest, were killed at their farm home near here Sunday night, while an 11 year old daughter, Ida, is near death as the result of an attack by unidentified assailants, for whom state and county authorities instituted a search today.

The hammer, found a short distance from the farm home, which is located three and a half miles southwest of here, and the disappearance of a 150 pound safe, furnish the only clews to the crime.

The condition of the house indicated that Schuck engaged in a struggle with his assailants before he was killed. Tracks leading across the field indicated two persons attacked the family. Furniture in the house was disarranged and a telephone had been torn from the wall.

Two daughters, Elizabeth, 17, and Wilhelmina, 15, found their sister, badly beaten, on the floor of the house at 10 o'clock last night when they returned from Waseca. She had been struck on the head by a hammer.

Unable to find their father and brother, the girls hurried back to Waseca, where they notified police. Sheriff Alfred Wadd of Waseca county went to the farm and, after a search, discovered the father's body about thirty yards from the house. Ernest's body was found about 300 feet away in the opposite direction. His wounds indicated he had been struck down from behind as he fled.

French Plane Goes Up in Flames; Crew Escapes

LONDON, May 19.—(AP)—A French air liner made a forced landing near Tonbridge this afternoon and was destroyed by flames. The pilot and one companion escaped injury.

TEXTILE STRIKE SCENE REMAINS TENSE BUT QUIET

Authorities Hold Martial Law Not Needed.

Elizabethton, Tenn., May 19.—(AP)—Martial law in Carter county, scene of five weeks' textile labor disturbance, "will not be ordered unless it becomes necessary and authorized courts fail to function," Adjt. Gen. W. C. Boyd said late today following a conference attended by representatives of the governor, the state attorney general, and military and civil officials.

Gen. Boyd is is command of eight companies of National Guardsmen who were ordered here to act as special officers.

The tense situation growing out of strikes at the American Bemberg and American Glanzstoff plants on April 15 still is unabated, despite the fact there were no outward manifestations overnight.

So taut were citizens' nerves that rumors of dynamiting, riots and minor pillage continued to fly through the town. All were found to be groundless.

Extra troops have been placed near the Bemberg filtering plant, and a truckload of soldiers sent to guard Watauga river dam, 18 miles above the city. Damage to the filtering plant would stop operations at the mill, and loss of the dam would affect Elizabethton's water supply and indirectly stop the Bemberg plant. Operations were resumed at both textile plants here last week, despite the strike.

Last night one guardsman reported he was fired on while patrolling a mountain road. A group of guards early today fired on a few prowlers near the Bemberg filtering plant. None was hurt.

SHAM BATTLES IN SKY SHOW PARIS WHAT WAR MAY BE

Great Bombers Dart Like Eagles from Clouds.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 19.—The French capital got an idea of what the next war will be like today when the national aviation fête opened at Vincennes on the edge of the city. Thousands witnessed the aerial maneuvers of swarms of military airplanes.

The demonstrations of bomb dropping interested the crowds most. The giant machines, appearing like a speck in the distance at an enormous altitude, swooped eagle-like one after another over targets erected in a field as they released high explosives.

President Gaston Doumergue officially inaugurated the spectacle, and all the higher hierarchy of the army and navy, as well as representatives of European and French airplane construction, watched the show.

Autogire Attracts Attention.

The Laciervas Autogire, with a second horizontal propeller enabling it to rise and descend almost vertically, attracted lots of attention as the Spanish inventor tested it.

Then Bailly, Regimensi, and Marsot taxied before the stands in the little speed craft they flew to Saigon, Indo-China. The crowds saw the little single seaters skimming the grass at 300 miles per hour as Marcel Doret clipped his Dewoitine plane past the stands. Then Detroyat gave an exhibition in a Moran parasol monoplane. Villechanoux, the ace of acrobats, thrilled the crowd with antics in a Bleriot.

After the luncheon recess visiting delegations of Polish, Portuguese, Spanish, Italian, and Czecho-Slovakian aviators marched in uniform.

Communists Fight Police.

The sham battle ended in a bit of real battling tonight when the police broke up a communist demonstration against the aerial demonstration. Several policemen and communists were hurt. Forty-six were arrested.

Among those jailed were three editors of the communist organ L'Humanité, which has for weeks been inciting its comrades with increasing violence to break up the "chauvinistic capitalistic display which constitutes France's preparations for the next war."

The riot was a desperate last minute effort to start something on the part of several hundred picked communists who had mingled with the crowd all afternoon looking for a chance to break loose, but had been cowed by the display of police and military forces.

ECKENER HOPES TO FLY ZEPPELIN HOME THIS WEEK

CUERS, France, May 19.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin will sail under her own power either Wednesday or Thursday morning for Friedrichshafen, minus her passengers but manned by her own crew. Such was the decision of Dr. Hugo Eckener, the dirigible's commander, prior to departure last night for Friedrichshafen and made public today by Capt. Ernest A. Lehmann, second in command.

An immense throng of French people made pilgrimages here today and passed through the shed where the Graf Zeppelin is housed. Secretary Clodius of the German embassy in Paris, was a guest of the prefect of the department and again thanked the French people for their untiring assistance throughout the hectic day last Friday when the Zeppelin was in distress over southern France.

Miss Helen Walsh, stenographer, of 4716 Sheridan road, collapsed and died early yesterday morning while dancing with her fiancé, William F. Cason, in an apartment at 4402 Berkeley avenue. Heart disease was given as the cause of death.

On Saturday night, Miss Walsh and Cason attended a birthday party given by Mrs. Katherine Mitchell at the Berkeley avenue address. There was very little to drink at the party, Cason told police. In the midst of a dance with Cason, the girl suddenly slumped to the floor. She died before an ambulance could take her to a hospital.

The dead girl's only relative was her sister, Dorothy, with whom she lived. The body will be taken tomorrow for burial to St. Louis where the sisters formerly lived.

SHIP NEWS REPORTER COVERING OCEAN LINERS DISCOVERS DRAMATIC CIGARETTE STORY

Harry Acton, Sea-Going Columnist, Finds Nerve Strain Big Reason For Tareyton's Popularity on Steamships

WELL, FOLKS, your sea-going scribe has a new rôle to play this morning. Still bringing you news of the big gondolas that hop back and forth across the North Atlantic, but this time with a new flavor.

Harry Acton New York Journalist

Y'see, one of the big tobacco companies wanted some real nautical cigarette facts . . . and asked this scribbler to get them.

Well, the Aquitania's coming in, so let's go down the harbor to Quarantine and meet her.

And on the bridge, who should we find but my old friend, the Staff Captain, big as life, smoking a Tareyton.

There's the Quarter-Master at the wheel . . . tough job, this . . . And sure enough, he's another Tareyton rooter.

There's the smoke-stand girl . . . selling Tareytons like hot cakes up near the main salon. And look at that oiler, stealing a puff in the companionway as we steam slowly up the harbor.

Even the paid customers in the deck chairs are passing around the familiar white-and-blue package for a last, friendly puff before making port.

Yes, sir . . . You can just take your old friend Harry Acton's word for it, Tareytons have gone over big on the ocean greyhounds.

Funny, isn't it? Wherever you find tough, exciting jobs, you see Tareytons coming down the harbor . . . far in the lead.

It must be "steady nerves," folks. That's the new idea, and believe me, the big idea in cigarettes.

Me? Sure I smoke them . . . only I'm not supposed to make this a testimonial.

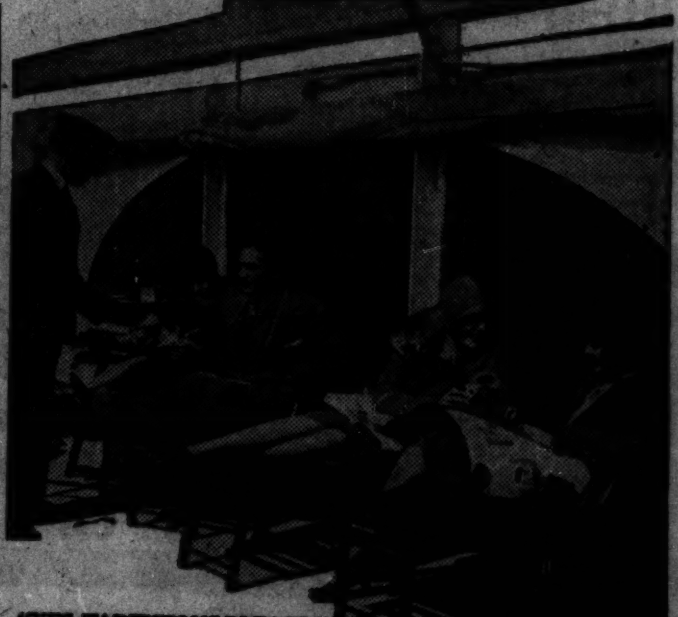
Thousands of others, all over the country, have discovered Tareytons for Steady Nerves through the now-famous 7-day test.

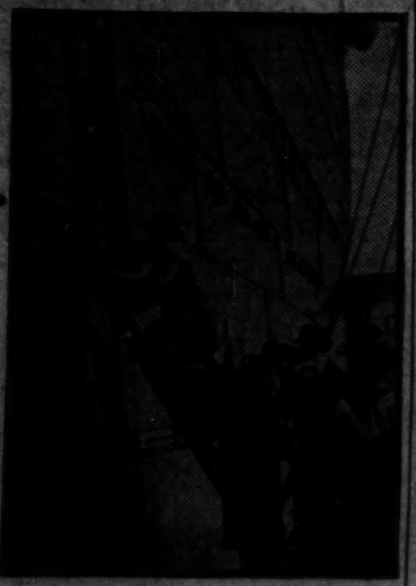
They simply switched to Tareytons for a week. Smoked no other brand, to give nerves a chance to calm themselves. Then checked up . . . And turned to Tareytons.

Fair enough, isn't it? Why don't you try it, too? Start now!



"YES, TAREYTONS PLEASE." Here you have the Deck Steward answering another hurry-up call for more Tareyton Cigarettes. "Tareytons are getting more popular every day," cigarette interviewers reported. "And it's steady nerves that's doing it. No question about that."

HERE SHE COMES! One of those Express Liners turning into her pier after a quick run from Europe. Below, you see the officers up on the bridge during a stormy night. No place here for jumpy nerves . . . that's probably why most seafaring men stick to Tareytons.



PRIVATE ENTRANCE. There goes Harry Acton, New York American Ship News Columnist, boarding one of the big boats at Quarantine. Constantly in touch with those who sail the ocean liners, he knows what they think about cigarettes. Read what he says.

HERE'S the Deck Steward who could tell you a lot about Tareyton popularity.

"STEADY IT IS, MISTER!" Here's a job for you! Holding this big boat true to her course through stormy seas and intricate harbor entrances. No wonder the Quarter-Master is strong for Tareytons. You can smoke all you want without your nerves getting jumpy.

now sells at 15¢ for twenty—plain or cork tip

A BIG SUCCESS—FOR THESE FIVE REASONS
1. "Steady nerves." 2. Humidor package. 3. Heavy foil. 4. Quality Tobaccos. 5. Sealed perforated top. That's why there's no dryness . . . no crushing. The extra heavy foil used in Tareyton's famous humidor package assures you a fresh full-flavored smoke down to the last cigarette.

The pastime of originating and circulating falsehoods about motor industry must go

A Plain Statement by Richard H. Scott

President Reo Motor Car Company

"IN its issue of Wednesday, May 15, the Automotive Daily News in a story appearing under a Lansing date-line stated that the Reo Motor Car Company would shortly produce a straight-eight automobile; that the car was already in production in the Reo plant; and that public announcement was expected within a few weeks.

"The story is utterly false and without foundation.

"But since no ordinary denial would be able to prevent the widespread repetition of the fabrication; since the publication of such a story is bound to affect adversely the sale of our six-cylinder automobiles–which we have been building for years and which we have not the slightest intention of discontinuing; and since it seems to us to be about time that the pastime of originating and circulating falsehoods about respected members of the automobile industry should be effectually jolted; it has seemed to us that the only adequate means by which we can protect our rights and the rights of other members of the industry who are constantly being sniped at by unverified, untrue and destructive rumors is by resort to the courts.

"The stockholders of the Reo Motor Car Company have a property worth more than $30,000,000 in net assets. The distributors and dealers of the Reo Motor Car Company have at least $30,000,000 more invested in the business of merchandising Reo Cars and Speed Wagons. We feel that we owe not only to those stockholders but to those distributors and dealers an obligation to protect them to the fullest extent possible against such an inexcusably reckless and unwarranted attack upon their property rights.

"We are utterly at a loss to understand how or where such a story as the one in question could have originated; and still more are we utterly unable to comprehend how a responsible publication could permit so potentially dangerous a story to find its way into its columns without having made an exhaustive effort to check its accuracy.

"And yet, so far was this from the fact that even the Detroit representative of the publication knew nothing whatever of the story in advance of its publication; on the contrary he was unwilling to believe that such a story had been printed until he had called the New York office of the paper and assured himself that it had indeed been published.

"To be sure, the Reo Motor Car Company–in common, we suppose, with all other automobile manufacturers–is experimenting with eight-cylinder motors. We have been for more than ten years. We have been experimenting with V-type eights, with straight-eights–and even with a nine-cylinder motor.

"But right now, we don't know that we shall ever build an eight-cylinder automobile. If we do, it will be only after we are convinced that the most serious of the engineering difficulties that now seem to attend the designing and building of an entirely satisfactory eight-cylinder motor have been surmounted.

"If we ever do decide to build an eight-cylinder automobile, not only is such an automobile not 'in production', as stated in the Automotive Daily News, but it has not even been designed! Whether such a car ever will be designed is for the future to determine. Certainly we do not know. Which means that if we were to decide today to build an 'eight', it would be a matter of many months—perhaps even years—before the work of designing and experimenting and testing could be completed; the plant could be re-tooled; and production be gotten under way.

"It is obvious, in view of the facts, how ridiculously false the story is. And we propose to prove the falsity of the story, once and for all, in the trial of the libel suit.

"And finally not only I but our entire engineering staff have yet to see the eight-cylinder motor for which we would trade the six-cylinder motor with which our Master Flying Cloud is powered. That motor is smoother, better balanced, more satisfactory in performance than any of the eight-cylinder motors that have yet come under our observation—either those of competitive cars or those experimental motors that have been designed and built in our own engineering department. We have been experimenting with and testing eight-cylinder cars of various makes—including at least one that sells for hundreds of dollars more than the highest-priced Reo we build; but for my own use I have not seen one of them that I would willingly accept as a substitute for our own six-cylinder motor.

"And you may be sure that if and when we do decide to build an eight-cylinder car, it will be when we are convinced that we are thereby going to be able to give the public a better automobile than we are now building.

"In twenty-five years of building automobiles, the Reo Motor Car Company has never permitted itself to be stampeded into yielding its deliberate conviction to considerations of expediency; and it will not do so now. Reo's reputation is the result of Reo's conscientious effort always to build good automobiles—always better automobiles; and that aim will continue to actuate the management of this Company."

DIXIE FLOOD PLAN WOULD ADD 100 MILLION TO COST

Hoover Likely to Stand by Jadwin Project.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.] — President Hoover will be advised by the war department that more than one hundred million dollars will be added to the cost of the Mississippi flood control project if the Jadwin construction plan is changed to include purchase of flowage rights in the Boeuf basin and the Atchafalaya river floodways in Louisiana and Arkansas.

The figures were prepared for the President after a group of southern senators, led by Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], had submitted a brief to him in support of a request for a change in the Jadwin plan which would include government payment for lands embraced within all spillways, floodways, diversion channels or storage basins included in the project.

Ask for Speedy Action.

The senatorial group asked that the President either change the plan prepared by Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, army chief of engineers, or consent to congressional action at the special session on new legislation which would require the government to purchase flowage rights over between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 acres of lands. The southern group asserted that an emergency exists and that action before the special session adjourns is necessary.

Indications at the White House are that the President will back up Gen. Jadwin on the theory that passage of the pending bills would open up the way for increasing the scope of the flood control act to a point where the Mississippi project would cost more than a billion dollars, rather than the 300 million dollars authorized in the initial bill.

Following a long drawn out fight during the last session of congress, the flood control act was finally drawn so that it provided that the United States should pay damages whenever it turned upon anybody's land more flood water than would have gone there if the levees under the new project had not been built.

Forced Into Bill by Coolidge.

Former President Coolidge forced this language into the bill after land owners in Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, and other southern states had utilized every resource at their command to obtain legislation which would force the government to purchase flowage rights over all lands flooded in times of high water.

Gen. Jadwin interpreted the act as absolving the government from the necessity of purchasing flowage rights over the 3,000,000 acres of lands in the Boeuf and Atchafalaya sections of the project. He ruled, however, that the land owners in the New Madrid floodway in Missouri, as well as in the Bonnet Carre spillway in Louisiana were entitled to payment for flowage rights.

Publication of the Jadwin plan precipitated a storm of criticism, especially in the Boeuf and Atchafalaya sections, where army maps show that more than half of the land is either timbered or swampy.

Limited by Guide Levees.

The area to be flooded in the Boeuf and Atchafalaya basins will be limited by guide levees. These will be built many miles apart outside the present protective levees and the water will not flow over them unless the flood goes above the 1927 stage. When it does the crop and farms which the levees inclose will be sacrificed in the belief that by so doing, a large area of more land will be saved from inundation.

War department engineers, who have investigated the land situation along the whole project have reported that owners are asking from four to eleven times as much for their land or for flowage rights alone over their property as its assessed value. In their reports they have asserted that the government would have to pay much more than the land is worth if it were purchased without condemnation proceedings.

In the Bonnet Carre and New Madrid districts where the rights of way for levees must be acquired, the government has refused to pay the prices asked for land. As a result the department of justice has completed legal steps to begin condemnation proceedings at both places. One thousand acres of land in the Bonnet Carre district is needed for levee right of way and 2,303 in the New Madrid floodway.

The prices asked in the Bonnet Carre spillway near New Orleans are listed by the government as eleven times assessed values. The prices asked in the New Madrid project are given as four or five times assessed values.

STATE SENATE URGED TO PASS WATERWAY TERMINALS MEASURE

Passage of the Haenisch waterway bill, pending in the state senate, was urged in a statement issued yesterday by the Illinois chamber of commerce as a step toward development of Chicago and other Illinois cities as waterway centers. The measure, which already has passed the house, provides that the state may acquire and operate river waterway terminals.

As soon as suitable terminals are provided, the statement pointed out, the federal government will place barges on the Illinois river, operating to Chicago when the waterway is completed in 1931.

Terminals already are in service at Cairo and East St. Louis, it was explained, and these two cities have more tonnage than any other port except New Orleans on the entire Mississippi system. Last year Cairo had 328,618 tons and East St. Louis 258,384 tons. Terminals at Peoria, La Salle and other river cities are needed quickly and will be provided if the Haenisch bill clears the way, the chamber of commerce declared.

STALIN PROGRAM FOR RUSSIA GETS COMMUNIST O. K.

Soviet Congress Takes Up Industrial Plan.

(Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.)

MOSCOW, May 19.—The All Union Soviet congress, which opens tomorrow, will concern itself principally with the five years' industrial plan and its companion program of rural socialization, both of which it is expected to approve and ratify. As the congress is the supreme organism of the soviet governmental structure, its ratification will put both plans formally into being as national policies, thus crowning Josef Stalin's victory over the "rights" and doubters.

The controversy with the right is now "liquidated" and will not be renewed unless circumstances, for instance, a poor harvest, rearouse criticism of the Kremlin standpoint. The adherents of the right have met a crushing defeat and two of their political spokesmen, M. Bukharin and M. Tomsky, have lost enormously in prestige and position.

The latter is now in Germany "on sick leave," and his duties as president of the United Labor federations are being cared for by the secretary of that body, M. Dogadoff.

Rykoff Keeps His Job.

On the other hand, Alexes Rykoff, president of the council of people's commissars, who is generally believed to be the third member of the right "Troika," has swung to the majority viewpoint and retains his functions, practically undiminished, although he, too, cannot be said to have increased his prestige.

M. Bukharin persists in the criticisms he expressed six months ago in his pamphlet, "Notes of an Economist," but it is not supposed that he would dare or is contemplating such a form of opposition as is conducted by the adherents of Leon Trotzky. He simply agrees to differ and waits upon events.

What course events will take depends, first, upon the harvest, whose prospects at the present seem fair to medium. Unless a change for the worse comes, there will be little to affect the Kremlin's program unfavorably, as the importation of grain from abroad which might be required at a sacrifice of the state gold reserve will be avoided by the allocation of some 2,000,000 tons of grain from the state "emergency fund" collected during the past years for a sudden natural catastrophe or other unexpected contingency.

Relieves Financial Tension.

This decision will tend to relieve financial tension, which is in no small degree due to fear lest the gold reserve be reduced. Although the currency in circulation has increased by almost 100 million rubles [about $50,000,000] during the last three months and must, doubtless be increased further to handle the harvest, it is within the limit—in ratio to gold—prescribed by law and indeed retail prices published today show a diminished rise compared to the previous month, although still slightly on the upgrade.

FOUR RAILROADS AGREE ON TRACK SEPARATION PLAN

Separation of the tracks of four railroads at 15th place and Stewart avenue has been agreed upon by the railroads, it was announced yesterday by G. A. Weigel, engineer of track elevation of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. The separation will eliminate one of the barriers to east and west traffic, it was said, and will make unnecessary an average of more than 700 train stops a day.

Approval of the city council terminal committee must be given before the improvement may be carried out. If authorization is given within a few weeks the separation can be completed by Jan. 1, 1931, Mr. Weigel said.

In addition to the Burlington railroad, the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, and the Chicago and North Western railroads have agreed to the separation. The separation of grades will cost about $3,000,000, according to preliminary estimates.

The Symphony Season's Over; Elmer's Sorry

Wagnerian Concert Wins His High Praise.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, through W-G-N, 6 to 7, and eight central west stations of the NBC system, brought its 1928-'29 season to a close with a program which, to use the words of Conductor Frederick Stock, gave "excerpts from the greatest works of the greatest musical genius of all time—Richard Wagner."

"It was in all respects a great concert and most ingeniously arranged. The bacchanale and finale from the overture to "Tannhauser" was a French version, which may or may not have had much to do with the slightly unfamiliar effects in this familiar overture. "Wagner handed the world something when he gave us that overture," exclaimed a colistener.

The selections from "Tristan and Isolde" [acts 2 and 3] were concert arrangements by Mr. Stock. Every "motive" of importance in these two impassioned acts was brought into play. But little imagination was required to pictures the opera's scenes. It is only a great orchestra that can give us transcendant music like this.

The selections from "The Twilight of the Gods" were stirring throughout. The Ride of the Valkyries was used to bring the concert to a close.

Franck's "Symphony in D" was played by a New York theater orchestra locally through KYW, 1 to 2 p. m., and certainly this beautiful work was not too heavy—it certainly was not too dull—for the radio audience.

I could not persuade myself to pass up Wagner's music to give merited attention to the recital by Mme. Karin Dayas, American pianist, from New York through KYW, 6:30 to 7. A moment of listening told me that her program was attractive and her incisive style enticing.

Herbert Johnson, pianist, W-G-N at 9 o'clock, played the first and second movements of MacDowell's "Eroica" sonata. The broad style called for was something new for us from Mr. Johnson and it spoke well of what he can do with heavy works.

The works of J. Lewis Browne, composer and director of music of the Chicago public schools, stood out like red letters on the Chicago Sunday Evening club program at Orchestra hall, through WMAQ. The organ numbers were attractive, but only a portion of the choral works went out on the air, due to wire trouble. The choral portion that was heard, however, was impressive.

HOOVER BACK IN CAPITAL AFTER A NIGHT IN TENT

Washington, D. C., May 19.—(AP)—After an all night excursion to his fishing camp near Madison, Va., President Hoover attended Sunday school this morning at a rural Baptist church and returned to the White House late today.

The camping party, which included Secretary Wilbur of the interior department and Edward Lawrie, political writer, motored to the village of Speeryville, where they appeared for services at the Memorial Baptist church. There was no preaching. Sunday school was in progress, so he stayed and worshiped with the children, who sang several of his favorite hymns.

Leaving there, the party crossed the mountain to Luray and thence drove into the historic Shenandoah valley, from where they came home by way of Winchester.

Although the excursion ostensibly was one with fishing paramount, there was none done. The President and his guests spent yesterday afternoon strolling about the camp. Tents have been erected, and it was in one of these that the chief executive spent the night.

The camp is situated in an almost inaccessible spot on the upper waters of the Rapidan river. Over part of the journey from Washington the heavy White House limousines must be deserted in favor of lighter cars, and the last mile and a half to the camp is covered on horseback.

FLYERS MISSING IN OCEAN FLIGHT FROM AUSTRALIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, N. S. W., May 19. — Flight Lieutenant Moir and Flying Officer Owen, who are engaged in a flight from London to Australia, are reported missing somewhere between Timor and Australia. Although warned against undertaking a nonstop thousand mile trans-ocean flight from Bima, they replied that they would not try to land at Koepang as was suggested.

The airplane passed over Koepang at 11:45 o'clock yesterday morning, but has not been sighted since. A search airplane proceeded out to sea from Darwin today and scoured 400 miles of coastline without result.

The gravest fears are felt for the aviators' safety since their plane was equipped with but one engine and carried no wireless apparatus.

IF THERE'S MUSIC DEED-A-DAY WON'T ATTEND JUBILEE

Chicago Republicans who plan to take an elephant to Ripon, Wis., June 8 to lend pomp to the 75th birthday celebration of their party had better not take Deed-A-Day.

The arrangements committee of the Chicago delegation went to Eugene R. Pike, president of the Lincoln park board, to borrow an elephant for the day. Mr. Pike decided he could lend Deed-A-Day, the elephant donated to the zoo six years ago by the Chicago Boy Scouts. Deed-A-Day, despite her youthful eight years, is a hulking beast, but as benevolent as the Boy Scouts' code for which she had been named.

The plans were completed last night, when a hitch came. Alfred E. Parker, superintendent of the zoo, has been at home for the last week with bronchial pneumonia and hadn't heard about Deed-A-Day's projected journey.

"So they plan to take Deed-A-Day to the jubilee," Mr. Parker mused. "They won't have a jubilee—it'll be a panic. That elephant's as gentle as a lamb, but Deed-A-Day's still a youngster and has never been 'parade broken.' At the least sound of music she'll dance all over the place with all four feet and trunk."

Last night it appeared as though the jubilee would have to make a choice between the bands and Deed-A-Day.

FAIL IN HUNT FOR MISSING CHOIR SINGER

No trace had been found by Austin police last night of Miss Esther Johnson, 30 year old choir singer of the Lamont Avenue Methodist church, who disappeared after choir practice Thursday evening. She lived with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sorenson, at 4846 Cortez street. Miss Johnson weighs 130 pounds, has dark hair and eyes, and was wearing a blue dress and a black, fur trimmed coat. Members of the choir and the pastor of the church, the Rev. C. A. Kelley, did not notice that anyone called for her Thursday night.

A search was being made yesterday also for Margaret Fink, 15 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Max Kink, 1416 Cleveland avenue, who failed to return from an errand to a store Saturday night.

This Special Drinking Milk costs only 3 cents more a quart

Because they love its "Sweet Natural Taste," children drink 4 glasses of "Selected" milk a day with real relish. Observations show that "Selected"-drinking children have perfect tone and color of skin, lustrous, well-nourished hair, and normal growth. The butterfat content agrees with children. It is very close to that of mother's milk.

The "Sweet Natural Taste" Appeals to Young and Old Alike

There is no age limit to the enjoyment of or the benefits in drinking "Selected" Milk. Because it makes milk-drinking so much more enjoyable, "Selected" is a very vital health factor.

"Milk is a perfect food," says Dr. Ruth F. Wadsworth in a recent article in "Collier's Weekly," "and should be taken to the extent of a pint a day throughout life."

For children, of course, the minimum up to the age when full growth has been attained, is a quart a day.

You are missing a great deal if you are not enjoying the "Sweet Natural Taste" of "Selected" Milk, to say nothing of the greater well-being that drinking it regularly would bring.

"Selected" is produced specially for drinking. Its "Sweet Natural Taste" is due to the unusual care and supervision in its production. It is produced on 105 picked farms, where the dairymen are paid a premium for maintaining exceptionally high standards of quality.

Give "Selected" a trial in your home. You will recognize the "Sweet Natural Taste" in the first glass. Phone Franklin 3110, speak to the Borden Milkman supplying your neighborhood, or tear out and mail the coupon below.

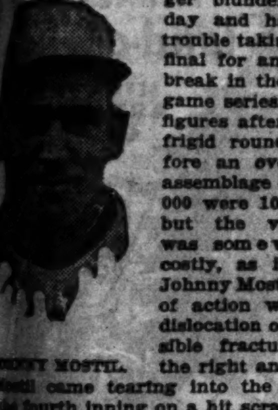
etroit, Mich., May 19.—The White crowded base hits among passes and comical Tiger blunders today and had no trouble taking the final for an even break in the four game series. The figures after nine frigid rounds before an overflow assemblage of 32,000 were 10 to 3, but the victory was somewhat costly, as it put Johnny Mostil out of action with a dislocation or possible fracture of the right ankle.



JOHNNY MOSTIL.

Mostil came tearing into the plate the fourth inning on a hit scratched the third sacker. At the last ute he decided to slide when there lly was no necessity for it. The es on his right shoe caught in the ber, the ankle snapped under him, after hasty examination by doc, summoned from the stands, he nt to a hospital.

Tigers Make Four Errors.

In the early portion of the matinée the ex-Baylor lad disd no particular skill, the Tigers him for five hits and two runs second and third rounds. In the Wake of the News

CLYDE VAN DUSEN TALKS.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 19.—[Special.]—As we picked our way gingerly through the infield at Churchill Downs to Clyde Van Dusen's stall a regiment of track attendants was still clearing up the litter, wreckage, and débris from the wettest Derby within memory. It was surprising the progress made from what seemed hopeless disorder as we left the grounds last night.

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

Reaching the H. P. Gardner barn, our hotel experience suggested that perhaps there had been a big celebration by the Derby winner and his friends, for there were some evidences remaining of that kind of disorder which doesn't care what the place will look like the next day. Clyde Van Dusen, however, had a clear eye, and, so far as we could judge, a clear head. He poked out his muzzle and whinnied. "So I am a little horse which cannot stand a grueling race, am I? Didn't I fool most of you experts, except Friend Don? Well, Wake, you placed me third, anyway.

"Now, Harve, blood is bound to tell. There were about four of us in there with real class and none of that four performed poorly. Another thing, I don't think the sloppy track decided the issue. It may have favored me against Blue Larkspur, but I tell you, Harve, no one can predetermine the weather, and if another chap can't run in mud that's just too bad!" And Clyde chuckled to himself.

"Honestly, it was not as hard a contest as I had anticipated. Pony McAtee stung me three or four times with the whip, but I think it was uncalled for. It did sort of rile me and I bounded forward. Nearly $54,000 is a lot of money, so perhaps Pony was right, but I didn't like it. Otherwise, he treated me royally and gave me beautiful piloting.

"Many experts—and I believe you were one—thought this field was below average class. I think you're wrong, but only time will tell that."

At this point we admitted several contenders looked better in the race than we had rated them beforehand.

"Another thing," Van Dusen continued, "I ran under even worse conditions in about the same time as Reigh Count a year ago, and he was a real champion despite his reverses in England.

"I'll have plenty more chances this season in Derbies and stakes, and I feel I'll add luster to the Man o' War blood lines. You remember, Daddy was good at the longer distances, and that's just the mark I want to set if Mr. Gardner will permit. I wasn't particularly tired physically after the Derby, but the nervous strain, of course, was exacting. Well, I'll be up for the American Derby at Washington Park and I'll see you there. Say, look up some night club that isn't padlocked and I'll throw a little party Derby night after I win for French, Don, you, and some of the other newspaper boys."

Derby Run to Form.

The fifty-fifth Kentucky Derby was regarded a truly run race. The Wake picked Blue Larkspur, Naishapur, Clyde Van Dusen, and Voltear. Two were in the money and none of the four was worse than sixth. The selection was made before the track became sloppy, but that probably would not have influenced our choice, as we had thought the Bradley representative better than the ultimate winner in any kind of going.

DO YOU REMEMBER WAY BACK WHEN:

Racing wagers were made with bookmakers, who posted their odds against each horse on blackboards, called slates, instead of the present pari-mutuel system?

Colored Folk at Van Dusen Farm Pray for Rain; Get It

Lexington, Ky., May 19—[Special.]—Four colored servants and two pickaninnies at Few Acre farm, 3 miles east of here, where Clyde Van Dusen, the Kentucky Derby winner, was foaled and spent his life, held a prayer meeting just before the big race yesterday afternoon. They prayed for rain, and plenty of it.

Then, with all the "white folks" at Churchill Downs, the stay-at-homes grouped around the radio of Clyde Van Dusen, trainer of the great gelding that bears his name, to listen to what the announcers would tell them.

They heard a-plenty.

"Yessuh, yessuh," with a grin reaching from one of his ears to the other, said John H. Dishman, Negro caretaker at the farm for the last seven years, as he came cakewalking off the Van Dusen back porch in answer to the sound of a motor horn. He was followed by Mack Williams, also colored, who "just helps with the hosses," and by their wives and children, all shouting the praise of both the Clyde Van Dusens.

Rain, Mud, Speed.

"Yessuh, yessuh," Dishman grinned, "the boss called up this mawnin' and said everything looked good. I tole him that we was a-prayin' good. I tole him that we was a-prayin' for that hoss, but mostly we was a-prayin' for rain because in the mud that hoss can't be beat. The mo' rain, the mo' mud, and the mo' mud, the mo' fast dat hoss can travel."

Dishman now believes even more firmly in the advantages of prayer, because, until the radio announcements began, he didn't know it was raining at Louisville. The weather, while theatening, was fair in Fayette county when the big race was being run.

"How long have I knowed that hoss?" Dishman repeated a question. "Why, man, I raised that hoss from a little bitty colt. He was the playfullest thing you ever seen; just as frisky as he could be, but not mean. Just give him a little piece of sugar and he would follow you all over the farm."

Clyde, according to the servants, was the universal favorite among the attachés of Few Acre farm, which contains only 100 acres—perhaps the smallest farm on which a Derby winner ever was foaled and raised.

Clyde's Ma Pleased.

Jubilant over the success of their pet, Dishman and Williams insisted on showing off Uncle's Lassie, dam of the Derby winner, who was peacefully and unconcernedly munching the deep grass on the back part of the farm near a row of trees.

Walking over to the brood mare which, with Man o' War, produced Clyde Van Dusen, Dishman raised her head from the grass and said:

"Come here, baby, you is a great mare now. Ain't you happy what your boy done today?"

The mare looked at Dishman, nodded, and then went on munching the tall blue grass.

There are twenty brood mares, two stallions, eight yearlings, nine sucklings, and five geldings at Few Acre farm, where Van Dusen trained the Derby winner for H. P. Gardner, New York, but Uncle's Lassie is the queen of them all now and Clyde Van Dusen will reign as king when he returns to his blue grass home.

CLYDE VAN DUSEN EYES 1929 TITLE FOR 3 YEAR OLDS

Meets Eastern Rivals at Washington Park.

The first pictures to reach Chicago of the fifty-fifth Kentcky Derby were published in the final edition of The Tribune yesterday morning. The service was possible only through the flying ability and courage of H. A. [Bud] Gurney, pilot of the airplane, who braved storm, fog, and darkness to complete the only trip made from Louisville Derby night.

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 19.—This was not quite the deserted village today but a great majority of the Derby throngs had departed and the others were getting out of town as quickly as trains and motor vehicles would carry them.

Some Derby talk was in the air but it also was vanishing at a high rate of speed. Clyde Van Dusen's victory in the 55th running of the fixture yesterday was so apparent from start to finish, and the race, as it was run, so devoid of drama it left little substance on which to base the customary after-Derby arguments and street corner debates.

As the Derby colts were brought out for inspection this morning for possible injuries sustained during the race, none of a serious nature was discovered. There were a few cuts and bruises picked up during the crowding at the first turn but not of sufficient importance to cause a let up in training.

Van Dusen Seems Lively.

Clyde Van Dusen, possibly thrilled by his own victory, appeared more lively than any of his rivals. He will not rest on his laurels but will be kept at his training grind. It is the plan to send him after the Fairmount Derby at St. Louis, the American Derby and American Classic in Chicago before he is given a vacation. This campaign will carry him through most of June and July.

Clyde Van Dusen's battle with Naishapur, Panchio, Blue Larkspur, Windy City, Voltear, and the others he led home yesterday is not finished, by any means. Neither is his path toward the 3 year old championship any soft route to travel.

His struggle with Naishapur, Blue Larkspur, and most of the others he conquered yesterday will be renewed in the Fairmount Derby at St. Louis. By the time he hits the American Derby at Washington Park in Chicago June 15 his two most formidable eastern rivals, Jack High and Dr. Freeland, will be ready to give him a brush.

Ship Horses to Chicago.

There will be a big movement of horses, including several of the 3 year olds in yesterday's struggle, from Churchill Downs to Chicago this week. The Washington Park season opens May 27, the American Derby, according to custom, falling on the third Saturday in June.

Harrison, director of athletics at the University of Pittsburgh, was reached last week for the first game, which is to be played in Pittsburgh. It will be the first meeting for Pitt and the Army in football. The return game will be played here in 1932.

Energetic Dempsey May Need Exercise and Also $500,000

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 19.—Mr. Paddy Harmon of Chicago is reported to have offered Jack Dempsey the sum of $500,000 for a prize fight with Max [pronounced Mocks] Schmeling, the Ferocious Frankfurter, or Paulino Uscudun [pronounced upside down] in Chicago this summer.

JACK DEMPSEY.

No longer ago than last March Mr. Dempsey was reduced to the position of capper for a crap game in Miami Beach, Fla., as an outlet for his restless energy. Since then he has been still further reduced, by degrees, first to the position of lobbyist for legislation affecting the sport industry in the state of Michigan, and later to that of fiscal agent for a promoting concern having no tangible finances.

More recently, like a spirited race horse which has gone barn crazy from a diet of mash and inactivity and has kicked a wall out of the barn in a spirit of fun, Mr. Dempsey took a poke at his old friend, beautiful Joe Benjamin.

Even Makes Speeches.

This was his first indulgence in pleasure fighting since he learned that he could get money for poking people. The latest report of his activities tells of his making a speech before one of the suburban Boy Scout commanderies in which he stated that hard work and clean living were the fundamentals of success, which nobody can deny.

Considering all this, one would judge that Mr. Dempsey's energy has been generating more rapidly than he has been able to discharge it in these rather mild occupations, and that by autumn he will be so energetic as to require an opportunity of the kind which Mr. Harmon offers.

One hesitates to question Mr. Harmon's sincerity in the matter, but one also hesitates not to, in view of the many misleading statements made by promoters in the past, some of which were published with apparent intent to deceive press and public. I was talking with Mr. Charles Murray, the Buffalo prize fight promoter, some time ago and happened to mention the time he offered Dempsey the sum of $300,000 to fight somebody by the name of Big Chief Porter, the pullman Indian, in an arena which manifestly could not hold that much patronage.

How Offers Are Made.

"What was the idea behind that offer?" I asked Mr. Murray, and his answer bespoke such a shocking cynicism that my faith in all such propositions was permanently impaired.

"I was just paying back a favor," Mr. Murray replied. "Jack had helped me make some money by fighting for me a couple of times and I had told him not to hesitate to call on me if I could ever help him in any way. So, when some moving picture people made him an offer to appear in a drama, he asked them to double the price on the ground that he was on the point of signing for a big fight in Buffalo. They did not believe him so he got me on the long distance and asked me to make him this offer, which I did.

"Then the whole affair was a figment of the imagination?" I insisted.

"It was the boloney," Mr. Murray said.

Mr. James "Moon" Mullen, a rival of Mr. Harmon in Chicago, lent his fair name and professional prestige to a similar deception more recently. It was at a time when the late Tex Rickard was negotiating for a prize fight between Jack Delaney and one of the other staff heavyweights of the garden corporation. Mr. Delaney was not content with his terms and his manager, Mr. Joe Jacobs, telephoned Mr. Mullen from Cleveland, where Delaney had stopped to fight a friend.

Cost Rickard $10,000.

"It would be very helpful if you would offer us a cash bonus of $50,000 for signing to fight Tunney," Mr. Jacobs said. "In that way we can get about $10,000 more out of Rickard."

"I will call up the Chicago newspapers right away and you can call up the New York papers," Mr. Mullen replied. "It will be a genuine pleasure to do anything that will cost Mr. Rickard $10,000. You may say that Tunney has already signed to fight for me. He may deny it, but nobody ever knows whether to believe him or not."

"Can this be true?" I asked Mr. Mullen when he had finished telling me the inside story of the deception.

"Do you doubt my word?" demanded Mr. Mullen.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

There ought to be a law against Burleigh Grimes—a new clause in the statute of limitations or something. Yesterday he went and did it again, the score of the Sabbath encounter at Wrigley field before 45,000 hardy customers being Pirates 4, Cubs 1.

BURLEIGH GRIMES.

The Cubs have been defeated nine times this year and Mr. Grimes was largely responsible for three of the setbacks, although a technicality gave one of the Pirate wins to a relief pitcher because Burleigh got tired and walked out while the score was tied in the 11th inning.

It was the sixth victory of the season for the Pirate star, and he had the Cubs whipped before the game started. The Cubs got a run across in the first inning and Pat Malone started out to win himself a shutout. But he didn't get far, for his mates were Grimes-conscious both at bat and afield. The Pirates tied the score when Grimm went after a ball that belonged to either Hornsby or Cuyler and they forged ahead on an unearned run that followed a throw into the dugout by English. It mattered little that Pat weakened for two more runs in the eighth.

Hack and Rogers Go Big.

Predictions that Hornsby and Wilson, washouts in Saturday's game, would be aroused sufficiently to perform ably in the Pirate opener were justified by those two worthies. The Cubs made seven hits and drew one base on balls. The Rajah got two singles, a double and the walk, and Hack got two singles. Hornsby also had a great day in the field, making four putouts and nine assists. English accepted eight chances, but his record was marred by the aforementioned wild heave.

The Cubs started off like they were considering shaking off the Grimes spell. English singled to right with one out in the first inning and went to second while Grantham was throwing out Cuyler. Hornsby then drove in Woody by singling to right. Wilson forced Rogers and the McCarthy scoring enterprise was over for the day.

The Pirates acquired the tying run after a cheerful double play had blighted them in the third. Grimes beat out an infield hit but was sunk with Bartell, English to Hornsby to Grimm. L. Waner tripled to left center. Then Traynor popped a high fly into short right. Grimm got the notion he should catch it and called for the play. It dropped for a double while Hornsby and Cuyler were obliged to stand by. L. Waner scored, of course. Grantham walked but Hornsby threw out Comorosky.

Pirates Score Again.

In the fifth inning the Pirates won the ball game. Bartell beat out a hit to English but was forced by L. Waner, Hornsby to English. Traynor grounded to Hornsby, who threw to English to get L. Waner, but Woody, eager to make a double play that would retire the side, threw the ball away, Traynor taking second. Grantham singled to right. Grimm intercepted Cuyler's throw to the plate and trapped Grantham between first and second, getting the putout himself after throwing to Hornsby to head off George going into second. But while all this was going on Traynor scored with what proved to be the winning marker.

Victory was placed completely out of reach in the eighth. Grantham got his third walk with one out and stopped at second when Comorosky singled to center. P. Waner drew his second successive pass, filling the bases, then Sheely sent a sacrifice fly to Wilson, scoring Grantham. Hemsley singled to center, scoring Comorosky. Grimes ended it with a pop to Grimm.

The Cubs developed what appeared to be two scoring chances if you reckoned without the great, howling down powers of Grimes. In the fourth Hornsby walked with one down and stopped at second when Wilson singled to left. But Burleigh tightened up and made Stephenson hit into a double play, Grantham to Bartell to Sheely. In the ninth, after Cuyler had fanned, Hornsby got his third hit and stopped at second when Wilson singled to right. The pair moved up on Stephenson's infield out and the game was over when Bartell threw out Grimm.

Guy Bush probably will pitch for the Cubs this afternoon, while Swetonic has been designated as the Pirate pitcher. The Pirates play here again tomorrow, after which the Cubs draw an off day to pack for their first 1929 pilgrimage to St. Louis, where they open Thursday afternoon.

Bob Suggests Stoddard Way to Raise Quail

BY BOB BECKER.

The state of Illinois can raise bobwhites by the so-called Stoddart method of carefully preparing coverts and keeping down vermin, such as crows, wandering house cats, weasels, skunks, and hawks. The job can be done for about $50 a bird, according to Aldo Leopold of Madison, Wis., who is conducting a game survey in several states for sporting arms and ammunition manufacturers' institute.

Mr. Leopold recently spent several days in Illinois in conference with Ralph F. Bradford, director of conservation regarding methods of increasing the quail population in the state.

Leopold believes that increasing the bobwhite is more or less of a farming problem. Although the birds can be raised in pens like pheasants, this method, known as the Coleman method, is more expensive than that worked out by Herbert L. Stoddardt, the head of the Georgia quail investigation, whose work and system we investigated last February while in Georgia.

Stoddart has demonstrated that given adequate cover and food, either natural or planted in this cover, and protection from vermin, the quail can't help but increase their numbers on a given tract of land. The farmer who takes the trouble to raise a crop of these birds can make a neat little piece of revenue on the side.

But, as has been pointed out by students of game bird propagation, Illinois farmers will have to change their clean cultivation ideas and stop destroying every bit of cover in fields and along fence rows before much can be done to increase the quail population. One important thing determining the increase of bobwhites in Illinois, according to Leopold, is the disappearance and destruction of osage orange hedges that provides excellent shelter for birds.

Cardinals Win 11 Inning Tilt from Reds, 2-1

Cincinnati, O., May 19.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals turned in a 2 to 1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in an eleven inning game today.

The Cardinals took the lead in the eleventh after High led off with a double and went to third on Bottomley's sacrifice fly to Walker. Hafey walked, and when Holm hit to Ford, High was caught between third and home, Holm going to second. Then Gelbert singled to left scoring Holm with the winning tally. The Red birds marked up their other counter in the fourth on two singles and a sacrifice fly.

COLUMBIA EIGHT RANKED BEST OF EASTERN CREWS

New York, May 19.—(AP)—With the sprint season virtually over, the mantle of leadership among eastern college oarsmen has fallen beyond dispute upon the shoulders of Rich Glendon's crack Columbia eight.

A clean sweep of a four race regatta with Massachusetts Institute of Technology on the Harlem yesterday while Cornell was losing to Yale on Lake Cayuga placed the Lions at the top of the heap as the only undefeated sprint crew in the east. Throughout the entire country only California's Olympic champions and Wisconsin can boast a similar record, and Wisconsin has yet to row its first race.

Amateur Boxing

George Curley and Henry Griffith, local lightweights, will meet in the main event of the amateur boxing show to be staged at the K. of C. clubhouse, 4715 West Madison street tonight. Seven other fights round out the card. The show will open at 8:15 o'clock.

Boxers from the United States and Canada will compete in the amateur tourney to be staged at the Chicago stadium on May 27 and 28. Boxers who took part in THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tourney are among the entrants.

Yanks Blank Red Sox, 3-0; Macks Trim Senators, 7-0

New York, May 19.—(AP)—The Yankees defeated the Red Sox, 3 to 0, here today in a five inning game broken up by rain in the home half of the fifth and followed by a tragedy as a crowd of more than 40,000 surged toward covered runways to escape the downpour. Two persons were killed in the crush and nearly 60 were injured. The abbreviated game was the first part of a scheduled double header, the second contest of which was postponed.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig each hit a home run at the expense of Jack Russell. Babe's drive was his seventh and Gehrig's ninth. The other Yankee run was scored in the first on a pass to Earl Combs, an error and Ruth's infield out.

Fred Heimach had the better of Russell in the brief clash. Each pitcher allowed only two hits, but Russell's two, of course, were home runs. Score:

SPORT OFFICIALS FROM GERMANY VISIT CHICAGO

Drs. O. F. T. Lewald and Carl Diehm of the national department of athletics in Germany arrived in Chicago yesterday to inspect the city's parks and playgrounds. They will visit the University of Chicago today and also inspect the south parks system. They will be guests at a banquet this evening at the Atlantic hotel tendered by the German American A. A. of Chicago.

An exhibition of athletics and turning will be staged for their benefit at the Broadway armory tonight at 8 o'clock.

Alexander knocked Clancy on the seat of his pants and put him out of the play. Crouse tried to make a last second lunge, but couldn't quite reach the ball. If it wasn't interference, then there never was such a thing, but McGowan overruled the Sox complaints. Then Alexander singled Rice across the pan.

The four runs by which the Sox put themselves on easy street in the fourth started with Reynolds beating out a single to short. Hunnefield doubled to left, Reynolds stopping at third. After Cissell had flied out, Sorrell committed a wild pitch and Reynolds scored. Crouse was passed, and Lyons grounded out to Gehringer, Hunnefield scoring on the play.

Schuble made one of his numerous bad pegs on Mostil's roller, and Crouse raced home from second. Metzler singled to right, and Pitcher Sorrell was removed for Pitcher Smith. Kamm scratched a single past third, and Mostil ran home from second with the fourth run of the inning. It was in this play that the Whiting flash put himself out of action.

Add Two in Sixth.

The Sox added two more runs to their collection in the sixth. Lyons blew open the inning with an infield single, Hoffman walked, and the bases became clogged, when Smith threw wild to first on Metzler's sacrifice bunt. Kamm drew a pass, forcing Lyons to score. Smith was relieved by Stoner at this point. Clancy then grounded into a double play, on which Hoffman scored.

After the sixth there wasn't much of exciting nature. Cissell stirred up a little fuss by getting himself tossed from the pastime in the sixth for complaining about a strike called on him by Ump McGowan. The Tigers gave the disheartened bugs something to shout about by scoring once in the seventh on a couple of hits, and Hoffman gave them something not to shout over when he slapped a homer over the left field fence in the eighth. This completed the scoring for everybody.

Michigan Risks Lead Against Iowa Friday

Two of the three Big Ten leaders, one unbeaten this season, will clash Friday in a diamond battle at Iowa City, when Michigan, with its record perfect, opposes Iowa. Forrest Twogood, ace of Coach Otto Vogel's Hawkeye hurlers and strikeout king of the Western conference, will pitch against the Wolverines. Iowa is tied with Wisconsin for second place, each having won four and lost two.

Saturday Michigan plays Illinois at Urbana. Other Saturday games will bring together Chicago and Iowa and Wisconsin and Northwestern.

English Soccer Team Opens U. S. Invasion with Tie

New York, May 19.—[U. P.]—The Preston North End soccer team from England opened its American invasion today by playing a 1 to 1 tie with the New York Giants of the Eastern league at Starlight Park before a crowd of 5,000. A heavy thunderstorm marred the game.

FRIDAY TRIUMPH MEANS LOUGHRAN GO FOR GRIFFITH

Harmon Anxious to Sign Iowan with Champ.

Whether Tuffy Griffith, Sioux City, Ia., 175 pounder, will be matched against Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, world's light heavyweight champion, will depend upon the Iowan's showing against Al Friedman of Boston in one of the ten round decision bouts on Promoter Paddy Harmon's boxing bill at the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

Promoter Harmon is anxious to close the match between Griffith and Loughran provided Tuffy wins. The promoter also stated that Friedman wants to tangle with the light heavyweight champion. Harmon may decide to pit the winner against Loughran next month at the Stadium. As the situation now stands, nothing definite regarding the match will be done until after Friday night.

Armando Santiago, Cuban lightweight, and Luis Vicentini, Chilean 135 pounder, principals in another ten rounder, engaged in strenuous workouts yesterday. The same held true for Jackie Fields, claimant of the world's welterweight title, and Clyde Chastain of Texas. Fields rules an 8 to 5 favorite. Ring sharps also are picking Griffith to win from Friedman.

All fighters on the card will start on the final lap of training today and that includes principals in two other bouts.

U. S. NETWOMEN DEFEAT FRENCH PLAYERS, 4 TO 3

Helen Wills, Edith Cross Win Doubles Match.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
(Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, May 19.—America's hoseless young women tennis stars, Helen Wills and Edith Cross, aided by a third, Miss Marjorie Morrill, who, old-fashioned, still retains white stockings as a part of her sport costume, played just well enough today to snatch three matches between them to give the United States a final count of four matches to three over France.

EDITH CROSS.

Miss Wills' mediocre game almost caused her to lose one set to Mme. Mathieu, an event which has not happened to the American champion since the golden days when Mlle. Langlen [illegible]

Miss Morrill Evens It Up.

The Californian finally defeated Mme. Mathieu, 8-6 and 6 love. Edith Cross fell before Mme. La Fourie, 6-3, 6-4, but Miss Morrill gave America another chance when she defeated Mlle. Kleinadel, 10-8, 3-6, and 7-5.

With France and the United States tied at three matches each, Helen and Miss Cross won the deciding doubles match by defeating Mme. Mathieu and Mme. La Fourie, 6-2, 2-6, and 6-4, just before darkness settled over the stadium.

All of which was by way of introduction to the annual French tennis championship, which opens here tomorrow and which, as in past seasons, has had as headliners the great Tilden and Hunter from America and France's four horsemen, Lacoste, Cochet, Borotra, and Brugnon, not to mention many lesser lights, three or four of whom may figure among the season's dark horses.

On the women's side it looks like another dull season, with Helen Wills galloping through to another championship without even extending herself. Eileen Bennett, English star, is entered, but Senorita d'Alvarez of Spain has wisely scratched from the women's singles.

May Be Tilden's Last.

Friends close to Bill Tilden say this is Big Bill's last foreign appearance and from the looks of his practice here so far it might well be. Teamed with Hunter, who will be his partner in the doubles starting tomorrow, he was badly beaten by two French youngsters, Debuzalet and Boussus, in a practice session today.

Tilden has drawn the same half of the bracket as Lacoste, whom he may meet in the semi-finals as he did at Wimbledon last year. But to arrive there he will have to hurdle such players as Demorpurgo, the Italian Davis cupper; Raymond, the South African champion; Debuzalet, one of the best of France's new crop, and his own pupil, Wilbur Coen. All the doubles matches are scheduled for this week with the singles following next week.

Tomorrow Tilden and Hunter will meet Rasmussen and Nielsen, a couple of big Danes. Miss Wills and Hunter will play Mextaxa and Glasser.

CUBA ELIMINATES MEXICO; GAINS ZONE CUP FINAL

HAVANA, May 19.—(AP)—Cuba advanced to the final round of American zone Davis cup competition today by eliminating Mexico in the semi-finals. With a lead of two matches to one when the final day's play began, Gustavo Vollemer of Cuba clinched the series by defeating Ignacio de la Borbolla of Mexico, 6-3, 6-3, 3-6.

Cuba will meet the winner of the United States-Japan tie in the final of zone competition.

Vincente Banet of Cuba won the last singles match from Ricardo Tapia of Mexico, 6-3-, 2-6, 9-7, 6-3, making the final series result four to one in Cuba's favor.

HOLLAND BEATS EGYPT.

SCHEVENINGEN, Holland, May 19.—(AP)—Holland advanced to the third round of the European zone Davis cup competition today when Hans Timmer of the Dutch team defeated Grandguillott of Egypt, 7-5, 6-0, 3-6, 6-4. Holland previously had won one singles and one doubles match.

WALL STREET

takes the measure of the 4 leading cigarettes . . .

"O.Gs." CLOSE 30 POINTS UP! The bulls were strong for "O.Gs." when the "concealed name" test was held with brokers and visitors on Wall Street. "O.Gs." finished 30 votes ahead of their nearest rival! (Above . . . one of the brokerage house tests.)

ON THE SUB-TREASURY STEPS. At the money-heart of the world, 35 Wall Street pedestrians made the test. It was not just a "straw ballot" of cigarette preference. It was an impartial test of taste-appeal. Again "The Street" went for "O.Gs." strong.

Certified Public Accountants conduct "Concealed Name" Cigarette Test in Financial District. The result is . . . a Bull Market for "O.Gs."

After all is said and done, Wall Street loves its facts. It has little use for the fanciful flights of the market tipster. In these days, particularly, Wall Street wants the net low-down.

So while "20 for 15¢" is the "low" of all time, in price, Wall Street wants to be sure that it is getting the "high" of all time in quality.

So the Street has just made the ruthless, truth-showing "Concealed Name" test of the four leading cigarettes. It forgot the lure of brand-names. It put aside the appeal of pretty packages. It discounted the claims of clever cigarette ads.

And it let the taste alone decide which cigarette is really the most winsome and pleasing.

As the Auditors' summary shows, the result was an overwhelming "Bull Market" for "O.Gs." Wall Street bases its judgment on earnings. And today, after earning its spurs by sheer and superior taste appeal, OLD GOLD enjoys a "record-high" in popularity among the financial men and their aides and secretaries.

By the way, have you made the "Concealed Name" test yet? It's easy to make and it tells you the truth. It lets your taste say, honestly and accurately, which of the four leading cigarettes is really the best.

On your Radio, OLD GOLD—PAUL WHITEMAN HOUR . . . Paul Whiteman, King of Jazz, with his complete orchestra, broadcasts the OLD GOLD hour every Tuesday, from 9 to 10 P. M., Eastern Daylight Saving Time, over the entire network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

"LET YOUR TASTE SET THEIR MARKET VALUE!" was the way the "C. P. As." asked these "telephone traders" to compare the 4 brands. And "O.Gs." were quoted at 6 votes above their nearest rival!

HOW WALL STREET VOTED

in test conducted by Certified Public Accountants

We certify that the results of the "concealed name" cigarette test which we conducted in the Wall Street district between April 15th and April 19th, 1929, were as follows:

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

When the annual track and field championships of the Western conference are held in the Dyche stadium, Northwestern university, on Friday and Saturday, six records will be in danger.

George Simpson, Ohio State sprinter, is expected to shatter the marks for the 100 and 220 yard dashes. In 1922 Hayes of Notre Dame set a Big Ten record of :09 7-10. Wilson of Iowa lowered the furlong record in 1923 to :21 2-10. Simpson has bettered these records on several occasions this year. With Timm of Illinois, Root of Chicago, Kriss of Ohio State, Tolan of Michigan, and Larson of Wisconsin to test his speed, the Scarlet and Gray athlete should smash at least one of the marks.

Dave Abbott of Illinois, who cracked the two mile record a year ago in 9:23 7-10, is expected to lower this time. The Orange and Blue distance star has been running the distance around 9:20 all year.

Vaulters Peril Record.

The pole vault record of 13 feet 3 inches, held jointly by Droegemueller of Northwestern and McGinnis of Wisconsin, is certain to fall if conditions are favorable. Warne of Northwestern, Canby of Iowa, Otterness of Minnesota, and McDermont of Illinois have been clearing the bar around 13 feet 8 inches in indoor and outdoor meets.

Capt. Wilfred Ketz of Michigan is expected to shatter his own record of 161 feet 7⅞ inches in the hammer throw. The Wolverine has beaten the mark several times in practice. He will receive stiff competition from Klein of Chicago, Ujhelyi of Ohio State, Dart of Northwestern, and Ukolberg of Minnesota.

Pete Rasmus of Ohio State has been hurling the discus close to the mark of 155 feet 2 inches made by Arlie Mucks of Wisconsin in 1916. The Buckeye is a dependable competitor, who has won the event for the last two years. It will be his final appearance in a conference meet.

Behr, Weaver in Shot Put.

Behr of Wisconsin and Weaver of Chicago are counted upon to better the Big Ten record in the shot put. In 1927 Tiny Lewis of Northwestern put the weight 47 feet 3 inches. The Badger and Maroon have heaved the 16 pound ball close to 48 feet.

Preliminaries in eleven of the sixteen events will be held Friday, starting at 2 o'clock. The program on Saturday will open at the same hour. Illinois, Ohio State, Iowa, Chicago, and Michigan appear to have the best chances to win. Ex-Senator Charles Rawson of Iowa will be the active referee of the games.

URGES LIMITING OIL OUTPUT TO NEEDS OF USERS

H. M. Dawes Calls It Prosperity Key.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Future prosperity in the oil industry depends largely on maintaining existing restrictions of production, according to Henry M. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil company, who made public his annual report last night. Recovery in the industry last year from the 1927 depression resulted in the largest earnings in the company's history.

"It is impossible to forecast with any accuracy the prospects for next year," Mr. Dawes says. "On the assumption that the industry may meet with reasonable success in its cooperative efforts for orderly production, the outlook is satisfactory. The company has made material progress, particularly in the last year, not only financially but in completing the integration of its functions.

"The ratio between production, refining capacity and marketing outlets is a vital matter, and while requiring constant study and effort, is at the present time remarkably well balanced. An important factor in this integration is territorial conditions, involving the location of production relative to the refineries and of the refineries to the marketing facilities. The company finds itself in a favorable situation in this respect.

Exploratory Drilling.

"In order to protect its titles to various leaseholds, the producing division has been compelled to do a considerable amount of more or less exploratory drilling. This has met with more than reasonable success but has not been productive of as much cash income as would accrue under normal conditions. There is still world-wide overproduction of oil and self-interest as well as proper regard for the industry and for the general principle of conservation has required that discoveries should not be as intensively developed as would ordinarily be done."

Net income for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1929, was $11,224,081, equivalent after preferred dividends to $3.05 a share on 3,038,370 shares of $25 par common stock. This compares with net income of $4,710,585, or 97 cents a share, in the preceding period. Depreciation charges last year were nearly $1,000,000 greater than in the preceding year. After dividends and adjustments, surplus was increased by $6,467,632 to $65,875,379. The balance sheet shows current assets of $32,232,130 and current liabilities of $6,677,137, compared respectively with $28,174,893 and $4,161,962 on March 31, 1928.

New York Central Income.

The business of the New York Central railroad last year compared favorably with that in 1927, President Patrick E. Crowley says in his annual report. Traffic during the first six months was less than in 1927 but recovered sharply in the last half of the year.

Operating reveneus last year were $381,733,244, a decrease of $1,644,066. Operating expenses were $288,250,203, a decrease of $5,149,633. Net income was $50,334,485, a decline of $8,230,660. This was due to the fact that the Michigan Central paid an extra dividend of $9,000,000 in 1927, whereas none was paid last year.

The road made a profit of $26,900,000 through sale of its holdings of stock of the Mohawk Valley company, New York State railways, American Railway Express and American Express companies. This profit was carried to profit and loss account.

Fixing of Price Tends to Help Substitutes

BY SCRUTATOR.

Governmental interference in the way of price fixing has the danger that it may cause the building up of substitutes for the article supposedly favored, and that the hitherto disregarded product, thus given a start, may destroy a large part of the market for the old one.

The rubber plantations have been given an example of this. In 1925 the operation of the Stephenson act, limiting the amount of new crude rubber to be sold, caused the wholesale price in New York that year to advance to an average daily of nearly 72 cents a pound—about two and a half times as high as it had been in any recent year.

The natural consequence was that manufacturers using this important tropical commodity turned to other sources of supply than the plantations. Reclaimed rubber became a much more serious factor. In 1923 the total production of the reclamation operations in the United States had averaged 17,384 tons a quarter. In 1924 it rose only to 19,018 tons a quarter. But in 1925, under the influence of the high prices of the new rubber, there was a jump to 30,906 and another in 1926 to 41,986 tons a quarter, a total of more than 165,000 tons in the year.

Growth of Imports.

In 1927, although the wholesale rubber price in New York fell from the average of 48½ cents—the 1926 average—to less than 38 cents, the reclaimed material produced rose to more than 172,000 tons.

Now, with restrictions off and the price down to the neighborhood of 22 cents a pound, the imports have grown very moderately. The amount of rubber brought in during 1928 was only about 36,000 tons more than in the high-price year of 1925. On the other hand the reclaimed material had advanced 96,000 tons over the 1924 figure.

Furthermore, the trade in the reclaimed article has been put on a world-wide basis. The department of commerce has reported that forty million pounds of it were exported from various countries in 1928, the United States leading with twenty-one million. Demand for it has been growing instead of decreasing, according to Harry W. Newman, a department expert.

"During the period of high prices," he states, "manufacturers were induced to experiment with the reclaimed material and perfected it to such a degree that its use is not likely to be readily abandoned. They have discovered that it is not only economical but best suited for their peculiar needs. The reclaimers have always in mind the possibility that a continuance of low priced crude rubber may create a tendency to reduce the use of the reclaimed product and are considering the best means to develop its consumption."

Sees Significant Fact.

Another division of the rubber business is composed of scrap and old rubber dealers from whom the reclaimers get their supplies to work on. In some countries old tires are used for a crude form of footwear, according to Mr. Newman, while solid tires after being worn down on the roads have been much used in rubber heels. Germany is a heavy importer of old rubber, taking nearly eighteen million pounds in 1928.

The significant fact in the whole thing is that the effort to raise rubber prices by governmental aid in marketing and limitation of output gave the reclamation project a start. The rewards were so apparent that research was stimulated. Once the start was made, it was impossible even for a falling price level of the new product to drive it out.

TIME-O-STAT INCOME.

Time-O-Stat Controls company reports net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1928, of $315,179.40, after all charges and taxes. These earnings are equivalent to $5.30 per share on the 50,000 shares of class A stock outstanding.

World Sugar Market Drop Troubles Czecho-Slovaks

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, May 19.—During the last few days the tendency of central European stock exchanges has been weak, chiefly because of uncertainty as to further developments in the European market. Budapest still is shaken by the Krausz collapse, and Prague is depressed by the deterioration of the world sugar market, which is of high importance to Czecho-Slovakia.

Wild Weather Hinders Trade in Some Lines

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Activity was spotty and weather continued to be the dominating factor in Chicago's wholesale market last week. With the mercury engaging in antics all peculiarily its own the market had little chance to advance in all quarters, although there was a noticeable lack of surplus stocks on hand.

The furniture trade was brisk, with a satisfactory influx of buyers for the second week of the midseason show at the furniture mart.

Appear Satisfied.

Shoe distributors appear satisfied with conditions despite the rather disappointing national picture presented by other branches of the leather industry, the weekly review of the Association of Commerec says.

"Building activity in the suburbs and increased demands by the larger industries stimulated activity in the electrical supply field," the association observes. "In the general wholesale and retail field the few concerns that permitted themselves to be stumped by the delayed warm weather in the disposal of their seasonal wholesale merchandise are bewailing their hasty judgment, while their competitors are enjoying a heavy trade in the southern and south central markets."

The level of wholesale prices in April suffered a slight drop compared with the previous month, the department of labor reports. Using 1926 as 100, the index number for April was given as 96.8 against 97.5 for March, a decline of about three-quarters of 1 per cent. For April, 1928, the index number was 97.4.

Hahn Negotiations.

Hahn Department Stores, Inc., are negotiating for additional stores doing a gross annual business of $2,000,000 following the acquisition of the Joske Brothers store of San Antonio, Tex., and Maas Brothers of Tampa, Fla. Sales for the first quarter of 1929 were $24,508,276, compared with $23,276,308 for the first quarter last year, or an increase of $1,231,968, the company reports.

Bank of England Taking Gold from South Africa

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, May 19.—That the Bank of England continues to get the new gold arriving from South Africa, notwithstanding exchange on New York is virtually at the gold export point, again is explained by the fact that the bank's bid for incoming gold has been above the statutory price.

U. S. BUSINESS RISING DESPITE HIGH CALL RATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 19.—The reported proposal of a 6 per cent reserve bank rate, rejected at least temporarily by the federal board, became known only at the end of last week but merely threw fresh light on a situation plainly visible before the news was reported.

Progress of the spring season, which has sometimes thrown unexpected light on the character of a financial situation, can hardly be said to have cleared up the uncertainties of this one. For the most part, it has repeated the indications which had grown familiar during many months.

On Wall street, abnormally tight money has continued. In a week not ordinarily marked by exceptionally large demands, the call loan rate reached the highest figure quoted in the middle of May during the thirty-seven years and collateral time loans a rate for which it is hard to find a precedent at this time of year.

Relation to Trade Activity.

This has occurred along with spring time activity of general trade of such unusual magnitude as would traditionally make very large requisitions of its own on credit, but it has not been accompanied by a rise in the stock market of such extravagant violence as that of last March or last November. The stock market may in fact be said to have quieted down distinctly. Transactions on the stock exchange are less by 30 to 40 per cent than at the recent climax of speculation; one day's advances, mostly under professional activities, are apt to be followed the next day by equivalent declines.

This fact has probably caused honest perplexity. The inference from the money market's action would seem to be that the relation between aggregate supply and aggregate demand for credit has changed radically as compared with two or three years ago; yet on the other hand, we have grown accustomed to unbelievably large estimates of "research bureaus" on the yearly accumulation of new capital.

What is the Federal Reserve Board? What are its purposes? What governs its policies? What is its part in the country's financial system? How do its operations affect the average man in trade and manufacture? These questions and many others of vital present interest are clearly discussed in this booklet, "Federal Reserve Credit Practice". Written in non-technical language for business men. CHEAPER WHEAT FAILS TO SPUR DEMAND MUCH

Level Now Lowest Since Year of 1923.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Lowering of wheat prices the world over has not increased consumption to any extent, and the disposition of the unusually large surplus in exporting countries is a leading problem that the trade is trying to solve without getting anywhere.

Values of wheat are down lower than they have been since July, 1923, May in Chicago touching $1.01 on Saturday, while in Kansas City the same delivery sold at 95c; in Winnipeg it was $1.11, Minneapolis, $1.02.

These declines in wheat, considered from the highest level of the season, are material and affect the producer and his buying power as regards supplies.

Harvesting of wheat is under way in southern Texas and will move northward at a fair rate.

Foreign Buying Light.

Export buying of American wheats has not been stimulated to any extent by the proposed reduction in freight rates, while Canadians have taken advantage of the 2c per bu cut in ex-lake rate from Buffalo to New York and shipped several millions of bushels to the seaboard. Congestion at Buffalo and Montreal is said to be clearing up, with more boats to carry grain out available at Montreal.

United States wheat is on an export basis but this does not seem to help the situation, neither has the big reduction in export rates from Minnesota points to the Gulf.

The open interest in May wheat is down to 1,066,000 bu, the smallest so far, while in July it has increased to 74,171,000 bu, and the total open interest in all futures is 126,975,000 bu, as compared with 128,584,000 bu a week ago.

May wheat touched $1.01 on Saturday, the lowest on the present decline. The close was at $1.01⅝; July closed at $1.05⅜@1.05½; September, $1.09⅛@$1.09, and December, $1.13⅝@$1.13½, with net losses of from 1⅞ to ⅝c for the week. Prices for the week follow:

The Company is one of the leading manufacturers of soft rubber goods in the world, its products comprising a wide range of popular priced articles, including dress-shields, baby goods, sanitary lingerie, bathing caps, girdles, hospital sheeting, tourist novelties, bath curtains, etc. New products are constantly being added to the line in order to provide wide diversification.
Nearly forty years of constant national advertising has made the trade-mark "Kleinert's" a household word throughout this country and abroad. Practically every large department store in the United States sells Kleinert's goods and they are sold in drug and dry goods chain stores to a large extent. Distribution to the smaller outlets is obtained through jobbers.

GENERAL: The business has never had an unprofitable year. In view of the diversification and wide distribution of the Company's products, and its long established position in the trade, I look forward with confidence to the continued growth and prosperity of the business. The Household Plan for family loans

FAMILIES who are unable to make regular bank loans often need additional funds to tide them over such emergencies as sickness, or a sudden operation. Frequently scattered bills can be grouped and paid in full. Sometimes two or three hundred dollars enables them to take advantage of unusual bargains; or meet a payment on a home.

To serve such families, the Household Finance Corporation was organized more than fifty years ago, and the Household Loan Plan was developed. Under this plan, the average family can secure immediate, confidential and friendly financial assistance.

Borrow At New Rate
Nearly 1/3 Lower

The Household Finance Corporation has voluntarily reduced its rate nearly one-third. Under this new low rate, loans paid in twenty equal monthly payments, cost as follows:

$200 loan, average monthly cost $2.63
$300 loan, average monthly cost $3.94]

Therefore, you would repay a $200 loan at the rate of $5 per month, plus interest. The first month, the interest charge would be $2.50. And the last month it would be only 13 cents. The average monthly cost is $1.32 per month.

You May Repay At Any Time

Loans may be paid in full at any time; you pay interest ONLY on the unpaid balance, for the actual time you keep the money. You get the entire amount—there are no fees or deductions. No outside signers are required, and employers, relatives or friends are not notified.

SALE OF STOCK BOOSTS PROFITS OF N. Y. CENTRAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 19.—The New York Central railroad sold all its holdings in the American Railway Express company and American Express company in 1928, realizing a profit of $1,670,000 from the transaction, it is shown in the annual report for the period.

This, with a profit of $25,300,000 from the sale of its New York State railways and Mohawk Valley company holdings, made total profits for the year from securities sales $26,-900,000.

The railroad sold its 3,000 American Railways Express shares, carried at par of $300,000, for $389,130, or $129.78 a share, which compares with a high of $143.50 made for the stock in 1928 and $164 in 1929.

The railroad sold its 15,900 shares of American Express stock at $225 a share, receiving $3,577,500, the 1928 high for the stock being $310, and the 1929 high $409. The amount at which this stock appeared on the books, plus cost of transfer tax stamps, was $1,997,067.

Sells Utility Shares.

The railroad sold to the Rochester Central Power corporation its 511,430 shares of Mohawk Valley company at $75 a share and to E. L. Phillips its 126,043 shares of New York State railways common at $25, the total price for these stocks being $41,758,000, comparing with $16,147,000, the cost of acquiring them between 1905 and 1910. The approximate profit from this transaction was previously announced.

The public utilities were sold at a time when it appeared that a ruling of the interstate commerce commission, since reversed, in the sale of Chesapeake and Ohio stock, might affect adversely a plan of the New York Central, subsequently approved, to sell $141,975,000 of stock.

Pays Federal Tax.

The federal tax of $3,000,000 on profits from these stock transactions was included in the deductions from income for 1928 and the profits were credited directly to surplus through the profit and loss account.

The report of P. E. Crowley, president, shows that the New York Central was one of the few roads to increase its passenger traffic in 1928. Interline passengers carried decreased 147,805 creased 1,182,629 to 18,873,453; but commutation passengers increased 1,573,-568 to 49,113,665, augmenting the total of all passengers carried by 243,134 to 71,338,842. Mr. Crowley points out the influence of motor vehicle competition in reducing local business and also shows that the increased commutation business was in New York City. Despite the increase in business, passenger revenue decreased $2,188,000.

REJECT DELAYED DELIVERY.

A delayed delivery plan, urged by some member firms of the New York stock exchange, under which the time for delivery of securities would be extended from 24 to 48 hours, has been rejected by the governing committee of the exchange.

TRADED ON THE NEW YORK CURB MARKET

Utilities Power and Light Corporation controls a comprehensive group of Public Utility Properties furnishing electricity and other public utility services to a population of 2,800,000 in the United States.

Recognizing the possibilities for the expansion of the electric power and light business abroad, the Corporation has acquired through The Greater London & Counties Trust, Ltd., a subsidiary, a group of electric power and light properties serving 95 cities and towns in three large "areas" adjoining the City of London and a substantial interest in one of the largest statutory companies supplying electricity in metropolitan and suburban districts of London. Recent acquisitions include properties serving important industrial centers of England, including the City of Birmingham.

The introduction of American methods in the development of electric power and light companies outside of the United States has met with marked success, and this phase of the Corporation's business appears to possess great possibilities.

The building will contain sixty-six fully furnished apartments of one to three rooms each. Terra cotta and stone trim with a salmon-colored face brick will be used for the exterior of the building to carry out a modern version of Spanish Gothic architecture.

The property is one and one-half blocks from the Sheridan Road Bus Lines, two and one-half blocks from the Argyle Station of the Elevated Railroad, three blocks from the Broadway Surface Lines and three blocks from the Lawrence Avenue Surface Lines. It is less than a block from Lake Michigan with its excellent bathing beaches, etc., and within easy walking distance of the Uptown shopping and theatre district. Recent surveys have shown it to be in an excellent renting neighborhood.

Earnings. The gross annual earnings of the property are conservatively estimated at $61,920. After making liberal allowances for operating expenses, etc., the net income is estimated at over two and one-half times the maximum annual interest charges on this loan.

Valuation. The land and building, including financing on the basis of current market costs of labor, material and equipment, are appraised by the Lloyd-Thomas Company, Appraisal Engineers of Chicago, Illinois, as follows:

Land (50 x 143 feet) . . 50,000.00
Total valuation $375,487.29

This appraisal comprises land and building only and does not give effect to the furnishings (valued at $30,000), which will be pledged through a chattel mortgage as further security for this loan.

Borrower. The bonds are a direct obligation of The 900 Argyle Building Corporation and are personally guaranteed as to prompt payment of principal and interest by Messrs. L. Faber and Edward Schroeder.

Price: Par and accrued interest to yield 6½%
We recommend these bonds for investment

Quaker Oats.

R. B. L., Three Rivers, Mich.—Quaker Oats company in 1928 resumed its upward trend in earnings interrupted in 1927.

Surplus for the year was $5,112,146, against $2,740,585 for 1927.

Earnings in 1928 were equal to $31.69 a share on 180,000 shares of $100 par preferred and $10.46 on 562,500 shares of no par common, against $17.91 on 180,000 preferred shares and $12.76 on 450,000 common shares in 1927.

Profit and loss surplus as of Dec. 31, 1928, stood at $15,967,387, against $15,781,627 the year before.

Current assets were $34,546,419 and current liabilities were $6,197,556 as of Dec. 31, 1928. This left a net working capital of $28,348,863, which compares with $25,651,370 the previous year.

Results for 1928 were said to be very encouraging in view of the poor quality of oats which had to be milled during the first seven months of the year. An increased feed business which produced better values for principal by-products was a decided help.

Dividends on the common are at a $4 annual rate. An extra dividend of $4 a share was paid on the common April 15, 1929, and a special 4 per cent stock dividend was paid April 20, 1929.

The preferred is very high grade.

Central Hanover combines two old and independent New York financial institutions with a history dating back to 1851. Its large banking business as well as the volume and quality of its trust business were notable characteristics of the Central Union Trust Company. Hanover National Bank was eminently a bankers' bank. Central Hanover therefore has unusual facilities and organisation for a completely rounded banking and trust service.

A Promising Field for American Investment

THE interest in South America stimulated by President Hoover's recent trip will no doubt find expression in increased American investments in that Continent. Investors will be increasingly interested in the opportunities that exist there for the profitable employment of capital and will aquaint themselves more and more with the economic facts about our neighbors to the south.

In our current Investment Bulletin we give some interesting facts about Latin America in general and the Republic of Colombia in particular.

We shall be glad to send you a copy of this Bulletin upon request.

This old adage has doubtless saved many catastrophes in railroading. It will, with equal effectiveness, save many financial wrecks when intelligently applied to investment purchases.

U. S. BUSINESS RISING DESPITE HIGH CALL RATE

In the face of those calculations, Wall street cannot understand the possibility of an inadequate supply of credit for all purposes.

But the problem is not so simple. It is true that one of the best known estimates on the income of our people has made the annual increase 40 per cent greater than it was five years before. But absorption of capital to new securities in 1928 was larger by nearly 90 per cent than in 1923.

Not Easy to Estimate.

The New York stock exchange has reported an increase of 130 per cent during only two years in the existing total of brokers' borrowings on that single institution. It is not at all easy to estimate the draft on credit by such requisitions as the financing of loans against deferred payments on motor car purchases, for instance; the only certainty is that the sum absorbed is in the aggregate immensely large, so large that it would have alarmed the market of ten years ago and that it naturally increases with the increase in total sales.

As for supply on the money market, no estimate is possible of the decrease, say since 1926, in foreign credits loaned out on the American money market during the "flight of capital" in Europe's depreciated money days, but brought back home again after stabilization of the currencies. Here is at least a sufficient variety of conflicting influences, quite independent of the requirements for an expanding general trade. Back of them all stands the quite uniform experience of the past, that four or five successive years of unusually active trade, if supplemented by prolonged enhancement of values on speculative markets will result in precisely the kind of money stringency that exists this year.

The high Wall street money rates have still, so far as visible indications go, had no unsettling influence on trade and industry. That reassuring fact will no doubt be partly ascribed to the fact that merchants and producers have not been heavily engaged, as they were in 1920 and 1906, in borrowings to support inflated inventories; partly to the absence of highly speculative prices in general industry; partly to the powerful influence of the federal reserve in guarding the field of business credit from the effects of the Wall street money stringency.

MAY 20th-27th

A Period of Practical Proof (for women in particular) of Handling Ease and Safety Features found in no other cars which alone almost compel the choice of Cadillac-La Salle

The great name of Cadillac and the companion name La Salle are in themselves insurance to the buyer that there is nothing beyond, or better, or even equal, in all motoring.

To this all around assured perfection of performance (which everyone admits) are added, now, certain definite inducements and vital advantages which obviously appeal to all careful motorists but with particular force and emphasis to women owners.

Check This 1st Revelation Week Fact—No Gear-Shift Annoyance

Cadillac has made shifting gears almost an unconscious act. Watch a Cadillac or La Salle driver, man or woman, in traffic. Note how easily the car is handled, how it darts ahead at the flash of the green light. You can scarcely detect the gentle movement of the driver's finger on the gear lever. You hear no grinding or clashing. The operation is just as simple, as smooth, as silent at any speed. Only Cadillac-La Salle have the Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission.

In and of themselves, they almost compel the choice of Cadillac-La Salle because they are exclusive to these two cars and because they provide elements of ease and security with which no motorist—and no woman in particular—would willingly dispense.

It is plainly apparent that one of the most valuable factors in motoring today, for whose easeful gear shifting no substitute can be found, is the exclusive Cadillac-La Salle Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission covered by basic patents.

Syncro-Mesh was introduced by Cadillac-La Salle with the restraint which has always characterized their public announcements. The excitement and enthusiasm it has created has been a result of the growth in public consciousness that here was something in transmissions which literally transformed that particular phase of motor car performance.

The emphasis that is being placed upon it in this Revelation Week (for women in particular) is the result of this public acclaim and the realization of Cadillac-La Salle that they had builded even better than they knew.

Revelation Week will endeavor to demonstrate to all women what thousands of women already know—that this is a new element of extraordinary ease in shifting and handling of which they cannot afford to deprive themselves.

Owners have also brought home to Cadillac the realization that the exclusive Cadillac-La Salle Duplex-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes covered by basic patents are a revolutionary contribution, both from the stand-point of easy mastery and greater safety; and public acclaim, therefore, makes these new brakes a second item of good news for Revelation Week.

Exactly the same thing has happened with regard to Cadillac-La Salle Crystal-Clear Non-Shatterable Security-Plate Glass—what amounts to an actual reproach from the public for our seeming failure to lay stress on a feature which owners consider absolutely vital. All Cadillac-La Salle windows, doors and windshields are equipped with this vastly important safety feature.

Check This 2nd Revelation Week Fact—No Fear of Flying Glass

Here is glass that remains intact in the event of collision or if struck by stones thrown up by passing cars. Cadillac-La Salle Crystal-Clear Security-Plate Glass will not shatter. All Cadillac and La Salle windows, doors and windshields are equipped with it. You may dismiss from your mind all fear of flying glass fragments. Every motorist is entitled to this protection in these days of high speed and congested traffic.

Check This 3rd Revelation Week Fact—Safest, Easiest, Surest Brakes

That entirely delightful ease you enjoy in driving a Cadillac or La Salle is also partly due to the new and exclusive Duplex-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes. Just the lightest touch of the toe on the brake pedal and you get action not only instantaneous, but velvet-like in smoothness. It is also the most positive and powerful braking action ever exerted on four wheels. That means supreme control of your car under all conditions, and greater safety. Try these brakes yourself.

Cadillac-La Salle came to Non-Shattering Glass through conscientious conviction and that conviction has been given tremendous impetus by public approval.

A mere witnessing of the demonstrations which will be given during Revelation Week will convince everyone that here is an additional security feature of such paramount importance that it simply cannot be brushed aside.

These three vital mechanical-physical factors, offered only by Cadillac and La Salle, will be revelations to you indeed. They will be supported, of course, by what you already know of the matchless steadiness of the Cadillac-La Salle 90-degree, V-type engine. And they will be especially emphasized by a closer study than you have ever been able to give before, perhaps, to the almost startling difference in the body environment of Cadillac-La Salle.

Here is the opportunity to settle down to a close, actual comparative inspection of Fisher Body and Fleetwood interiors in Cadillac-La Salle. Here is coach work actually created for Cadillac-La Salle—in which designs, whether they come from silversmith or fabricator, are original Cadillac-La Salle designs.

Here is upholstery, cushion work, wood-work, paneling, designed exclusively by Fleetwood and Fisher Body for Cadillac-La Salle—producing an ensemble in comparison with which ordinary coach work is almost distressingly inadequate.

Revelation Week will open your eyes both to higher efficiency and greater artistry—efficiency and artistry which immediately spell greater value obtainable only in Cadillac and La Salle.

Check This 4th Revelation Week Fact—Fatigueless Finger-Tip Steering

The new Cadillac-La Salle Steering Gear has been designed that it takes all shock, strain and vibration out of steering, resulting in the same nimble handling either in city traffic or on the open road. New adjustable front seats are easily adjusted to give the utmost comfort to whomsoever drives.

There is no necessity for re-emphasizing the flexibility, dependability and all-round superiority of the Cadillac-La Salle 90-degree V-type 8-cylinder engine. Hundreds of thousands of owners know this principle produces the highest type of eight-cylinder results.

THE UNKISSED BRIDE

By BERTA RUCK

SYNOPSIS

Joy Harrison, living in London and working for Dr. Rex Travers in Harley street, is crushed by a letter from her fiance, Geoffrey Ford, a well known novelist, asking to be released from the engagement. Preoccupied with her own trouble, she fails to notice that Dr. Travers seems troubled, too. Toward the end of the day he tells Joy that he has just lost a great deal of money through an unscrupulous solicitor and he will be forced to give up his house in Harley street.

Dr. Locke, a tenant, tells Rex that he has just been offered a practice with a comfortable villa in the south of France which he cannot take on, and he suggests that he recommend Rex for it. The only hitch to the plan is that they want a married doctor and Rex is a bachelor. To his partner's suggestion that he marry and take up the new post, Rex turns a deaf ear.

Joy, who has been listening to the doctors' colloquy, suddenly sees a method of escape for her and she asks Dr. Travers if he will marry her on a business arrangement. The doctor is stunned by her suggestion and finally asks her why she made it. She tells him that she is badly in need of another job, although her real reason is to have Geoffrey read of her engagement to another man.

The doctor broods over the change his altered circumstances will have on his young nephew and ward, Percival Arthur Fitzroy. Finally he decides to take Joy at her word and they enter into an agreement to marry on a strictly business basis.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

A WARNING.

Later in the afternoon the jewelry's envoy made his appearance with half a dozen suitable rings in cases and with sauve comments; advice, information as to the stones "which always looked in such good taste" . . . the setting which was perhaps "not quite appropriate for such a young lady . . . this was more the engagement ring for a lady's second marriage"? Something, of course, depended upon the type of wedding ring which would be worn; a very thin gold circlet? Platinum? Sapphires, now, would look particularly well. Or with diamonds one could scarcely go wrong? suggested the stranger's ingratiating voice—into a silence.

Both men looked inquiringly at the girl who sat there before the table on which lay those six cases. They might have had nothing to do with her.

"Well?" said Doctor Rex Travers.

Joy lifted her head as if from a reverie. (Actually she had been thinking, "Imagine if they had sent the same man who sold us that other ring!")

"Well, have you chosen?"

"O! I am to choose?"

"Naturally," said Travers, evenly, and the jeweler's envoy gave a professionally pleasant smile. "You pick out the one you like best will you?"

"Yes I will."

Without an instant's pause—for she had already seen, and turned sick at heart from the blue glance of those reminding sapphires—Joy put out a careless hand, picked up at hazard one of the five, any one! yes, this. The two diamonds, obliquely set. Right. She set her teeth and slipped it on . . .

Quite unusual, commented the eye of the jeweler's envoy, for the lady to put on her own engagement ring?

But Travers was avoiding that man's eye, and Joy was looking for a moment at the alien diamonds she had pushed on to that left hand third finger which had felt so empty stripped and defrauded for—was it less than a week? Then she dropped the hand into her lap, and seemed to go back again into her reverie while Rex Travers got out check book and fountain pen, settled the business, opened the door for the envoy.

"Look here," he began without delay, "I have to tell you that I don't think this will do. It won't do, you know."

"Good afternoon. Thank you so very much. Yes; quite in order." (Grimly Travers thought it would not have been "in order" to sign check for expensive jewelry had he not been able to "lean on" his good friend Locke for an advance on his new salary.) "Good afternoon, sir . . . If you will permit me to add my best wishes? . . . . Good afternoon, madam!"

"Good afternoon," said Joy.

"Good afternoon." Rex Travers handed the envoy over to Mary, came back into the secretary's room, shut the door, and stood at the table looking down at his facade fiancée, who was looking at the new ring as if it were a wart on her hand.

"Look here," he began without delay. "I have to tell you that I don't think this will do. It won't do, you know."

This evidently took her aback. She sat up straighter, opened her eyes. "You don't mean our being engaged and getting married on the——"

"I do not mean our being engaged. That is settled. That will have to go through. You understand that. I meant your manner of taking it."

She opened those faint pink lips. She meant to repeat "My manner?" She met his stern and steady gaze; warning her that this man at this moment would stand no nonsense. Closing her lips again, she waited, while over her swept alternate waves of helplessness, exasperation, helplessness, exasperation. . . . Also she was very slightly frightened of the man.

Brusquely but not violently he said, "You do know what I mean. Nothing is gained by your letting other people imagine you are unwilling to—to marry me. Our association has got to appear—well, normal! From the professional point of view it would be injurious to me if patients imagined—what happened to be the case. We shall be out in this new place—how soon is it——"

"Less than three weeks." She forced herself to say impersonally.

"Well. And supposing these . . . these patronesses of mine got it into their heads that there was anything of a 'put-up' nature about this new doctor's domestic affairs? (Absurd that it should have anything to do with them, but there you are, it has. A doctor's private life doesn't seem to be any more his own concern than a father-confessor!) If these ladies thought my wife had made a reluctant marriage-de-carrière . . . Might mean ruin after all. We're both in this, as well as the boy. Isn't it worth while sinking personal points of view? Of course you see what I mean."

"Yes, I do," admitted Joy, who did. He was perfectly, unforgiveably right. She had behaved school-girlishly and worse. She had felt driven, but that was neither here nor there. "You mean that I made a bargain and that I ought to carry it out better than this. You mean that I have not been playing up."

"Candidly, I don't think you have," Rex Travers said, secretly relieved to find her so lucidly sincere. Extraordinary little thing; it was part of her inhuman, nonfeminine quality to have been thus frankly honest. Women (he decided out of his experience of these mechanisms) women just weren't. The doctor in him fancied there was more than on biological ground for women's constant, illogical, many and various evasions of truth; from classic coquetteries to "cooking household accounts." Strong points they had many. Forthright honesty of thought and speech; usually, no. Not where men were concerned. But this girl had it. Was it because she was less than feminine, or because she did not regard him as a man?

"I am sorry," she was saying, seriously and coldly. "I ought to have been different."

"I think so. In future I am sure you will remember to be rather more careful."

"Yes, I will, Doctor Travers."

He gave a quick turn of that cold head. Had she added the "Doctor Travers" out of bravado? He decided—he almost decided not. Still, the inadvertence was unsatisfactory enough: both saw that; they spoke almost simultaneously, she to repeat, without any form of address. "Yes, I will." He to say quickly. "I think, you know, if you don't mind, that you'll have to get into the way of using, as a matter of course, my Christian name."

She sat, looking docile.

Damn it all, he thought, suddenly infuriated, was it bravado? Wasn't it? He looked at the girl. From brown head to small foot she was a picture of docility.

She said, "Yes; I will remember."

He felt at a loss; all this fuss arising over something in our epoch is no more intimate than a handshake?

"You'd know my name."

"Yes," she said. "Rex."

Impossible to convey the completely impersonal thing which that girl made of this Christian name! She might have been asked, if she had known the time, and to have said "four." She might have been asked what she took in her tea and have said "milk," just about as much human interest did Joy get into the monosyllable "Rex."

He frowned. Already he had realized that here something was out of gear. Had this Miss Joy Harrison been the patient instead of the secretary and the emergency-fiancée, he would have given her careful study . . . He would have thought "Mental worry here. Change is what she needs. Fresh occupation, people, surroundings. Anything to shake her out of herself. This wall that she's building round herself, of efficiency, quiet, and veiled irony is quite unnatural in so young a girl. She must be got out of that line."

Had she been a patient! As it was, he turned away. He had other, more important worries. Besides which, one does not stare at a girl just because she may have begun to be something of an interesting puzzle.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Saturday's Children," adapted from the play, has not taken the transplanting from stage to screen very well. It is too long, too colorless as a photoplay, almost entirely dependent on Mr. Grant Withers for such pep as it has. He takes the rôle of the rebelling young husband and makes a good thing of it. He is real, likable, and, at times, laughable.

Corinne Griffith is not so satisfying as the romance seeking wife who finds money shortage, dishes, relatives, and myriad nagging worries a wedge that rapidly and surely pushes herself and her husband apart to a complete separation.

She is lovely, but the tubercular makeup she affects makes her look sick, and she talks in a lifeless, nasal fashion that greatly detracts from her charm. She sounds much like Mr. Coolidge, who, in the news reel following the picture, tells through his nose how glad he is he's a director for a life insurance company.

The comedy introduced into the play by the heroine's managing married sister is totally lacking in the picture. True, sister is there with her shorthand notes, but she is a bla sort of girl, entirely unlike the laugh provoking, all pervasive lady of the "legitimate" production.

Marcia Harris as the landlady, Mrs. Gorlick, endeavors to insert a bit of humor. Perhaps she does. Other characters are well but far from brilliantly portrayed.

Comparisons ARE odious, aren't they? Well, let's quit reading books and going to the theater. Then we shall love our cinema more.

However [remember! Mark Twain says never to say "however"!], "Saturday's Children" manages to hold the interest pretty well. YOU may be crazy about it.

See you tomorrow!

Tribune Tower Photos Are Features of Show in London

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19.—Two views of the Tribune Tower and six other Chicago photographs are included in the exhibition of international modern commercial architecture now being held at the galleries of the Royal Institute of British Architects.

The two Tribune Tower pictures are supplemented by a third, which gives an excellent, though accidental, view of the Gothic shaft in the background of the photograph of Allerton House.

The other five Chicago photographs show two views of the Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett company warehouse.

Altogether, 37 of the 349 architectural photographs exhibited come from America, a particularly good proportion when it is noted that there are large groups of photographs from the Paris exposition of 1925, and from last year's press exposition at Cologne, while there naturally are a large number of photographs from England and the dominions.

Most of the photographs in the present exposition were taken by a single artist, Mr. F. R. Yerbury, an honorary member of the architects' society. The cities represented, therefore, are only those which he had visited. Besides Chicago, the American cities contributing photographs are New York with 19 views, Detroit with 9, and Buffalo with one—the Hotel Statler.

There are a few other exhibits in which America can claim a hand, since the companies which erected the buildings are controlled from America. Among those are the Firestone tire factory in London, the Shredded Wheat factory at Welwyn Garden City, near London, and the Kodak building in London.

A simple enumeration of some of the other views will give an idea of the great variety of the exhibit. Among the pictures shown are a slaughter house at Hilversum, Holland; the markets of Lyons, France; the laboratories of the Imperial Chemical Industries at Northwick, England; a concrete newspaper kiosk in Lyons, France; a perfume shop in Paris; a confectioner's, watchmaker's and cobbler's shops in Amsterdam, etc.

American types seem to take the prize for majesty, French for cleverness and grace, and German for freakishness.

Rosa Ponselle to Sing to London Opera Tomorrow

LONDON, May 19.—Rosa Ponselle, American prima donna, will sing in the opera "Norma" Tuesday night in Covent Garden theater, which seats 2,000. The house is reported as sold out. Yesterday she had tea with Mme. Nellie Melba, who also will sing in "Norma."

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mary Lewis, 2915 Wallace street, was awarded $5.

The Question.

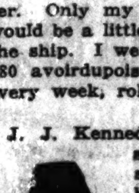
The Answers.

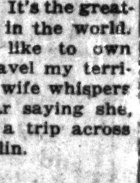
Mrs. Elsie D. Schoenlau, 841 Bradley place, housewife—I would. I wouldn't go across the ocean in an airplane as I consider it too risky; but if I had the money to spare I would ride in an airship.

Herbert T. Franklin, 127 North Dearborn street, theatrical manager — Some five or six years ago I promoted a leap for life feature at White City. I have had some experience in airplanes and things of that sort.. I would be willing to add a Zeppelin trip to my list.

Miss Margaret Conroy, 1546 East 62d street, comptometer operator—I surely would. I always have wanted to have a ride in an airplane, and a Zeppelin trip across the ocean would go the airplane one better. Only my weight would be a little against either me or the ship. I weigh only 180 pounds—180 avoirdupois pounds—and I swim every week, roller skate, and dance.



J. J. Kennedy, 17 East Superior street, salesman—Yes, sure, that's easy. I have been up in an airplane. It's the greatest sport in the world. I would like to own one to travel my territory. My wife whispers in my ear saying she, too, would like to take a trip across the ocean in the Zeppelin.



William Jacobs, 620 South Halsted street, real estate — I certainly would enjoy that experience. My sister and I took an airplane trip during which we looped the loop, and we enjoyed that immensely. Looping the loop was very thrilling, otherwise the airplane trip was quite like riding in an automobile.

"Lead Boys, Don't Drive," Judge Advises

Allegretti Sounds Note of Present Week.

The attention of more than 200,000 Chicago boys was turned yesterday to the churches of their choice. In hundreds of pulpits sermons were preached on boys—their interests and their future. This was the opening of Chicago Boys' week, which is set aside annually for the improvement of youth. The arrangements for the day were in charge of Dean Shailer Mathews of the Divinity school of the University of Chicago, Dr. Gerson Levi, and Msgr. C. J. Quille.

Judge Francis R. Allegretti summarized the objective of Boys' week by referring to his experience of two years in the Boys' court, during which more than 20,000 delinquent youths appeared before him. "Boys detest being driven," Judge Allegretti said, "but they are always eager to follow a capable leader. Therefore, the boy's supervision must take the form of suggestion, play, and leadership, presented in such a manner that the boy coöperates in his own welfare.

"Boy Scouts and various camps have succeeded admirably. Another deterrent to misbehavior is the careful observation of a boy's companions, and the places he frequents."

Today is Boys' day at home and with his radio. The day's program is sponsored by the Optimists club, with J. E. Soll in charge. Radio programs will play a prominent part in its observance.

Tomorrow will be "spare time" day when emphasis will be put on productive use of spare time. The Boys' Workers' association with Burridge Butler, chairman, and E. Urner Goodman, executive director of the Boy Scouts, as vice chairman, has charge of the day's program.

Soldiers' field will be the scene of a grand spectacle Friday afternoon, with a parade of 25,000 boys, in which members of the R. O. T. C., safety patrols, a band of more than 2,000 pieces, and other groups will participate.

The Julius Rosenwald medals and scholarships will be presented in the Auditorium Friday evening. William J. Bogan, superintendent of Chicago schools; George W. Dixon, and Jane Addams will deliver addresses.

COURT GAZETTE FAILS; REPORTERS BESIEGING THE MORROWS' CASTLE

North Haven, Me., May 19.—[U. P.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his fiancée, Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, who dropped down from the skies on this picturesque island with a big amphibian plane Saturday afternoon, after eluding newspaper men who sought to learn their wedding plans, remained in seclusion today.

It was hoped that the wedding plans would be revealed today, as a spokesman for the Morrow family had promised to make a statement regarding the plans of the couple this morning, but newspaper men were informed that no word for publication would be issued.

"Neither the Morrow family nor Col. Lindbergh has anything to say," was the only answer he would give to the battery of newspaper men who pressed him with questions. "There will be no statement of any sort issued. There will be no pictures taken."

The retinue of armed guards, reported to be secret service men sent here from Washington at Ambassador Morrow's request, were still at their posts today blocking the approaches to the Morrow estate, six miles from the village in a secluded section of the island.

Standing on guard at vantage points outside the line which has been drawn about the estate, newspaper men watched in vain for a glimpse of the flying colonel, his sweetheart, or the other members of the Morrow family who arrived in the plane Saturday.

When the newspaper men had discontinued their vigil at the estate to return to the town for supper Lindbergh, his fiancée, Mrs. Morrow, and her daughter, Elizabeth, went for a short ride about the island in the Morrows' beach wagon. They were reported to have been seen in the heart of the village driving towards the Morrow estate, but succeeded in completing their drive without being seen by the newspaper men.

The Morrows and Col. Lindbergh did not attend the little stucco church which residents had so carefully spruced up for their arrival.

The newspaper men, who had established their headquarters in Nebo lodge and the Haven hotel, were forced to plod out in the rain and locate other dwelling places. They were told that the hotels must be vacated at once for the arrival of expected summer guests.

Hotel owners refused to reveal who had reserved the rooms when questioned as to the possibility that they had been reserved by Ambassador Morrow for wedding guests.

Tonight's Dinner Starts 42 Clubs to Boost for the Civic Opera

Stars, officials, and friends of the Chicago Civic Opera will congregate this evening at the Stevens hotel for a dinner that will start the formation of forty-two civic opera clubs in as many districts of the city. Five hundred persons are expected to attend as guests of the opera company to promote the cultural growth of the districts in which they are located and to emphasize its assets rather than its crime, representatives declare.

Miss Dema Harshbarger, president of the Civic Concert Service, Inc., has directed the organization of the clubs, with the assistance of O. O. Bottorff and Mrs. Virginia French. Stars of the company who will attend include Edith Mason, Helen Freund, Cyrena Van Gordon, Charles Marshall, Virgilio Lazzari, and José Mojica. Speakers will be Stanley Field, secretary and treasurer of the Civic Opera, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, president of the Friends of Opera, and John Clayton, representative of Herbert M. Johnson, business manager.

Belgians Play American Airs Amid Cheering

Concert Adds Thousands for Hospital.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

All the spirit and dash at the command of Arthur Prevost, director of the Royal Belgian Guards Symphonic band went into "The Star Spangled Banner," with which the khaki uniformed musicians opened the first of their two Chicago concerts yesterday afternoon at the Auditorium theater. And the music brought the crowd to its feet with the first round of enthusiastic applause. Not even the martial measures of their own Belgian national anthem, "La Brabançonne," were more skillfully nor inspiringly payed.

On the back wall of the stage during the concerts given for the benefit of the building fund of the Henrotin Policlinic hospital were draped two huge banners, one the crimson, gold and black of the Belgians, the other the Stars and Stripes. Belgian and American flags also were grouped at the sides of the Auditorium and draped the official box directly in the center of the diamond horseshoe.

In the official box was Count Emile de Streel, first secretary of the Belgian embassy at Washington, representing King Albert, royal sponsor for the good will tour of the band. Count de Streel acted for Prince de Ligne, the ambassador, who is out of the country. Seated with the count was his host, Chauncey McCormick, and Mrs. George Henrotin Lejeune, the only surviving member of the Henrotin family.

In nearby boxes were M. Henri Bougearel, acting French consul; M. Georges Sirven, consul suppleant; Chevalier Antonio Ferme, Italian consular commissioner, and Col. William Nelson Pelouze.

In his address of welcome to the band, Dr. Cyrille Vermeren, Belgian consul in Chicago for fourteen years, paid tribute to the Henrotin family. One member of this family, Dr. Joseph Henrotin, Chicago pioneer, established the Belgian consulate in this city. Another, Dr. Ferdinand Henrotin, worked so faithfully in the interests of the Policlinic hospital post-graduate school that the hospital was named in his honor.

The second concert was given in the evening, and both programs offered a wide range of numbers to the audiences. The afternoon program included the overture of "Ruy Blas," by Mendelssohn; Norwegian Rhapsody, by E. Lalo; the Tannhäuser overture, by Wagner; "Invitation to the Waltz," by Weber, and the "1812 Overture," by Tschaikowsky. As an encore the band played Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever," getting loud and repeated applause.

At the gala concert in the [illegible] the program was considerably [illegible] including Mendelssohn's "Sonata No. 6 for Organ," Strauss' "Salome—Dance of the Seven Veils," "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor," by Bach; the "Overture Roman Carnival," by Berlioz, and a group of English and French military marches.

Society Attends Concert

The two concerts will benefit the fund for the Henrotin hospital by approximately $16,000, according to the estimate of the committee of women who sold the seats and boxes. The Auditorium last night was decked out in American and Belgian banners.

Long, chairman of the committee; Chauncey McCormick and Count de Streel, first secretary of the Belgian embassy at Washington, and the Chauncey Blairs occupied the center boxes of the horseshoe, with their guests. Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick had as her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Rosecrans Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Otis Jr., and Edwin Krenn. Boris Bakhmeteff was with Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Harris.

Others in the boxes and on the main floor included Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze, Mrs. John G. Shedd, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. E. I. Cudahy, Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Blair, Miss Anita Blair, Mrs. Alister H. McCormick, Mrs. Francis J. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Ryerson, Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Murry Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher M. Durbin, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Otis, Miss Anna Morgan, Miss Frieda Foltz, Col. Michel Lasaref, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Naugle, Miss Olga Menn, Miss Lucy Martin, Miss Emily Larned, Miss Nellie Carpenter, and Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Sonny was heartbroken because a cold kept him in bed when a favorite aunt was visiting. Finally, seeing mother would not yield on the point of his getting up, he sought to insure Aunt Jean's playing with him.

He asked, "If I have to stay in bed, can I have some of Aunt Jean?" M. F.

My sister had a family of five and recently a new member was added.

After their dad announced that there were now six in their family, Raymond, aged 8, burst forth with: "Yeah, daddy! Now we gotta buy one extra stick of gum all the time." H. N.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Needs Suit for Sunday School.

"I wonder if some boy of 14 has a suit he has outgrown and which he would like to give to a boy who wants to go to Sunday school but does not have good enough clothes? I know a boy who will be happy to receive the suit, even though it be worn. "G. G. R."

At the rate boys of this age grow they usually leave in their wake clothing too small for them but still in condition good enough to be worn by another boy. This sort of garment will do splendidly for the boy G. G. R. writes about and will enable him to attend Sunday school.

Kittens Seek a Home.

"I have some adorable kittens I would like to find homes for. Will you help me? M. M."

Are you looking for a new pet? If so, you're sure to be delighted with one of these cunning kittens. Write me for them; please do not telephone.

South Shore Horse Show to Open June 11

BY THALIA

The South Shore Country club's annual horseshow, always one of the summer's most important equestrian events, is to open on Tuesday evening, June 11, and will continue with afternoon and evening sessions through the following Saturday afternoon.

The juvenile horsemen have their meeting on Saturday morning, and the horseshow ball on Saturday evening will follow the close of the show. There will be lunches, dinners, and dances as a social accompaniment to the show proper which attracts well known horse fanciers from all over the country.

Joseph E. Hitt is chairman of the show. The boxholders to date include Mr. and Mrs. John R. Thompson Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Hitt, Col. and Mrs. William J. Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. Luther F. Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Heyworth, Mrs. Mary C. Llewellyn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Winans, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Groverman Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Dee, the Edward J. Lehmanns, the Frederick A. Pooles, W. P. Roth of California, and W. C. Patterson of Jamestown, N. Y.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings has moved out from her apartment at 1550 State parkway to Lake Forest, but she will continue to come in town regularly to work at the White Elephant Rummage shop and the Children's Memorial hospital. She is president of the auxiliary board of the hospital, and will conduct her monthly home dressmaker's sale this Thursday with her committee assisting her.

One of the most unusual wedding gifts I've heard about is a .22 pistol presented to one of the spring's brides. The donor thinks women should be able to shoot and should possess firearms, but he's taking no chances about possible results of his present, for he intends to also give the bride a series of lessons. The pistol is a beauty with the bride's name inscribed thereon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand Walker have rented their house at 418 East Illinois road, Lake Forest, to Mr. and Mrs. John Payne Kellogg for the summer, and are occupying the Daniel R. Winter residence at 946 Elm Tree road.

Mrs. Robert M. Curtis, who has been in Europe with her mother, Mrs. Alfred Landon Baker, and her sister, Miss Mary Landon Baker, since early this year, and Mrs. Paul Wilder sailed from Le Havre last Wednesday on the steamship France, and are due to land in New York City tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hines (Pussy Notz) are returning from their honeymoon in Europe, and will get into New York City on the steamship Ile de France May 28. Mr. Hines' mother, Mrs. Edward Hines, has leased a house at 81 Locust road for them to live in when they arrive.

Mrs. Secor Cunningham Jr. and Mrs. Snelling Robinson of Lake Forest are making plans to sail in early June to spend the summer at Le Touquet, France. They are taking their youngsters along. Mr. Cunningham may join them later in the season and return with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Foreman who have been at the Ambassador East for the last winter have gone to Glencoe for the summer.

Mrs. John Wentworth of 1235 Astor street has returned from Baltimore, Md., where she has been visiting her mother, Mrs. William M. Dabney, and her aunt, Mrs. W. W. Keith.

Mrs. Tiffany Blake of the Ambassador East has been visiting Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick in Washington, D. C., this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Mudge of 3100 Sheridan road have taken a house in Lake Forest for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto G. Schmidt of 5523 Woodlawn avenue announce the birth of a daughter, to be named Rosina Marie, on May 9 at St. Luke's hospital. Before her marriage Mrs. Schmidt was Miss Eunice Clark.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—While the President was having his customary Saturday fishing trip yesterday, Mrs. Hoover, accompanied by Mrs. Charles D. Walcott, widow of the late secretary of the Smithsonian institution, motored to West Town, Chester, Pa., to attend the dedication of the meeting house which has been built as a perfect reproduction of an old and historic one of that place, and to take part in the celebration of old scholars' day.

The British ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard motored to Richmond, Va., today to visit the loan exhibition of old portraits of the early heroes of Virginia, including some valuable ones of George Washington and his associates, held in "Virginia house." This is the house brought over from England by Mr. and Mrs. George Weddell several years ago, piece by piece, and erected on a country site near Richmond. The exhibition will last until May 25, some of the portraits having been brought from England.

The chief justice and Mrs. Taft were given a luncheon today by Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone.

The secretary of the navy and Mrs. Adams are spending the week-end at Annapolis, where they were entertained at luncheon today by the superintendent of the Naval academy and Mrs. Robison.

The commercial secretary of the British embassy and Mrs. Leanedr McCormick-Goodhart are making a week-end visit to friends on the Patuxent river.

Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Martin of Chicago, who have been at the Willard for several days, left today for Old Point Comfort, Va., and will return here Wednesday. They had a lunch party yesterday at the Willard, where they are staying.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Keenan announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Catherine, to James H. McCormick of Springfield, Ill. The wedding will take place June 15 in St. Thomas' church in Washington.

Sorority Card Party.

The Alpha chapter of the Kappa Gamma Nu sorority will hold its first annual card and bunco party at the Dramatic club, 4900 Jackson boulevard, on Wednesday, May 22. Miss Marjorie Walsh is chairman of the committee and Miss Patsy Harmon is president of the sorority.

Winning Frog Seems to Have Wings in Angels Camp Contest

Angels Camp, Cal., May 19.—(AP)—There was a great chorus of mournful croakings on the part of the leaping amphibians of Calaveras tonight. And even the little pollywogs wiggled their tails in sorrowful unison.

For Hooligan, a grinning bullfrog from a pond in Stanislaus, Cal., was proclaimed the world's champion leaping frog, following the annual international frog jumping contest here. It was Mark Twain himself who, many years ago, brought this frog leaping competition to the attention of the world.

Hooligan, the new world's record holder, stretched his nimble legs today and jumped through the dusty main street for a distance of exactly four feet to win the finals. Pride of San Joaquin, winner of last year's tournament, won second place with a leap of three feet nine inches.

The frog leaping contest and its accompanying celebration brought nearly 20,000 visitors to this town, which, in the days of '49, was a famous mining camp. The citizens, garbed like old-time miners, welcomed the strangers with much firing of 45s and escorted them to the wild west "saloons," where they were treated to—soda pop!

There were all sorts of contests and entertainments during the day, ranging from a snake fight to a flapjack flopping marathon. Only the battle between a king snake and a rattler turned out to be a flop.

Let Up on the Eating; Exercise More, Is Advice of Medics

by Antoinette Donnelly

Mrs. Average and Her Man—be he mate, son, brother, father, uncle, or no relation at all—stand accused in the eyes of the medical world, at least, of one excess and two discrepancies in their habits of life.

It's yours to ask the why and the what are they?

Whether you are aware of it or not, Mr. and Mrs. A., you eat too much. That's your excess. You take too little exercise and your drink too little water. And if, in addition to curves of unfashionable contour you may have any little disturbances with your complexion or large blemishes, you would do well to interview yourself first upon these three vital items.

Furthermore, it is set down by one highly representative member of the order of medical men that the most pernicious misdemeanor of persons after middle life is overeating. Maybe in the slowing down process it is easier to reach the arm out for food than for any more active effort. Anyway, that's the charge and Mr. and Mrs. A. alone can refute it.

You may have done your spring overhauling by this time, Mrs. Average. You may think you have it all done. But if you haven't turned the vacuum on yourself and uprooted some of the dusty old habits you get no hand painted dust pan for decoration. Unless you've looked the old machine over, freshly nickel plated it with fine resolves, at least you're no good personal housekeeper, according to the honorable medics. And they do know what they are talking about, even when they advocate water drinking and exercise and less food. It's these three things that keep most of their doorbells ringing, and they must be humanitarians or they wouldn't be spreading the doctrine of diet, food, and exercise the way they do.

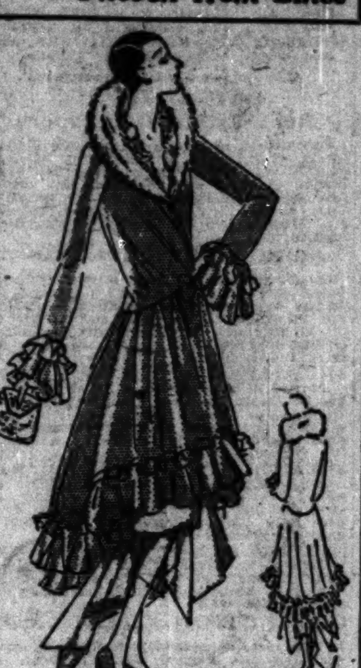
I simply make the suggestion this morning because it is Monday and the beginning of the week is better than the end of it for introspection on the above named points. One way to find out if you are eating too much is to eat less for a day. To find out if you are too dry for health, count the glasses of water and if they don't total nearly six you're guilty. The exercise you give yourself in your day's routine may be checked up. Then for the high resolves and prayer for the fortitude to stick to them. Justice on these three points is all that is asked.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

S. F.: YOUR SKIN REQUIRES greasing, as it doesn't furnish enough oil normally to keep it in a healthy condition. Cold cream is the best fatty application. Work the cream into the skin at night and leave on as much as possible during the night. For a time you may do the cleansing with a cleansing cream. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for my booklet on the skin.

ROSELYN S.: HERE IS THE formula for the depilatory: Sulphid of barium, two drams; oxide of zinc and starch, of each three drams. Mix well and keep tightly corked. Before applying add sufficient water to make a paste, spread over the part and allow it to remain on for a couple of minutes. Wash off and apply a soothing ointment or cold cream.

Formal Wraps Show Uneven Hem Lines



BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The richer and the more formal the evening dress, the more down at the heel it becomes. And unless it actually has a train, which may be deflected to one side, this super length comes directly in the middle of the back in nearly every case. One sided effects, nevertheless, persist. But these are achieved by smashing bows on one hip, by assymetric front draperies and by outlining only one side of the decolletage in the back. One charming dress in blonde lace uses this trick in its one sided application of flowers made of burnt orange velvet.

It is interesting to observe that the evening coat does exactly as it pleases in regard to the hem line. This may follow the frock and sponsor an elongated back or it may preserve an even line all around. One charming wrap of the latter version is made with a long pointed cape collar treated with a quilted effect which is repeated in long pointed cuffs. This garment is part of an evening ensemble executed entirely of chartreuse satin.

Another smart coat for evening wear is interpreted in flat crêpe with a scarf collar lined in contrasting shade which is split to fall like a jabot in front. Such scarf effects are much stressed for evening coats. In fact, the entire wrap may be a scarf, cut and stitched to assume a graceful line when one folds it around. This type of garment usually sponsors chiffon or transparent velvet.

Velvet continues to register strongly as a medium for the evening wrap. This fabric in gray is used for the lovely model we are showing in today's sketch. Velvet ruchings lined with silver cloth trim the bottom of the full skirt and also the sleeves. The collar is of gray fox fur. A gray bag embroidered in pearls and silver brocade slippers add the final touches of ensemble effect.

Parents Are Wise to Foster Those Sparks of Imagination

Mrs. Gladys Huntington Evans

A blanket is something to sleep under.

A table is something to eat on.

A can opener is to open cans with.

A piece of bread and butter is good nourishing food.

At least that's what you think. But really:

A table with a cloth on is a cave.

And a piece of bread and butter is the leg of a deer roasted over a fire.

How do you feel about it?

Do you mind if the children upset the house to play with things and imagination? Do you scold if they pull the chairs out of place and scuff them boarding and leaving the train? Do you get cross if they want to use blankets or sheets or steamer rugs to lay over chairs to play Robinson Crusoe with? Do you fuss at them for getting crumbs on the floor when they share their last food with each other on the desert island? Do you refuse to let them have the flashlight to use as a torch in the cave? I hope you don't.

Of course, it's a bother. Of course, it upsets the orderliness of your house. But, looking back to your childhood, don't you remember the thrills of that kind of fun? Isn't it worth something to have the children happy in such a wholesome, imaginative way?

This is ideal play. This is creative play. This is the sort of activity the great educators are fostering in children. Let them do these things. Be glad they have it in them to play like that. Use your own imagination a little and you won't feel the horror of a scratch on the furniture and some confusion. Find some spot and some things in the house that they can be a little free with.

We must have lots of consideration for our children, these days. They haven't the space outdoors or in, in which to do as they please and get away from grown folks. Most of them grow up in cramped quarters. They're always under our feet, poor things.

Let's make it as easy for them as we can. Instead of grumbling about the railroad running through the living room, let's lend them the table bell for the locomotive, hop on the train ourselves, go on a long journey, ask the conductor lots of questions, forget our ticket and have to buy one on the train, and be a perfect passenger.

On the Great Day.

It was a perfect June day, although very warm. The church was beautifully decorated and crowded with friends for my wedding. Of course, it was the biggest day of my life and all eyes were on me. I had on the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue.

The "something blue" was a dainty ribbon affair which I had been saving for this occasion. Everything went finely until the minister told us to kneel at the altar. When we did I felt something give way and knew within myself that the "something blue" had failed me.

Imagine my embarrassment in walking out down the long aisle to see the "something blue" trailing along on the floor. H. P.

I am healthy and happy because Mother gives me ACIDINE every night. Doctor told her it would surely stop colds and sick stomachs.
It surely has. I haven't had a cold or a bit of indigestion, and best of all it is just dandy to take. Doctor told Mother and Dad if they over-indulged—whatever that is—it would do them good, too. He said it would kill poisonous acids and prevent sour stomach, which we kids hear about occasionally.

College Girl Asks If It Really Pays to Be Self-Reliant

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Let us take two girls. I am one of them. You may guess which. All right? One of us is a 'femininie technician' of first order. You understand—has practiced the art of being purely feminine, often helplessly feminine, until it is now second nature to her. The other followed the dictates of modern training in self-reliance, good sportsmanship, and independence.

"We both have admirers. But one of us has only admirers; the other, admirers plus devotion. Now, what I want to know is if we two were cast adrift in a boat, say, with one man to rescue us, which would he save first? What I honestly want to know is if a little helplessness isn't an excellent thing in women?

"COLLEGE GIRL."

Was it but a coincidence that the story of Mme. Recamier and Mme. de Stael in the rowboat came to my notice the same day the college girl's letter reached my desk? Or did she also see the story and it suggested the idea of the boat test and a little helplessness?

"If this boat upset," Mme. de Stael is supposed to have said to a famous Frenchman, "which one of us would you save?" Th man replied, "I should save Mme. Recamier, because Mme. de Stael could save herself."

There are moderns of our disconcerting sex who take a real pride in their self-reliance Their independence is very dear to them. And there is no reason, from their conversation at least, to suspect they are not perfectly sincere. But for every real independent you'll find a hundred wavering ones, like "College Girl," stopping to weigh the advantages of a simulated degree of helplessness when men are about.

It would be more in keeping with the modern trend to have female helplessness relegated to the same storage place as bustles and antimacassars and fainting fits, and all the other Vicorian equipment. But until we have attained the dubious Utopia of a manless Eden, until women can get along without men entirely, the unappealing quality of self-reliant independence will raise its head. Or, until the De Staels have schooled themselves to look indifferently upon the scene of stalwart hands stretched out to protect the Recamiers, while they are left to shift for themselves because they are capable of shifting for themselves—there will recur the query of what price independence.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Orange Sizes in Juice.

Many a person who was once wont to take an orange a day, and that more or less as a pure luxury, now takes from three to a dozen a day, or the freshly expressed juice of that number. And there is hardly any way so easy and agreeable of doing something that is "good for your wholesome."

And I am perfectly delighted and willing to say so, with the graphic illustration the orange people have put out to show us just what is what in orange sizes. Probably you have seen it, because interesting things have been written about it for something over a year now. It is a lifelike picture of ten oranges numbered, the number meaning that the oranges in a box will be that quantity. It is another reason for buying oranges straight from the box—the number is on the box—which is my hobby. A hundred wilted or shrunken and blackened oranges is a distressing sight to me, while a fresh orange is such a delightful thing!

This chart of orange sizes, 80 to a box, 100, 126, 150, 176, 200, 216, 252, 288, 324, with the statement—I think some home economic women experimented some time to find this out—that you get the best bargains for your extractor from the 200 to the 224 size—seems to me worth about 100 recipes as "publicity stuff." Judging by my own reactions I say that a dozen recipes—often stale antiques for a most live subject—bore me, especially when they come in by bushels. It takes solid concentration to discover the real worth of a recipe—is it not queer that some women will not read and concentrate on a single one until after they have on their kitchen uniform and have got out their utensils?—and then suppose you have a great deal of work to do, is it not irritating to concentrate and find only something stale or common?

The educational director, in preparing this chart, has done something for the woman who does serious budgeting, for not only are the pictures there but a table showing the cost. My experience does not wholly agree with the statement that the "quality is the same regardless of size," because I love the orange aroma, one of the finest in the world, and I can get it in beautifully marketed large oranges, and not usually with small ones. But the small ones are now by far most abundant.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY FRANK RIDGWAY

Time plays a great part in the quality of sweet corn. It is so important that Lee A. Somers, agriculturist of the state college at Urbana, Ill., ventures the statement that relatively few people have ever tasted sweet corn at its best.

The period when sweet ocrn is at its best is short—that high degree of sweetness is there today and gone within twenty-four to forty-eight hours. It must be caught at the right stage. Corn must be harvested in short order and then used without delay. Mr. Somers says that just as soon as sweet corn is harvested a rapid chemical reaction sets in, with the result that ears pulled more than twenty-four hours have lost most of their sweetness.

He suggests two ways of getting high quality sweet corn from the home garden — either depend on weekly plantings or use three or four different varieties that will mature in close succession. Under the first plan gardeners should start planting early in May and plant a small block once each week until the first of July in the Chicago region.

Under the second plan, which Somers favors, select three or four such varieties as the following: Golden Sunshine, a 65 to 70 day corn; Golden Bantam, a 72 to 76 day corn, and Whipple's Early Yellow, an 80 to 84 day corn. They are all planted at the same time. Plantings of these varieties may be made locally early in May, early in June, and early in July. They will give a continuous suppy of roasting ears until fall. There is plenty of time left for planting sweet corn this far north.

Such white varieties as the following may be used instead of the yellow sweet corn: Mammoth White Cory, Howling Mob, and Stowell's Evergreen, 73, 78, and 85 day varieties, respectively. They produce ears of good quality and are recommended by Somers.

Aching Arms, Legs, Neck and Back—Are They Incurable?

To neuritis and rheumatism nearly a dozen separate causes are assigned. Some yield to medicines—some torture for years. Some may be absolutely incurable. Even the greatest medical authorities in America can't always tell. Our own answer is simply what thousands of users of Mountain Valley Mineral Water have said after visiting the famous health resort at Hot Springs, Ark., or drinking this natural mineral water at home. Let us tell you. There may be cases like yours in our records. Telephone us.

Say goodbye forever to dull breakfasts. Start tomorrow with Heinz Rice Flakes and know how good a good breakfast can be.

Say goodbye, too, to dull days of logginess. For Heinz Rice Flakes [illegible] special health quality in the form of a gentle, natural laxative effect. This comes from a new, patented Heinz process which transforms the natural roughage element of the rice into a pure, edible cellulose.

REAL ESTATE LOANS.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

When President Hoover was Secretary of Commerce he conceived the idea that it would be possible for some institution to make second mortgage loans on the more modest type of home at a very much lower rate than was then being charged on such financing.

Mr. Hoover took the matter up with Mr. Rosenwald, knowing that Mr. Rosenwald, too, is always interested in the welfare of our citizens and particularly the home owner. Mr. Rosenwald, having been one of the moving factors which was responsible for the organization of The Chicago Morris Plan Bank, turned to Mr. Walling, President of The Chicago Morris Plan Bank, and suggested that if the funds were made available would not The Chicago Morris Plan Bank be the logical organization through which to work out the problem suggested by Mr. Hoover and relieve the burden of excessive costs on the modest home owner of Chicago at least.

There is no institution in this city which has a more sympathetic understanding of the intimate family problems than The Chicago Morris Plan Bank. There is no institution in this city which takes greater delight in tackling any job, no matter how hard, if it is going to help Chicago families to get ahead.

Consequently it gave Mr. Walling, President of The Chicago Morris Plan Bank, great delight in undertaking to prove President Hoover's contention that second mortgage rates were too high.

So that is the way we happened to be interested in second mortgages.

For Mr. Rosenwald placed at the disposal of a group of men who are directors of The Chicago Morris Plan Bank, a fund of $1,000,000, to be used in this enterprise. The original rates which we charged were from 40% to 60% lower than the rates charged by other in Chicago, but we found that the rates could be even lower, and they have been reduced three times. Today they are 6% accruing interest and a commission of:

$65.00 per $1,000 for 2 years
$90.00 per $1,000 for 3 years

It is obvious that any thoughtful thrifty home owner in this community who desires second mortgage financing will find our plan well conceived and scientifically constructed. He will also find that our rates are unquestionably the lowest rates in Chicago.

We will be delighted to have you place your problem before us.
